

BRITISH MONEY FOR CANADA'S FACTORIES

Prominent Visitor to Toronto Predicts It Will Flow Here in Increasing Quantities. SITUATION IMPROVING Is Opinion of Sir William Wiseman Who Represents Large British Investors.

In his apartments at the Queen's Hotel, Sir William Wiseman, Bt., of London, England, discussed financial conditions, Canadian investments and the future prosperity of the Dominion with a group of representative visitors yesterday. Sir William is a member of the House of Lords and the British Empire and his firm has large interests throughout Canada in industrial and land.

"The financial stringency at this time," said he, "is not local to the Dominion, but is world wide in its character, affecting alike European countries, Argentina and the United States. The depression is gradually passing and before a great while the money market will resume a normal or even active condition. I have been in Canada since August looking over our holdings, and my business has taken me to the Pacific coast, from which section I am now en route home. We are interested in practically all of the larger cities from Montreal to Vancouver, and I find matters in a most satisfactory condition."

"Heretofore, English money has gone into Canadian lands and municipal securities," said Sir William, "but my opinion is the future will see larger sums placed on the building of plants and manufacturing enterprises. The development of the country, the labor market, the laws affecting manufacturing, the cheap fuel and power will make manufacturing investments the best on the market and English capital will be slow in appreciating that fact."

"There is one phase of the situation here to which it is well to call attention, and that is the over indebtedness of the small but ambitious towns of less than 100,000 population. In their eagerness to build cities, officials of these smaller municipalities, backed up by the citizens in most instances, become extravagant in improvements, and bond issues following in rapid succession for public institutions and betterment are not only far in advance of the real needs, but are very expensive, luxurious and a great burden to the taxpayers. These improvements made in course of construction, but in the depression which is now being experienced, are more than met by those who have to meet the city's obligations. It seems to me there should be some kind of centralized control for such matters in order that a restraint might be put on the small townships but only needed improvements.

"The growth of the east end of the city has been creating a problem for some time to those who have charge of the spiritual welfare of the inhabitants of that section. The solution towards the solving of the problem has been made by Archbishop O'Neil, who announced yesterday the formation of a new parish in the east end which will embrace the rapidly growing section of the city north of Danforth avenue.

The new parish will be carved out of territory that has hitherto been in charge of Father O'Donnell, of St. Anne's Church, and Father Bohlander of St. Joseph's. The new parish will embrace portions of each of these parishes and will extend north from Danforth avenue to the northerly limits of the city.

The archbishop did not announce who would be appointed to the charge of the new parish, but the church will be erected on a site that has been secured on the northwest corner of Pulton and Carlaw avenues. The organization of the parish will start immediately and the first mass will be said about Oct. 1, the Danforth avenue separate school being used temporarily for a church and centre of the parish until the new church is completed. There are about 200 Catholic families in the new parish.

One of the jobs he was put on was to lay walks around the home of Mrs. Mary Collins Boyle, a wealthy widow, who lived alone in a large house with no other company but servants, not including a chauffeur. She had given him a job on friendly terms with her relatives. Schauer went up to the house on several occasions for a drink of water and was acquainted with the widow. She finally gave him employment as boiler and gardener. One day after he had been there several weeks, Schauer and the old woman went to Geneva and were married. Before going, she drew out a large sum of money which she had in the bank, telling the cashier she was going to Michigan. Nine days after her marriage she hired a man's romance did not appeal to woman's relatives.
