book-debts valued at $350, besides an interest in some real estate. He has made no offer of settlement, and will probably find it difficult to effect a compromise.

A LITTLE over three years ago T. H. Stone sold his farm in the Eastern Townships, and with part of the proceeds stocked a general store at Sweetsburg, Que., where he entered upon what no doubt he contemplated a successful mercantile career. Procuring credit he succeeded for a time, but in October last he asked an extension from some of his Montreal creditors, then representing the value of his assets in stock, book-debts and real estate at $6,500, and his liabilities at $1,400; now he has suspended, and the liabilities turn out to be about $5,000, with assets of only $2,500, and nearly altogether in stock. At a meeting of creditors, of which the list is long, in this city, last Wednesday, Mr. S. C. Fatt was appointed to investigate the estate and report at another meeting to-day. Contrary to a report circulated by an evening contemporary, the creditors do not look favorably upon the state of affairs, which are freely commented upon. His habits have had a good deal to do with Mr. Stone's failure—agency reports to the contrary notwithstanding; and it is further stated that he is suspected of some irregularities: Some of the creditors are curious to know what has become of the property for which he paid $2,000 out of the proceeds from the sale of his farm, and which in October last he valued at $2,500.

T. J. CARROLL & Co., wholesale jewellers, Hamilton, Ont., have been getting some gratuitous advertising of late, owing to a suspicion in the minds of the Custom House Officers in that city that some contraband dealings could be proved by the books of the firm. Mr. Carroll is said to be a skillful workman in the precious metals. Prior to last July, when the firm started, he had been employed by a small local house in the same line on John street. His partner, Dr. E. H. Dillabough, formerly of Caledonia, is reported worth considerable means, and is said to have withdrawn some $3,000 out of another concern which he put into the new business. The firm have been buying mostly for cash, and claim that the $3,000 worth of stock over and above duty-paid goods, as shown by their books to have been purchased had been re-sold in the United States. A correspondent writes: "Lately they were obliged to suspend as the Custom House authorities have entered into possession of their goods. They claim they do not owe anything, and say a settlement is being made."—Another report states that the goods have been released, but that the books are retained, pending further investigation and inquiry.
