THE SITUATION TO DATE

Provisions of the Bill-Penalties Laid Down by Law-Committee Will Pass Bylaw Tonight.

It looks as though the local bakers are prepared to accept the provisions of the bread bill and furnish a standard 11/2-pound loaf for five cents. Many pans, and are turning out the standard loaves.

As far as the city is concerned nothing in the way of official inspection no other made. will be attempted until after tonight's meeting of the council, when the bylaw which has to be amended to meet the requirements of the new bill will be passed and Inspector McCallum will be named official inspector for the bread.

"I have not looked into the matter at all yet," Mr. McCallum told The Advertiser this afternoon. "I do not know what the bakers are doing. If I apportionment of insurance moneys am appointed bread inspector tonight

18 New Act. The new act provides "that no person shall make bread for sale or offer for sale bread except in loaves weighing 24 or 48 ounces avoirdupois," while "small bread" may be sold in any weight not exceedinig 12 ounces. A penalty of $5 is provided for violation of this enactment, and a penalty of $10 for refusal to admit or interference with any inspector of bread who may be appointed by the munici-

Under the old act bread could be manufactured in 11-2 and 3-pound loaves and fancy bread in loaves of 16 and 20 ounces.

According to the local bakers there will be no increase in price, although, of course, the loaves will, in some cases, be smaller than they have been. Previously, the majority of the bakers sold their bread in 20-ounce loaves at 5 cents, and it is on this plain bread that the consumer will receive benefit. The new law requires that this be either 24 or 48 ounces, and already the bakers have increased it to 24, but have not raised the price. The Interpretation.

In this respect the law has but one interpretation, the bread must be either 24 or 48 ounces, and the bakers say that the latter will not be made unless for a special demand or order. 4.6 In the case of the "small" bread, this is 7.1 where the baker receives the benefit. Under the old law this was made 0.0 usually in 16-ounce loaves, but the 7.0 new law requires that it be made any 31.3 weight under 12 ounces. The law does 19.3 not specify whether the loaves have to be made single or double, and it is on this point that the local bakers are at sea. If it is not a violation of the law sea. If it is not a violation of the law, Norwich officiated, took piace under the bakers can so arrange that their an arch of evergreens, roses and caranother son.
