MARSHALL BROTHERS.

Stray Shots from St. Lawrence.

The road extending to the Dock is unfinished. This is too bad, as it is a splendid walkway and an excellent carriage road. It also needs a more convenient access to Blue Beach, a place much resorted to in summer time, and there isn't a better breathing spot anywhere. The Cape is such a little distance that with the road finished it would enhance the value of the place. It takes some little energy to mount the Cape, but equipped with good glasses you see St. Pierre and many surrounding settlements. If our members have returned from abroad and should take a fancy to come this way they would see its something that should be attended to.

One of the most popular young men of St. Lawrence, Mr. Rupert Edwards, died here on May 5th. He was a general favourite and his death is regretted by all his friends. We extend our sympathy to his father, brothers and sisters.

The universal sorrow on the death of King Edward is being shown here, flags are at half-mast, and on Monday the C. of E. and Convent Schools were closed.

Mrs. John Young came by Portia from St. Jacques to meet her brother, Rev. Albert Reeves, who has finished his clerical studies in England, and is returning here to visit his parents. He leaves for the North West of Canada shortly where he takes a parish.

The following vessels harbored here during the week:—The British Empire, Capt. Flinder, landed freight and salt; the Clara, Yetman, going to Burtin; the Frances Roberts, Capt. Lake, going to Bay Roberts, coal laden; and the Water Nymph, Captain Petties, from Fortune Bay, fresh fishing.

St. Lawrence, May 12, 1910.

Address and Reply.

Dear Miss Cluett.—We, the pupils of the C. and C. C. School of Belleoram, are very sorry that you have resigned your position as its assistant teacher, which position you have so ably filled the past eleven years. You have been most assiduous in your work during all these years, and without doubt have done your level best towards the advancement of all who have had the good fortune to be placed under your care. We all join in wishing you abundance of happiness and prosperity in your new sphere of labor, which you are about to enter in a foreign land, and we ask your acceptance of the accompanying purse as a slight, though tangible proof of our great esteem and regard for you. Hoping that when you are settled in your new position, so far away from us, you will sometimes let the old school and us, we very truly remain,

Yours most affectionately,

Signed,
Vincent Cluett, Joseph Burdock, Simeon Whately, Gordon Cluett, Clarence Rose, William Rompkey, Zynia Keeping, Herbert Rose, Josiah Rose, Elsie Kearley, Florence Keeping, Susie Flander, Winnie Davage, Emma Brinton, Dorothy Cluett, Minnie Critchell, Susan Holmans, Salome Pearce, Mary Taylor, Sarah Kearley and 100 others.
To Miss Fanny Cluett, Assistant Teacher C. & C. C. School, Belleoram, May 2nd, 1910.

REPLY.

Dear Children.—What has given me greater pleasure than the years I have spent in trying to educate your minds, although I may safely say the work was rather discouraging at times, still I enjoyed working with you. I trust your sorrow for me will not continue long, as no doubt my successor will do her best, which I most assuredly have tried to do during the past eleven years. Dear children, words cannot express my heartfelt thanks to you in wishing me everything that is needed to make my life happy, together with the purse and its contents, towards which you all so beautifully subscribed. How kind of you to think of me in such a way. Rest assured that wherever I roam my thoughts will very often stray back to the old schoolroom and you, among whom I have spent a great part of my life. To you who are working hard for exams, I wish you every success, and, to my own little tots, I wish you every happiness I can think of, and to you all I say, Good-bye until we meet again.
F. CLUETT.

Raps at Tim Shanahan

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—If you will kindly allow me space I should like to take exception to a letter which appeared in your paper on May 13th, under the caption

Shannahan on Poetical Memorials.
As far as I can see that letter had no depth or reason in it, and seemed to be, as the writer stated, merely written with an express desire to shine, a purpose in which it failed miserably. One feature, however, was glaringly apparent, and that is "Shannahan has his full measure of conceit."

I think I am voicing the opinion of many in this community when I say that he struck a decidedly discordant note in coming down so hard upon those who have striven in some small way to pay a tribute to the memory of "Our Departed Dead."
It may be true that they will never become "Scotts" or "Tennysons," yet it is not equally true that Shannahan with his repetitions of the same style of wit can never become a "Mark Twain" 'een though he strive for a century?

Yours truly,
A COMMON EVERY-DAY MAN.

NUNC AUT NUNQUAM.
Rise! poets of every description! Come, arm yourselves now to a man. What! will ye be silent, and listen To insults from Tim Shannahan?

Why! you have your weapon beside you;
The sword cannot equal its might,
So grasp, now, your "quill" or your "fountain"
And fling yourself into the fight.

His "nerve" and "presumption" are galling.
The Public, he says, should be spared,
But not from his "humorous drivel"
Which night after night hath appeared.

Is he so "egotistic" and "foolish"
As to think, in his pride, "silly man."
That nothing is worthy of merit
Unless signed by Tim Shannahan?
St. John's, May 14th.

Bala Haley.

In sunrise hour I have strode,
To seek their stillness daily,
Past the black morass that lines the road,
Toward the pines of Bally Haley.

Reclining upon their needle bed,
The small birds sing gaily,
The widespread branches overhead,
Of the pines of Bally Haley.

With rippling oat fields lovely view,
Queen Nature proud did hail me,
The spotless farm house of Ledrew,
And the pines of Bally Haley.

When Heaven lent its quickening rod,
And sorrows did assail me,
There mortal met immortal God,
Neath the pines of Bally Haley.

No matter where my life's road twin,
Their memory will avail me,
To drink the toast of Auld Lang Syne,
To the pines of Bally Haley.

King George Receives Roosevelt.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
LONDON, May 16.
The feature of the day in London was the arrival of Theo. Roosevelt, who came in from Berlin and will act as special ambassador to represent the U. S. at the funeral of King Edward, which takes place next Friday. Col. Roosevelt was received by King George at Marlborough House, and later with Mrs. Roosevelt visited Buckingham Palace. Apart from the strong interest displayed in the arrival of the former President the day was uneventful. An enormous crowd spent the day patiently watching Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House and the coming and going of Royalty. Another service was held in the Throne Room of the Palace to-night, the last before the removal of the body to-morrow, and all the Palace servants were permitted to attend. Diplomatic representatives of all the Powers called at Dorchester House during the day and left cards for Col. Roosevelt. Ferdinand of Bulgaria has decided to attend the funeral, and will be the ninth King coming to London for that purpose.

Two Men Lost.

North Sydney, May 13.—The Harbor Breton, Newfoundland, fishing schooner "Excelsa," Captain Lewis, which arrived in port last night, reports the loss of two of her crew, Peter Meaney, of Salmonier, and Isaac Redout, of Garnish, Fortune Bay, on Tuesday, on Quero Bank. Meaney and Redout left their vessel that morning to attend to their trawls, but a heavy fog shut down on them and they were unable to find their vessel when they set out to return. Captain Lewis cruised around in the neighborhood for a couple of days, but could find no trace of the men. Although there is a chance that they were picked up by some other vessel, it is feared that both men have perished from cold and exposure. Both were young men, Redout being married and leaves a wife and one child at Garnish.
