Whitney Stable Leads List of Winning Owners

Own Studs-Ross Next.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Harry Payne Whitney heads the list of winning owners of the 1920 racing season. His winnings will amount to $300,000 for the year. In winning the high turf honors this year, Whitney will displace Commander J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, who was the leader last season and the season before, in spite of the fact that the Ross horses won more money this year than they did last year. Ross stables finishes the year with an aggregate of a little under a quarter of a million dollars in earnings.

Mr. Whitney has the satisfaction of knowing that the horses that have put him on top are homebred. Not one of them came from an outside establishment. They are the products of the stud his distinguished father got together in the late ninettes and in the first few years of the present century. The Whitney stud is one of the greatest thoroughbred studs in the country today. It has so far outgrown the productive capacity of Brookdale Farm, which is in Monmouth County, New Jersey, that it has been necessary to establish Peter Pan and Broomstick and many of his mares on one of the sub-divisions of the Elmendorf Farm of the late James Ben Ali Haggin in

And the credit for the remarkable winnings of the Whitney stable must go to James Rowe, the trainer. In the old days, when he was with James R. Keene, Rowe did no more than train horses. But since 1913 Rowe has been the director of both the breeding and the racing enterprises of Harry Payne Whitney. Beat Chesley Avenue in Last

This was agreed, and the date, December 19, was decided upon. The collection will go to the widow of the late Tom Watson of Toronto, a Dominin Association official.

Girls' Soccer Teams Will Be Seen in Action Here Next Year If Plans Go Through

The nucleus for one girls' soccer team will be found amongst some Scotch nurses, now at the Ontario Hospital, who played the game in Scotland before coming out here. Many Canadian girls also who have taken up basketball have had soccer in mind as a summer game when basketball is more or less off the stage.

Any pessimist who thinks the girls will have to be bribed with mirrored dressingrooms and a fresh powder puff after every period to be drawn into soccer, ought to be locked up with a landlord for a whole night. The way in which basketball and other sports have been recently taken up by the girls of London show that all they need is proper encouragement, and they'll do the rest themselves.

GOLDIE PRODGER AS PILOT OF TIGER PROS LOOKS CERTAINTY

Hamilton Club Has Local Man's Terms and Will Likely Sign Him.

Despite the fact that the C. H. A. have announced the signing of Goldle Prodger, it is altogether likely that the local pro star will be found managing the Hamilton team this winter.

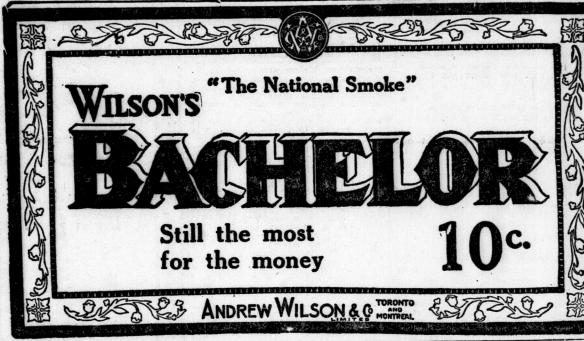

Prodger was in telephone communication with Hamilton yesterday, and they have his price, which apparently didn't cause any gasps of astonishment at the other end of the wire, though at this season's rate is it likely to be rather fancy.

The local boy has been persistently connected with the Hamilton club, even before he was traded there from Canadiens. However, as trades count more on paper than they do in reality, in prohockey circles, Prodger is just about free to do what he likes and go where he gets the highest remuneration.

If Hamilton puts him at the head of their team they won't be going far wrong. Besides getting beettr on the ice every year "Old Forked Lightning" knows a lot about both the game and handling of men, and if he is given even fair material, should be able to produce a winner.
