The collision between the Canadian Pacific steamer Athabasca and the atecl steamer Pontiac Tuesday, by which the latter was sunk near Sault Ste. Marie, will give rise to one of the most remarkable suits ever tried on the lakes. The Pontiac was insured in the London Lloyds for something like $175,000. The Athabasca carried collision and liability insurance in English companies. The legal fight will thus be made between English underwriters, and will become very interesting. Attorneys have been retained on both sides and preparations made for the battle.

A representative of the Canadian Live Stock Jourial, recently on a tour among some of the western breeders, has the following to say regarding the farms and Shorthorns of Mesers. Simmons & Quirie: "Mr. C. M. Simmons' residence lies seven miles west of Iderton station, on the London, Huron and Bruce branch of the G. T. R. The farm consists of 150 acres of nice lying, fertile land, and at Delaware they have another farm of 370 acres, on which a large number of steers are fed. On arriving at our destination we found a large silo in process of erection, the first we had met with, where a herd of Shorthorns are kept, and which we took to be an indication that others besides the breeders of dairy cattle are alive to the advantages of a silo. On our way to the pastures to view the cattle we saw one of the best fields of mangolds we had come across this year; not only were the plants well advanced but they were also extremely regular, and no vacant spoits were to be seen. The Shorthorns were in excellent condition, and the pasture, notwithstanding the drought, was abundant, another evidence of the fertility of the soil. The well-known Sir Christopher—3877—the silver medal sweepstakes bull at the Industrial in 1887, notwithstanding he is advancing in years, was in good trim and quiet in disposition as of yore. The cows were even in better condition."
