The Heir?

CHAPTER XVI.

E stifled a sigh, and a short word beginning with 'd," which was wrung from him by her heartlessness and indifference, and slammed the door and locked it with unnecessary violence. His heart was sore with her collousness, and he tramped by her side in gloomy silence whereas she hummed and whistled and picked the flowers, or, boy like, wild for fear, flew or ran, with curiosity monstrous that she had not paused in she began to woo him from his churlgood time they had had together.

Such dreadful turns of giddiness came over me that at times I reeled and staggered. These attacks were accompanied with violent pains in the stomach and distension of the liver Spots flitted before my eyes, and to think of eating made me miserable. I was unable to digest my food, lost weight and got sleepless. When so low-spirited and despondent that I despaired of getting well, I read of how Mrs. Holton had been so wonderfully cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and got five boxes at once. To my delight the first box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me relief. I began to eat, sleep and enjoy my meals. The stomach and liver pains passed away.
