A WIFE MURDERER

WHO CUTS HIS WIFE'S THROAT IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Then Coolly Walks Out and Takes a Drink of Whiskey.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.]

TROY, N. Y. May 4.—Samuel Dunn of Cohoes killed his wife Maria, this morning about 7 o'clock by cutting her throat from ear to ear. Dunn came from England six months ago and his wife a week ago. He is 59 years old, and she was about the same age. After the murderer had performed the bloody deed he walked out before the eyes of the neighbors who had heard the woman's screams, went up Mohawk street and got a drink of whiskey and was then arrested. The motive for the crime is unknown.

THE WAR SCARE.

The Czar's Designs Upon Constantinople.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LONDON, May 4.—The Standard's correspondent at Vienna revives the languishing and almost moribund Austro-Russian war scare by his insistance that the designs of the Czar upon Constantinople are of a most deliberate and determined character. The Stambuloff Government in Bulgaria stands almost entirely alone as an impediment to the Russian influence in the Balkans, and this slight barrier, the correspondent asserts, is all that prevents Russia from immediate action. If this be true, and there is no reason to question the authority for the statement, the situation is indeed serious. In respect of ability to withstand Russian invasion Roumania is no better off than Bulgaria, and the possibility that both of these countries will be occupied by Russian troops seems not very remote.

WINTER PORT.

Tea Sent Direct from China to London Via St. John.

A consignment of 500 half chests of tea, direct from China; arrived here this morning by the Intercolonial for shipment in the steamship Damara now loading for London. This tea came over the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is the first that ever was brought to St. John for shipment. If this can be done with a light article like tea, where the difference is only 99 miles in favor of St. John, what may we not expect with grain and other heavy goods, where there is a difference of 277 miles in our favor, over Halifax.

The sad intelligence has arrived from New York that Mr. John J. Harrison of Carleton, on his way out from England, died and was buried at sea. The deceased was formerly a member of the firm of Messrs. Harrison & Peters but several years ago began business for himself. He has been in England about two years and was returning on a visit to his family. He leaves a widow and several children at present residing in Carleton who have the sympathy of the entire community in their breavement.

BISHOP POTTER'S SERMON

And Answers to Some of the Criticisms Which Have Been Passed Upon It.

NEW YORK, May 3. The criticisms on Bishop Potter's centennial sermon, in which he said that "Jeffersonian simplicity means Jacksonian vulgarity," continue to be made. In an interview last night the bishop explained this remark as follows: "Vulgarity as I used the word, did not refer to manners but to the political atmosphere. Vulgar means common. The manners of a people may be very high but their moral tone very low. Look at some countries in Europe," and the bishop named them, "Now you catch the idea. I am no mugwump. I have been a Republican all my life but I hate taffy and platitudes. Besides, there were plenty who were sure to pay sounding compliments to Harrison and the nation that honors him. I was not needed for that.

"Apply what I said, regarding my estimate of the Presidential office to the present situation. How much time has Harrison given to statesmanship? Not an hour, nor an instant, so far as anybody knows. He was put where he is to maintain the nation's dignity, to protect the rights of the poor and the rich, to rule, not to engage in barter and trade. But alas, what a spectacle we have. We behold the President of the United States of America intent only on getting congressmen out of the house at night so that he can go to bed. What is the use of beating about the bush in that matter. It makes me very tired.

"Then you had no thought of assailing the personal character of Andrew Jackson?"

"Not in the slightest," replied the bishop, "and I regret that such an inference has beeu made the pretext for reprisal in the form of an attack on the personality of Lincoln. Lincoln had not a vulgar fibre in his nature. He was rustic, and the distinction between vulgarity and rusticity is fundamental. They don't coincide even by a vulgar fraction. I was not striking at anybody personally though, to name men as types of the very methods that I meant to denounce.

"When I speak of this as an era of plutocrats nobody can misunderstand me. Everybody has recognized the rise of the money power. Its growth, not merely stifles the independence of the people but blind believers in money's important power assert that its liberal use condones every offense. The social tendencies in great cities, outside of politics, are most inspiring, most elevating, but the money power and the purchase of votes are things to be afraid of, to be jumped upon and strangled.

Roebling's Son's &Co, Liberty street; Law Telephone Company, Liberty street; Edison Electric light company, Wall street; Standard Undergound Cable aud National Galvanic Battery Companies, Telephone Building, and the Electrical World, Times Building. Railroad have also advertised the excursion very extensively, and it is now generally known throughout the country that rates to St. John and return have been lowered to single fare during at a week beginning Monday. SENT TO THE ASYLUM.

A young man, J. E. Morrow by name who lives with Mrs. Moore on Main street, Portland, created quite a sensation this morning by clambering out on the roof and harranguing the passers-by in a most eloquent fashion. Morrow is a young man and has been rather sickly for some time past. Last evening he showed symptoms of insanity and had to be handcuffed for fear he might do mischief. He had been left alone this morning when he attempted the dangerous feat of roof climbing. Several gentlemen passing at the time observed him and hurried to secure him, but not until Mr. Herbert Moore arrived could the young man be compelled to descend. He was immediately sent to the provincial lunatic asylum, where he is now under the treatment of Dr. Steeves.

Arthur Hamm has received from P. E. Island fifteen horses, which are for sale at his stables, Union street.

IMPERIAL ENGLAND.

HER RELATIONS WITH HER COLONIES AND THE WORLD.

Her Attitude Towards Germany in Somoa.

LONDON, May 4.—The Times has the following special from its Berlin correspondent:—"The sub-committee of the Samoan Conference is still Busy with it work, and this is understood to be the elaboration of the two main projects, one a plan for the future government of Samoa under a native ruler, and the other a proposal for the constitution of a tribunal to consider and adjudicate on private land tenure in the islands, which is in the greatest possible confusion, and is anything but a correct index to the extent of the various foreign interests involved. It may be remembered that the Washington conference on the affairs of Samoa ended abortively, mainly for the reason that the United States would not assent to the German proposal to appoint one representative of the three powers concerned, this nominee being a German, to act as the mandatory of the three States, and now it is probable that the conference will decide upon the appointment of a triumvirate body of supervision in Samoa to act as sort of council to the native sovereign, whoever he may be. This will mainly depend on the policy of Germany, but meanwhile the enlargement of ex-King Malietoa, whom the Germans deported from Samoa to Hamburg and back to Marshal Islands, is regarded here as a proof of her desire to make a good impression on the conference. There is one thing less clear than some others connected with the conference sitting here, and that is the attitude of England on the Samoan question. At Washington England was decidedly in favor of the course suggested by Germany, and now there is nothing to show that she is not again disposed, if anything, to prove a little more complaisant to Germany than to the United States. If this be so, it will be thought a pity by those who expect the English Government to know on which side its bread is buttered, and who rightly argue that England and her colonies have more both to hope and to fear from America, with her future developements, than from any other country under the sun. So reason the observers, who are profoundly convinced that the cordial friendship of the United States is of much more value to England than that of any State in the European system, from which Great Britain is becoming more and more detached by reason of her gradual growth in the colonial world, with an ever-widening and brightening prospect of Imperial Federation. The true foreign policy of England, argue the observers above re- [illegible] everything with her interests beyond the sea and with the States and the colonies affected by those interests. From this point of view, therefore, it is somewhat puzzling many to find Lord Salisbury laying such ostentatious stress on the colonial entente cordiale everywhere with Germany, from whom, if it be properly considered, England has really nothing whatever to fear, and little or nothing to hope, and thus incurring the risk, slight though it may be in the present case, perhaps of estranging the affections of those who, in certain circumstances, might prove to England as troublesome opponents as they could otherwise be staunch and useful friends. Not that the Samoan question in itself is capable of producing the effects here alluded to, but at the same time its treatment by England ought not to be such as is calculated to ruffle the sensibilities either of America or of the Australian colonists, whose disappointment could not possibly be counterpoised by any amount of gratitude on the part of Germany. As between all the Anglo-Saxon races and the German Empire, the position of England is analogous to the attitude of Germany to Austria and Russia respectively, between whom, said Prince Bismarck to M. Gortschakoff at the Congress of Berlin, "You must not force me to choose." I repeat that the issue involved in the Samoan question are by no means so very pregnant of high political consequence; but still, the treatment of that question, in the opinion of some well qualified to judge, ought to be the test of the degree to which England and haskept pace with the true principles of political expediency.

A CHICAGO INCIDENT.

Narrow Escape of an Anarchist Who Hung Out His Red Flag.

CHICAGO, May 1.—One of the exciting incidents of yesterday was witnessed by about 500 persons who had assembled in front of the headquarters of the Fire Engine Company No. 17 at 80 West Lake street. Captain E. Anderson and a dozen members of the company were decorating the front of the building when suddenly a man thrust his head from a window of the fourth story of the building east of the engine house, and after noting the work of decorating announced himself an anarchist. He reviled the Stars and Stripes and the decorators in a most insulting manner. Little attention was paid to the man, however, until he floated the red flag of anarchy from the window, announcing, it as "My flag, my colors.' Then the crowd became excited and angry and loud calls were heard. "Tear down that rag or you will be sorry you ever floated it,' was cried to him from a hundred throats. Seeing that the crowd was in a bad humor and that several men had offered to climb up the fire escape on the front of the building and tear the rag down, the man secured an axe, and, taking a position in the window, declared he would kill any man who touched his flag. The crowd was almost frenzied, and constantly grew larger. Half a dozen men exhibited revolvers to drive the wretch from his position long enough to tear the anarchist's colors down. Capt. Anderson then went to the roof of the building with a rope, to the end of which was attached an iron hook. He lowered the hook until it became beneath the staff of the red flag, and and with a sudden jerk upward dislodged the unsightly banner. It fell to the sidewalk, and was torn into a hundred fragments. A moment later the anarchist came out on the sidewalk. He was seized by a dozen men, and some one cried out, "Get a rope. Let's hang the anarchist dog.' Several men rushed into the engine house and returned with a rope. In the meantime the man had been knocked down or tripped up half a dozen times, and blood was trickling from a wound under his eye. About the time men returned with the rope a policeman arrived and advised the crowd to desist. The man, whose name is M. W. Dotp, was finally released.

Letter From Gabriel Dumont.

Mr. Caron, manager of L'Etendard, has received a letter from Gabriel Dumont, dated April 15, from Duck Lake, in which he states he was received with enthusiasm on his return to the Saskatchewan district. The ex-rebel adds that two meetings have been held at Batoche and Duck Lake "with the object of sending a petition to the Government to again ask for the payment of claims arising out of losses incurred during the rebellion. This petition is ready and will soon be forwarded." Then he states that though the Metis have worked hard since the rebellion they are still in want. They feel grateful to the Montreal people who saved some of them from the gallows. Dumont concludes by stating that the statement was freely made on his return by Batoche and others, that the Montreal people were glad to get rid of him, and he expresses regret at this, which he claims to know is untrue.

He Would Have Killed Him.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 3.—During the trial of Melvin C. Garlitz, for the murder of his wife, a very exciting scene occurred. While a witness was describing how Garlitz stood over his wife while she was lying down and fired three shots into her body, Mr. Joseph White, the father of the dead woman, sprang up with a wild cry of rage, and, seizing a chair, made a rush toward Garlitz. He was grabbed by several policemen and taken to an ante-room until he regained his composure. His daughter Myrtle, who had shortly before testified, shrieked aloud as her father cried out, and threw herself upon him. For a few moments the excitement in the room was intense, and it was some time before the trial could proceed.

This bill passed the house two weeks ago and was on its final passage yesterday it was defeated, 17 to 9.
