DR. HENRY MORGAN WAS STRICKEN UNEXPECTEDLY

Leading Authority On Canadian Biography Died Suddenly of Heart Failure.

[Canadian Press.]
Brookville, Dec. 27.—Dr. Henry J. Morgan, one of the greatest authorities on Canadian biography, and the publisher of "Morgan's Men of the Times," died at his home here this morning of heart failure. He was born in Quebec City in 1842.

Mr. Morgan, after graduating from Morin College, received the appointment of private secretary to Hon. Isaac Buchanan, president of the council in the Tache-Macdonald administration. About that time he edited The Industrial Politics of America, embracing Mr. Buchanan's views on protection for home industries. He was also secretary to Hon. Wm. Macdougall, provincial secretary in the Belieu-Macdonald Government. When confederation was accomplished, Dr. Morgan was appointed to a position in the department at Ottawa. In 1888, at the outbreak of the cattle plague in Texas, he was sent to the western states as a commissioner to report upon the nature and extent of the disease. In 1873, Mr. Morgan was placed in charge of the Canadian public records, and proceeding to Montreal he removed to the capital all the historical documents which had been lying in the old vaults since 1849.

Two years later he was appointed keeper of the records, a position he held until his retirement on pension in 1905. Dr. Morgan commenced his literary career when quite young. As early as 1888 he was parliamentary correspondent at Toronto for a number of eastern papers.

RADIUM INSTITUTE WILL EXPERIMENT

Leading Scientists to Conduct Important Research Work.

[Canadian Press.]

Denver, Col., Dec. 27.—Through representatives here of the National Radium Institute it was learned that property was purchased yesterday on which a laboratory will be constructed for research work under the direction of the United States Bureau of Mines. The National Radium Institute is composed of leading scientists in the United States. James A. Douglas, of New York, a mining man, is president of the organization. Colorado was selected by the institute, which is financing the project and the bureau of mines, because of the two large radium-bearing ore deposits located in the state.

It is said the results of the research work will be devoted entirely to the aid of scientists in determining the remedial and curative effects of radium on human life. It is said Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of Johns Hopkins University, will direct the experiments of the laboratory in the use of radium for the cure of cancer.

WATER SUBSIDES

Homeless Fishermen Are Trying to Collect Lost Belongings.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Dec. 27.—Reports from the New Jersey coast early today were that the gale and high tide had subsided and that the fisher folk at Seabright, which felt the worst of yesterday's storm and suffered the most damage, were at work restoring their damaged homes and collecting property which had been floated away by the high waters. Eight fishermen's homes were completely carried away, and many others badly wrecked.

Celebrates Christmas in His 99th Year

Able to enjoy all the delights of the Christmas season, although ninety-nine years of age, Thomas Collins, of Clarendon, spent a happy Christmas day at the home of his son, Mr. Irvin Collins, 274 Piccadilly street. Not only was he able to enjoy all the merriment going on around him, but he contributed greatly to the entertainment of guests who came in during the evening, by singing a number of songs. "He sang many songs that I never heard before," his son told The Advertiser. "They were Christmas ballads of days long gone, but he remembered both words and music perfectly."

Friday, the aged gentleman, ignoring the cold, took a walk down town, and called at The Advertiser office to extend congratulations on the advent of the morning edition. Mr. Collins has been a reader of The London Advertiser since its inception, and will be one of the first to receive a copy of the new edition when it comes from the press on New Year's morning.

GOOD FINANCING NEEDED FOR CITY, DECLARES ALD. RICHTER

Mayorality Candidate at Progressive Meeting Points Out Grave Problems That Face London—Shows That Fair and Searching Criticism Is Necessary in Public Affairs.

Ald. J. G. Richter, candidate for mayor; Mr. E. A. Pocock, of the Central Progressives; ex-Ald. W. J. Underwood, Mr. Thomas Rowe, and Mr. A. E. Silverwood, candidates for the board of education, and Mr. J. C. McDonald, candidate for alderman, were the speakers at the Progressive meeting held in St. George's school Friday night. Mr. George Dickie presided.

Before the meeting was called to order, Ald. Richter was asked to explain what the submission of the Grobb industrial bylaw would cost the city. He pointed out that the advertising would amount to $250 or $300 to be paid for by the city.

People Must Prevail.
Richter said he was glad to avail himself of this opportunity to thank the electors who had accorded him in past elections. If he had made mistakes, they had been mistakes of the head, not of the heart. He always had considered the interests of London in view, although it was a difficult thing for all to see eye to eye. He had been blamed in certain quarters, he said, for his attitude on the electricity question. But the reports submitted on electrification had not, to his mind, borne out the contentions of the supporters of the plan, and therefore he had closely scrutinized and criticized the scheme. But now that the people had declared for electrification, there remained nothing to be done but to carry out the wish. The voice of the people had the right to prevail, and he could say without reservation that if elected as mayor he would see that the people's money should be spent to the very best advantage in electrifying the road.

Good Financing Needed.
He took issue with the statement that had been made by his opponents that every member of the commission should be in favor of electrification. There would be many questions that would require careful consideration. Opposition was essential to good legislation, and competition in trade made for better service. There might be many things in connection with the electrification of the road that should be fully inquired into.

Referring to the board of control, he reviewed how the people had declared for the board of control, and for its successful working. The board of control, he said, was a very big advantage in electrifying the road. There was need of a man with experience in the financing of the city's work, and he pointed out that for many years he had been a member of the finance committee.

The Taxation Question.
Ald. Richter touched on the taxation question. Some were suggesting a land or single tax. It would be impossible, however, to introduce it in a city as large as London and with so large a standing debt. It would require a long time to do his duty without fear or favor.

MEMBERS OF GLOBE STAFF DO HONOR TO ADVERTISER'S NEW ASSOCIATE EDITOR

Mr. A. A. MacIntosh Wished Godspeed and Presented With a Watch—Warm Tributes From Senator Jaffray and Rev. Dr. Macdonald.

Mr. A. A. MacIntosh, for the last three years city editor of the Toronto Globe, and prior to that time for many years managing-editor of the Syracuse Post-Standard, has joined the editorial staff of The Advertiser as associate editor. Mr. MacIntosh was considered, as Dr. Macdonald put it, "one of the strong men of the Globe," and not only was he strong as a journalist, but in the friendships he had made.

The Globe of this morning contains an account of an unusual tribute to Mr. MacIntosh upon his departure, which is as follows: "Officers and members of the entire staff of The Globe met in the office last room yesterday afternoon to pay their tribute of esteem and affection to the city editor, Mr. A. A. MacIntosh, who has resigned his position with The Globe after three years of efficient and valued service to accept the associate editorship of the new morning issue of The London Advertiser. The president of The Globe, Hon. Senator Robert Jaffray, presided, and there were also present Mr. J. F. MacKay, the business manager; Dr. J. A. Macdonald, the managing editor; Mr. Stewart Lyon, the associate editor, and all the members of the staff. The president of the editorial and reportorial staffs of the paper. On behalf of the whole staff, Hon. Mr. Jaffray presented Mr. MacIntosh with a gold watch, suitably engraved, as a memento of the high regard and personal affection in which the departing journalist is held by his Globe colleagues and staff.

A Valued Journalist.
In making the presentation, Senator Jaffray expressed, on behalf of himself and the board of directors, the sincere sense of loss which was felt by The Globe, and alluded to the excellent work which had been accomplished during Mr. MacIntosh's regime. "The Globe," he said, "is losing one of the most valued and useful members of its staff, one who came to us a stranger, but who, in the comparatively short time he has been with us, has won for himself a high place in our affections and admiration. Our heartfelt goodwill goes with him and to the 'Advertiser' under him, and we hope he may always regard himself as a member of The Globe family, a family which now has its distinguished representatives in almost every part of Canada."

"Dr. J. A. Macdonald alluded to the fact that The Globe was losing one of its strong men. The city editor, he had always felt, was 'possessed of all the cardinal virtues' in that 'with the great grace of patience he has borne with the young reporters and the old editors who were ever ready to dogmatize,' and steered the course of the staff along lines of efficiency and harmony."

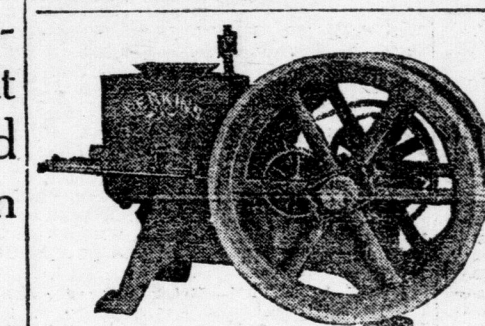

A Constant Reader.
"Mr. Stewart Lyon supplemented the tributes already paid by testimony to the 'wonderful patience with which our departing colleague has met the whims of many members of the staff, and developed good workmanship from what was not infrequently very negligible material.' Under the direction of Mr. MacIntosh, the speaker had no doubt that The Advertiser would become a real force in the newspaper world."

"Mr. William Banks, the news editor, added a cordial expression of his appreciation of the sympathy and understanding which was associated with all the city editor's work, and extolled him upon building up what he believed to be the best staff in Canada.

"Mr. E. B. Jones, on behalf of the staff itself, spoke of the affection and loyalty with which the men under him regarded their city editor, and bespoke their God-speed to him in his new sphere of activity.
"Mr. MacIntosh, who was greeted by hearty applause, stated that he left The Globe with great regret. The Globe spirit in him, however, would never change, and he hoped to remain one of The Globe family, though 'away from home.' He paid generous tribute to the devotion of the staff, and bespoke for his successor, Mr. M. O. Hammond, the hearty co-operation of the 'most efficient, most loyal and most enthusiastic newspaper staff in the Dominion of Canada.'"

NEARLY DROWNED

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Lechworth, Dec. 27.—Frank Bogues, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bogues, while crossing the river near the Carding Mill, broke through the ice, and was rescued with difficulty by R. T. Douglas, who happened along just at the time. Had Mr. Douglas not been near, without doubt a drowning would have occurred. Frank's little sister, Margaret, was drowned in the same river only a couple of months ago.
