The Fugitive Blacksmith; or Events
in the History of Dr. PENNINGTON, Pastor of a Presbyterian Church, New York. The Eleventh Thousand.

"This entrancing narrative * * * We trust that thousands of our readers will procure the volume, which is published at a mere trifle—much too cheap to accomplish the purpose for which, in part or mainly, it has been published—the raising a fund to remove the pecuniary burdens which press on the author's flock. Nothing short of the sale of Fifty or Sixty Thousand Copies could be at all availing for this object. * * * We very cordially recommend him and his narrative to the kind consideration of our readers."—Christian Witness.

Ariconia; or, Recollections of Wyefide. A Poem. By JOHN HUTCHINSON.

"Very beautiful, Cowper-like. Reminds one of a limpid stream running among flowers. Mr. Hutchinson need not be afraid to listen to his muse again. These twenty pages prove that she is no sham."—Christian Weekly News.

"We were much pleased with the perusal of this unpretending little poem. There is no great originality in the production, but it is written with much freshness and vigour. It is a pleasing tributary lay of affection from the author to his boyhood's home."—Brighton Gazette.

Post 8vo., cloth, price 5s.,

Juvenile Depravity. The Prize
Essay on Juvenile Depravity. By the Rev. H.
WORSLEY, A.M., Easton Rectory, Suffolk.

"The author admirably uses his statistics, and shows an intimate knowledge of human nature in its multifarious circumstances."—Christian Examiner.
