Says Tiser Wears Out.

Pte. John S. Cummings of the 70th Battalion, now on overseas service, writes as follows:

There is only one thing about The Tizer—it wears out before everyone has had a look.

WILL ASK "LONDON'S OWN" FOR FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Major A. E. Somerville of the 135th Battalion, made a plea to the council last night for a grant towards the purchase of a field kitchen for the battalion. The matter was referred to the board of control and finance committee with power.

He explained that the sum of $3,600 was set aside for recruiting purposes in London and the 135th Battalion had received no aid, although nearly 600 men of the battalion were Londoners, and had spent the winter here. The regiment had received little financial assistance and the cost of recruiting was considerable. He thought the council could give something.

Ald. Burdick wanted to know how it was that the 142nd Battalion had received all of the $3,000 voted, and none of the other units recruiting in London had been given any financial assistance whatever. He did not think this fair.

The bylaw, finally passing $3,000 to the 142nd Battalion, which has been practically all expended, was laid over. Controller White thought that a statement should be received showing where the money went, before the council acted on the matter.

The Recruiting Association and the 142nd Battalion will be asked to furnish it.

"SHOCKING" EXPERIENCES

Camp Phone Service Decidedly Thrilling These Days.

The condition of the telephone system at the various training camps could be described as "shocking." Several days of wet weather have dampened the ground even inside the tents and transformed it into an excellent conductor for electric currents.

The unwary who stand on the ground and grasp the telephone firmly in the hand experience a decidedly "thrilling" adventure. A few lessons, however, soon teach them to sit on the desk or to stand upon some non-conductor before beginning telephone conversations. A few days of dry weather will of course remedy this, as it is really through no fault of the installation or wiring.

SPORTS ON THEIR OWN

Distance Prevents Boys at Francis Having Inter-Camp Matches.

Francis Camp, owing to its situation, is not always able to participate with the camps nearer the city in sports after drill hours, but the men there are arranging a few programs on their own account. This week a quoiting competition will be held. Capt. Pierce and J. W. McCallum have already received a few entries from the boys of the 168th and 186th Battalions, and expect many more if the sport proves popular. The quoits have already been purchased, and there are plenty of places near camp quarters which will make excellent quoiting grounds.

SPRING MEDICINE

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Great Blood Purifier, Is the Best.

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate.

It is that rundown condition of the system that results from impure, impoverished, devitalized blood.

It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old reliable family medicine purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood. It is an all-the-year-round alterative and tonic, and is absolutely the best spring medicine.

Get your blood in good condition at once—now. Delay may be dangerous. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist on having it, for nothing else can take its place.

MILITARY "Y" OPENS BRANCH TO SERVE FAR-NORTH CAMP

Tent at Francis a Popular Centre for Men.

SPORT AND SOCIAL CENTRE

The Sunday Night Religious Services Will Be a Feature, Too.

A branch of the Military Y. M. C. A. has been established at Francis Camp, and is proving useful to the men who are so far removed from the city and car service. A tent 40x80 has been erected. Tables and benches have been installed, and during the daytime it is used as a writing-room by the men off duty. The system of supplying writing material is much the same as used at the main branch of the institution on Oxford street.

At night this forms the chief centre of amusement for the men of the 168th and 186th Battalions and the quarters are always crowded. The concerts are for the most part impromptu, the talent being supplied by men from the ranks. Quite frequently in the summer, a special speaker will be obtained.

On Sunday nights a service is always held. These are now well attended, and are expected to be more so as the summer progresses. When the service opened on last Sunday night there were only six present, but at the conclusion the tent was practically filled.

This also forms the headquarters for the discussion of field sports and the organization of teams. The organization has given hearty co-operation in almost every athletic movement started among the soldiers since the outbreak of the war, and has, in fact, originated many of them.

Reading material, such as magazines and other monthly publications, can be obtained at the tent, but the supply is somewhat limited at present. This will be remedied as soon as possible.

The work here is in charge of Capt. Pierce and J. W. McCallum.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE CAMPS

TRANSFER TO BATTERY.

Sappers A. Hanton, H. M. Reed and C. Reardon of the overseas detachment, 7th Field Company, Canadian Engineers, have been transferred to the 63rd Depot Battery. The transfer went into effect on Monday.

IN SERVICE AGAIN.

Pte. Hardy Johnston of the 33rd Battalion, having been found by a medical board, fit for further service, has been transferred to the 63rd Battery.

Pte. J. T. Jarrott of the 161st Battalion has been transferred to the Western University (No. 10) Stationary Hospital.

OFFICERS FOR TOMORROW.

Officers for the day for Wednesday will be:

Carling Camp—Field officer, Major A. G. Calder, 142nd Battalion. Medical officer, Major J. W. Shaw, 161st.

North Camp—Major R. S. Hays, 161st Battalion; medical officer, Capt. R. D. Rankin, 110th.

East Camp.—Major R. G. Stewart, 149th Battalion; medical officer, Capt. J. F. James, 149th.

GETS HIS COMMISSION.

Sergt. Charles F. Hamlyn of the 168th (Oxford) Battalion, has been discharged to accept a commission in the same battalion. Lieut. Hamlyn was city editor of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, and formerly was editor of the Woodstock Express.

LONDONERS SELECTED.

E. A. Stephens and George Van Wyck Laughton, lieutenants of the 7th Regiment Fusiliers, have been selected in the third draft made by the Toronto University Corps, for British army commissions in the imperial service.

Mr. Stephens is the son of Rev. W. A. Stephens of the China Inland Mission, and Mr. Laughton, up to recently, lived in Parkhill.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS PREFER EUROPE TO MEXICAN CAMPAIGN

Nine Ex-U. S. Army Men Join in Windsor Because Pay Is Highter—Woodstock and Stratford To Have Soldiers' Visit.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINDSOR, June 19. — Enlistment went on briskly at the various recruiting depots here today, 20 men in all being attested out of about 50 applications.

Nine of those who joined today are former members of the United States army.

Questioned by recruiting sergeants as to why they were not preparing to go to the Mexican frontier, the majority of them replied that the rate of pay for the soldier in the ranks of Canada's army was so much better than in Uncle Sam's service that there was no choice.

According to one ex-soldier, a sergeant in the American army receives approximately $2 per month less than is paid to a private in a Canadian overseas battalion.

110TH BATTALION TO VISIT STRATFORD.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

STRATFORD, June 19. — The city council tonight received a letter from Lieut.-Col. Delamere, of the 110th Battalion, accepting the council's invitation to have the battalion visit the city July 1.

A special committee was appointed to arrange the details of entertainment and a program for the day.

PRESENTATIONS MADE TO BOYS OF NILESTOWN

[Special to The Advertiser.]

NILESTOWN, June 19—An honorary banquet and presentation was tendered the boys who enlisted from here Friday night at the Masonic Hall. The chairman was Wm. Cochran and he introduced a splendid program of patriotic songs and instrumentals. The young ladies of the town presented safety razors and Red Letter Testaments to the soldiers. Rations of ice cream, cake and sandwiches were served. After singing the National Anthem, with warm handclasps and adieus, the company dispersed with assurances that the home fires would be kept burning.

KENT BATTALION STILL ADDS MEN.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CHATHAM, June 19.—Victor Cooper of Cedar Springs and James Johnson of Wallaceburg reported with the Kent battalion this morning.

During the past week the recruiting officers have been enabled to reach the outlying parts of the county in a personal canvas of young men, which is thought will be productive of good results.

G. Marcel Andre made a stirring appeal in French for recruits at a patriotic rally, held in Paincourt yesterday afternoon.

FIELD DAY JULY 1 SIMCOE ATTRACTION.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

SIMCOE, June 19.—The 133rd Battalion is preparing for a field day on July 1, when the residents of Norfolk will be treated to a series of military manoeuvres that will be of great interest to them.

The scout, machine gun and signalling sections are preparing a program. Various sports will be part of the entertainment and a dance at night will conclude the pleasure of the day.

WOODSTOCK ALL AGOG IN ANTICIPATION OF BIG MILITARY EVENT.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WOODSTOCK, June 19.—Full arrangements are completed by Col. McMullen of the 168th Battalion for the visit of the battalion to Woodstock on July 1 to receive the colors.

The battalion will leave Camp Francis, London, on Thursday, June 22, and will march to Ingersoll that day, remaining over night. On Friday they will continue on to Woodstock, arriving here early in the afternoon. On Saturday, July 1, at 2:30, the colors will be presented. This will be followed by military manoeuvres and a band concert.

Col. McMullen expects some prominent military men present on the occasion, which promises to be one of the biggest day's doings ever held in Woodstock.

AMERICANS SIGNING WELL IN IMPERIAL CITY.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

SARNIA, June 19.—Lieut. Scott-Huntington, the recruiting officer of the American Legion here, is having good success in getting men to join.

The officer is assisted by sergeants and every likely American is given the opportunity to put down his name.

Quite a large number of soldiers from the 149th and other units at London were visiting friends and relatives in Sarnia over the week-end.

99TH'S QUARTERS ON TRANSPORT WELL APPOINTED AND COMFORTABLE

Commander Became Brigadier of 7,000 Troops That Crossed Atlantic on Great Liner.

[Another Chapter of the Essex County Battalion's Trip History.]

This is the second instalment of the history of the 99th Battalion's trip from London to the Atlantic seaboard. The first appeared in The Advertiser of yesterday. Tomorrow the final instalment of W. T. Gregory's history will be published. Mr. Gregory, the Leamington tobacco magnate, who has taken such an interest in the recruiting campaign throughout Western Ontario, accompanied the Essex County unit on its trip from London. His account of the journey is a most interesting one.

By W. T. Gregory.

A place of much interest to me was the historic Eastern Passage through which, in the days of the American Civil War, the Confederate cruiser Tallahassee made her daring escape from a squadron of "Yankee" men-o'-war.

The scenery was unsurpassed, the train service was nowhere to be excelled, but none of these things were hardly considered. The reason I had a good time was because I was with the 99th, and I think every man on the trains felt the same way.

At 11 o'clock Tuesday night after all had retired, an officer boarded the train and ordered "kit inspection," and just here I want to state emphatically that whenever the military authorities are in doubt, it is always in order to have "kit inspection." To my certain knowledge kits were inspected seven times in less than three days, a few of them being completely worn out by such rigid inspection.

We detrained at 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning and Sergt. Davis was in line, as the first man to hit the gangplank of the world's greatest steamship, and in thirty minutes the 99th were safely stowed away in one of the Leviathans of the deep, whose length was 890 feet, breadth 92 feet and height 70 feet. It cost to build $10,000,000, consumes 300 tons of coal daily in her 29 boilers, has seven decks and a carrying capacity of 8,000 men and equipment. The 95th was first aboard, then the 99th and 88th, 89th and 90th, in order named, then the 57th and two batteries of siege artillery and a detached body of reinforcements.

Col. Welch as Brigadier.

The western regiments were composed of good husky chaps, all ready for a feast, a fight or a frolic, but all had to take off their hats to the 99th, for where Brig.-Gen. Welch sits on this floating palace "is the head of the table." He being the senior officer automatically became the brigadier commanding the 7,000 men on board. Dr. Brien became medical director, and Major Allan Prince became O. C. of the 99th.

Wednesday and Thursday were spent in port, and all officers and men were busy getting the organization complete, for there were thousands of things to do. Adjutant Baxter of the 99th, took over all brigade work and he was soon as busy as a family of Swiss bell ringers while giving their vocation.

No One Allowed Ashore.

Soon things were in "ship shape," every guard at his post, and you must remember that it takes a thousand men at all times for guard and fatigue duty, these being taken from the several battalions that compose the ship's company. After once being on board, no human being was allowed ashore, although Major Tolmie escaped for a short time, and Capt. Cheyne went ashore to get something for an "aching tooth." I think he got "it" pulled. No telegrams were allowed to be sent, no letters mailed, and for the first time since I learned to read, and that was a long time ago, I was forced to spend three days without seeing a newspaper.

Some of the boys of the 99th drew splendid staterooms, while others were soon seen stretching their hammocks and learning to make the high dive in good sailor-like style.

Two thousand men can use the decks at one time for drill exercise, etc., and there is a splendid swimming pool on board for those who are fond of this pastime.

Messenger Gets Lost.

The ship, so to speak, presented the appearance of a beehive, as thousands of soldiers were continually darting in and out of every door, gangway, hatchway and compartment of the ship, trying to get acquainted with the "lay of the land." Harry Mustard, who was appointed an orderly for the brigade orderly room, to carry messages, got lost seven times in ten minutes, and when I last saw him he was asking someone to tell him on "what street Col. Munro of the 90th Battalion could be found." If the ship is still sailing, I think Harry has yet a few undelivered orders. The ship has twelve water-tight compartments of which any five will keep her above water.

Quartered in State.

General Welch occupied rooms set apart and ear-marked. "For the military commander of the ship." They consisted of a beautiful suite very appropriately named. "The Empire" suite, finished in onyx style and gorgeously decorated, electrically-heated fireplaces, a complete library, carpets a foot thick, telephones, speaking tubes, registers for hot and cold air, chairs costing a small size fortune, and other furniture in keeping with the luxurious surroundings. Adjoining was the Louis the Fifteenth and Louis the Sixteenth rooms, occupied by Colonel Prince and Brigade Adjutant Baxter. Then came the splendid apartment of that prince of good fellows, Dr. Brien and Capt. Browning. In the order named came Major Reid, Major Tolmie, Lieuts. Beers and Straith, Mothersill and Shepherd, Morton and Greisenger, Capts. Morton and Smyter, Lieuts. Smith and Pike, Robinson and Bates, Dickinson and McGee. On the other aisle were located Lieuts. Ross, Capt. Cheyne and Capt. Weir, Capt. Chrystal, Capt. Plews, Capt. Ambery, Capt. Aytoun and Capt. Moncrieff, Asst. Adjutant Hutton was with Capt. Baxter, Lieuts. Hoar and Wilson were quartered together, and Lieuts. Millard, Moran, Cock and Gidley all had rooms with "names." There was the Dutch room, and the Georgian room, and the Italian renaisance room, and the Modern room, and room for everybody on "that good old boat."

Major, or rather Colonel Prince, who is a prince by nature as well as by name, shared his princely apartments with the writer, and it was the greatest temptation of my life not to accept his pressing invitation to continue to do so until foreign shores were touched.

Has Capable M. O.

Capt. Brien, M. O. of the 99th, was right on the job day and night, and I spent so much time with him that on several occasions I was taken for his assistant. The 99th Battalion is fortunate, to say the least, in having such a careful, painstaking and thoroughly competent medical officer as he has proved himself to be. If any of the men have cinder in their eye, toothache or any minor ailment, he is always ready and willing to respond any hour, day or night. He came so near persuading me to go with him across the pond that I came to the conclusion that if he tried he could easily persuade Sir Wilfrid Laurier to vote the Conservative ticket, so thoroughly likable is his personality, which trait I believe is pretty well distributed throughout the entire personnel of the 36 officers who compose the staff.

The first-class dining-room was closed and used as an arsenal, and the ball room has been put out of commission. The smoking-room is finished in mahogany, inlaid with mother of pearl, and there are shops and recreation rooms, and reading-rooms galore.
