

This Skin Peeler All the Rage in Society

(From Society World). There is a growing tendency among women of culture and fashion to pay more attention to hygienic means of preserving their charms. The advent of macerated wax has been largely responsible for this. This remarkable substance produces complexion so natural in appearance, so magnificently beautiful, artificial complexion are no longer desired. Instead of "doctoring" an offensive skin, the skin is peeled off. The wax peels the skin so gradually, in such fine particles as to cause no discomfort. The freckles, younger skin beneath, wholly in evidence within a week or two, is lily white, satiny soft and smooth. It's not a patched-over complexion, but a brand new one. That's why macerated wax has become such a rage among society folk. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off in morning. All druggists have it; one ounce will do.

Another hygienic treatment now much in favor is one to remove wrinkles, made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered azoicite in 1/2 pint witch hazel. Used as a wash to the face like magic.

LIGHT HEARTS We have our share of sorrows, But rather more of fun. Some dark days, but more mornings All golden with the sun. We are the friends of laughter, The enemies of tears, Our hopes are ever A'er The gladness of the years. Hate never comes to harm us; Love is our constant guest To comfort, cheer and charm us; And make each moment best. Our dreams are always rosy And come true many times; Our hearts are never jowy Because they beat with rimes. We care not when December May come—June tarries yet! 'Tis joy that we remember, And grieve that we forget! —Frank Dempster Sherman, in Youth's Companion.

DAUGHTER OF WOODROW WILSON WORKS FOR MOTHERS' PENSION

She Says It Pays to Hire Poor Mothers to Take Care of Their Own Children

JESSIE WOODROW WILSON

(Times Special Correspondent). Princeton, N. J., Feb. 13.—Mother's pension has a new champion in Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the president-elect, and her father himself shares her enthusiasm for the reform. The idea of paying poor mothers out of the public treasury, enough to enable them to take care of their children at home, instead of sending them to charitable institutions, is not a new one to Miss Wilson. Her own experience, she explained, had driven her to accept the same remedy for broken and ruined families that Mr. Neil has been preaching throughout the length and breadth of the land. For three years Miss Wilson has been a social worker in a settlement home in the Kensington mall district of Philadelphia, and she has made a thorough study of the homes of the weavers and other workers. It is a common thing in this district for mothers to leave their children to be cared for at free day nurseries, while they themselves are working to earn a living for the children. Miss Wilson, after investigating the cost of these day nurseries, discovered the astonishing fact that if the money given by charitable people to support the nurseries had been given to the mothers, they need not have had to go out to work and leave their children alone all day—they could have stayed at home and taken care of their children.

the people lived decently. It was calculated that for every death there were on an average twenty days' illness, and every day of sickness meant a loss of one working day. This showed that each preventable death was a very heavy loss to the employers of labor. Prior to Mr. Newman's speech the Duke of Connaught, responding to the address of welcome made by Royal Ewing, president of the club, said that the subject of Mr. Newman's speech was one of the greatest importance. He was aware of the excellent work done by the Canadian Club, and took a great interest in them. Both himself and the Duchess were grateful for the sympathy extended to them throughout the dominion at this time of anxiety, and were both much attached to Canada. He hoped that he would not be detained long on leave in England and looked forward to being in Canada again next summer.

HE FILLED THE BILL. A stranger when dining at a foreign hotel was accosted by a detective, who said to him: "Beg your pardon; we are in search of an escaped convict and as a matter of form will you oblige us by showing your passport?" "Do I look like a convict?" "Possibly not. In any case I shall require to see your passport." The stranger, feeling annoyed, presented the bill of fare and the latter commenced to read: "Sleep's head, neck of mutton, pig's feet." "Very good," he observed, "the description tallies. You will please come along with us." —From the Boston Traveller.

When the Cold Tightens in the Chest

Whatever chances you may take with cold in the head and sore throat, you cannot but feel alarmed when the cold grips the chest, enters the bronchial tubes and threatens the lungs. At this critical time you want a medicine you can depend upon to cure the cold and protect the lungs. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has proven its value by many years of unqualified success. When you use it you do not feel that you are experimenting, but rather that you are doing all that can be done to cure the disease and prevent serious results. This medicine is particularly well known as an effective treatment for chest colds and bronchitis. It not merely clears the choked-up air passages, but also allays the inflammation, and has a far-reaching effect on the whole respiratory system. By its soothing influence on the nerves, which are always excited in the case of bronchitis and asthma, it lessens the coughing and allows the irritated mucous lining to heal up. In this way the greatest relief is obtained promptly, and cure just as surely comes with continued use. In the great majority of homes Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is kept constantly at hand for the treatment of coughs, colds, bronchitis, whooping-cough, asthma and sore throat. With this great medicine at hand you can control any ordinary cold, and bring prompt relief, even in severe cases of bronchitis and asthma.

ALL SHOULD HAVE THEIR OWN HOMES

Address in Montreal on Housing Conditions WHY SO MANY SLUMS? Secretary of Philadelphia Housing Commission Talks to Canadian Club—Advice as to Prevention—His Royal Highness Among Those Present

"The small man, who earns nine or ten dollars a week, ought to be able to have his own little home in any city of Canada or the United States," said Bernard J. Newman, secretary of the Philadelphia Housing Commission, in his address on "Housing Conditions," at the Montreal Canadian Club luncheon, which was held on the evening of Feb. 12, in the presence of H. R. H. the governor general. "The workman ought to be able to have his home containing its kitchen, living room, two bedrooms and sanitary conveniences. If this can be done in some of the cities on this continent, it ought to be possible in every city. This matter of housing evils is comparatively new to us, else why should we have so many slums in our towns? On this side of the water there ought not to exist such conditions, for we have the land, the open country, and the men with force, courage, ambition and hope—qualities which have enabled them in many cases to throw off the ties that bound them to the old land and to seek the new. These factors should make for the very best conditions, and yet on this continent we have slums more vile than can be found in any city on the other continent." The speaker went on to condemn the tenement system, by which in many cases forty families were housed in the same building, using the common stairway and common conveniences. In the case of a new building this was not so bad, but in the old, converted building those conditions were absolutely fatal from the point of view of citizenship and of morals. "I do not wish to seem discouraging," continued the speaker, "by criticizing your city, but these are conditions that I have noticed in visiting some of the houses bearing the mark of the slums. There were families living in cellars, with eight beds in one room, many of the rooms without windows, and with the sanitary conveniences opening out of the rooms where the odor was simply vile. I found a man, his wife and family of nine occupying three rooms. Besides overcrowding, Mr. Newman pointed to the evils of the building of houses on rear lots. He had seen what had never been found in any other city, a number of houses opening on to a back yard with a row of toilets facing the doors,
