VETERANS TO TAKE OVER FRUIT FARM EARLY IN SPRING

Three-Hundred-Acre Proposition To Be Run by Ex-Service Men.

It is expected that the great 300-acre fruit farm located in the vicinity of St. Catharines which has been taken over by returned soldiers' organizations in Canada as a home and recreation ground for returned men in ill-health, will be in operation in the early spring, according to J. A. Glennie, secretary of the Army and Navy Veterans in this city. What was at first considered a $75,000 roposition one year ago has developed into a $300,000 undertaking. Despite this increase the veterans in all parts of the country are more confident than ever that the scheme will be a decided success. Already a large sum of money has been subscribed and yet no campaign Many big men, in military circles and

Many big men, in military circles and in the Government, are interested in the scheme, according to Mr. Glennie, Although little has been heard of the veterans' undertaking in London and Western Ontario up to the present time, Mr. Glennie said that a great deal will be heard of it in the near future. The scheme is to be well advertised and a great campaign will be waged to raise the balance of the money required.

Among others interested, is the Hon. H. R. Grant, provincial minister of education. To help the cause along the minister has promised that a collection day will be held in all the schools of the province. Although it is not expected that a great deal of money will be raised from this source, it is thought that it will be a splendid means of bringing the proposition before the public.

The farm will be a place where men in The farm will be a place where men in ill-health due to military service can convalence without being subject to red tape and other official annoyances. It will also serve as a home for ex-solders in declining years, and a place of rest for men who feel in need of a change. The men who are able will be expected to work, and they will be paid for what they do. If they do not work, and if they have the means they will pay board. If some are unable to pay some means will be found to support them.

The directors' report for 1920 was then submitted.

The directors report for 1920 was then submitted.

The season opened with fine weather, said the report. Fall grains looked promising, hay was coming through in good shape, but during May cold backward weather developed, with the result that hay crops suffered in most localities. By June, however, general rains came on, which brought on a marvelous growth and abundant yield of all other farm crops.

The Labor Situation.

cheese prices were excellent utility about September, when, owing to adverse exchange rates and the general trend of lowering prices a decline in prices took place but the statistical position is sound and the future of the basic branch of the dairy industry looks good.

Butter prices were high during the early part of the season, but began to decline somewhat when the exportable outlet was curtailed through the distributing factor of exchange rates and the continued control of imports in England. Indications, however, point to a future export trade in Canadian butter and warns us to exercise every precaution to manufacture a high-grade standardized product which will be standardized product which will be equally acceptable in the home market. The directors again congratulated cheesemakers upon the number of prizes won at the Canadian National and other exhibitions. The silver cup for highest-scoring cheese at the Toronto Exhibi-tion was won by W. Krots, Palmerston. Buttermakers also made an exception-Ald. P. J. Watt is not a representative of the city council to the Chuidren's Aid Society. An error credited him with this honor, which really belongs to Ald. W. J. Boss. As a result, Ald. Watt's phone has been one of the busiest in the city.

"People are calling me up all the time to talk to me about babies." he declared. "I like babies all right, but as I have nothing to do with the society there is no use in me holding long conversations with the people and I would like to make it known that I am not the man they want."

elimination of scrub sires, the directors recommend a more vigorous co-operation policy between the federal and provincial dairy branches in formulating plans to stimulate a greater interest if possible in cow-testing work, believing this to be a means of lowering the cost of milk production and increasing the net profits of the producer.

Lower Prices.

Indications point to a period of lower prices, but a continued export demand for dairy products assures the future of the dairy industry. Dairymen must, however, keep before them the question of quality improvement and continue in the future, as in the past, to work for high-grade products. The production and manufacture of dairy products is a specialized technical branch of agriculture and every year brings up new problems. Dairymen must avail themselves of every assistance which science may offer to improve their methods and to meet every changing condition.

In Memoriam.

It is with the sincerest regret that the directors record the death of one of their past presidents and a director of this association for many years, the late Robt. Johnston of Woodstock.

It is also with the most sincere regret that they record the death of one of the former dairy instructors, the late Mr. E. N. Hart, London. Sincere regret was also expressed in Fights."

By unanimous vote, the Army and Navy Veterans of this city decided Tuesday night, to withdraw their delegates from the Central Veterans' Council. This action will in all probability spell the death knell of the council for a like action was taken by the G. W. V. A. meeting held last night. The G. A. U. V. is now the only soldier organization in this city supporting the council.

The Veterans' Council was formed The Veterans' Council was formed one year ago as a common ground where problems affecting returned soldiers in this city could be discussed by five representatives from each of the three organizations. Recommendations were then taken to be sent back to each of the organizations.

Ex-President J. Rawlings, who has been a delegate to the council since its inception, told the meeting that he council had falled utterly in work it was supposed to do. For this reason he moved and strongly recommended that the Army and Navy Veterans cease to send delegates to the council for the time being.

He said that the sooner the organization got away from the council the
