s, upon Experise conformed,

2).

tunities Petite by Dr. adding per wall celeton, viously e of the nt from vith the such a ad been s, ascerof the rank in satisfacde here ority in

Eozoön
arble of
Mr.
Rupert
sarcode
n, there
rill thus,
rentian,
sides of sts as a l appear
ure have

notices

contributed largely to the formation of limestone, since Prof. Jones remarks that he has detected its structure abundantly in chips of 'Irish-green' marble from marble-works in London; and Mr. Sanford represents a somewhat extensive bed of limestone in the Binabola Mountains, as abounding in it throughout, though not always in a good state of preservation.

J. W. D.