

BROCK. Our foes are massing at Niagara,
And I must meet them; Colonel Proctor stays
In this command.

TECUMSEH. I know him very well.
My brother's friend says "go!" but you say "come!"

BROCK. (Aside.) How am I straitened for good officers!
(To TECUMSEH.) Friend Proctor's prudence may be useful here.

TECUMSEH. I do misgive me o'er my brother's friend.

Re-enter NICHOL and PROCTOR.

NICHOL. Large stores, munitions, public properties;
A rare account of needed stands of arms;
A brig of war, and military chest—
These are the spoils of bloodless victory.

[Handing GENERAL BROCK a list

BROCK. Naught is much prized that is not won with blood!

GLEGG. And yet I would old England's victories
Were all as bloodless, ample and complete.

MACDONELL. O, 'tis a victory fitly gained this day;
Great turning point of our Canadian fortunes!
This day forever should red-lettered stand
In all the calendars of our loved land!

[Exeunt.
