THE STEEL STRIKE.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 12.—At 9 o'clock last night the Riverside steel workers at Wheeling voted to work until September 7, in observance with their thirty day agreement with the National Tube company. There are 500 men at work in the Wheeling district mill of the United Steel corporation. The strike situation early today is briefly summarized as follows: Lindsey and McCutcheon plant of the American Steel Hoop company. The first all lighted and the management declares that the plant will soon be in full operation.

Republic Iron Works—No effort is being made to start the mills. Mills Iron Works—One watchman on duty for the company says he knows nothing of any intention to start and no men are expected to go to work today. The fires in the furnaces are banked.

Painters' Mills—Fires were lighted this morning but no men appeared to work. It was expected this plant would resume operation. Police alone on guard. Everything quiet.

McKeesport National Tube Works—Work has been much delayed by the striking of 250 boys at the blast furnace, which quit at midnight, but all the men are at work.

GOT OFF WITH $30,000.

CHICAGO, AUG. 12.—It leaked out here today, says the InterOcean that one of the Chicago banks was recently withdrawn out of the city in a skilful manner. An effort is being made to keep the matter secret, and not even the name of the bank is given. It seems that a depositor of several years standing appeared a few days ago in the bank president's office with a draft of London for $2,000 which was perfectly good. The depositor informed the president he desired to deposit this London draft, and at the same time to check against it, presenting his check for $30,000 for the president to OK. The latter put his initials on it and thought nothing of it. The depositor then went out into the bank and deposited the London draft, and on the following day presented a check for $30,000, which was paid, the teller knowing that amount was to his credit on the books. Later in the day he again appeared at the window and presented the check for $30,000 which had been initialed by the president. This check was also paid. Nothing more has since been seen of the depositor.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, August 12.—Since Sunday night Robert Stephenson and Mrs. Lillie Kispert have been dead in their room at 125 Cutter street and when the police broke open the door early this morning, murder and suicide were disclosed. It is believed that Stephenson shot Mrs. Kispert in the temple, while she was asleep and then put a bullet through his brain. Nothing was found to indicate a reason for the crime.

A SHOCKING CRIME.

NEW YORK, August 12.—Another case resembling in some of its details the notorious Jennie Bosccheter assault case, is reported from Passaic, N. J. The alleged offense is said to have been committed late on Saturday night. On Sunday morning Irene Jones, 19 years old, was found in an unconscious condition at the door of the residence of her sister, Mrs. Bertha Tracy. As a result of a story told the police, warrants have been issued for seven young men, some of them having excellent family connections.

LAI D TO REST.

Dowager Empress Buried With Solemn Pomp at Potsdam.

England's King and Queen in Attendance at the Mournful Pageant.

POTS DAM, August 12.—The remains of the Dowager Empress Frederick were interred today beside those of her husband, in the mausoleum of Friedenkirche, near Potsdam.

LONDON, August 12.—A memorial service was held today in the Chapel Royal, St. James palace, simultaneously with the funeral of the Dowager Empress Frederick at Potsdam. Among those present were the Duke and Duchess of Argyll, Lord Salisbury, the United States ambassador, Mr. Choate, Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Lady Harcourt, Lord and Lady Wolsey, Lord Lansdowne, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, A. J. Balfour and many members of the diplomatic corps. After the opening sentences of the services were chanted a royal salute was fired in St. James park, followed by firing of sixty minute guns.

POTS DAM, Aug. 12.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning the bells of the churches in Potsdam were tolled, with two intervals of rest. Shortly before half-past ten Emperor William, the other members of the imperial family and the visiting princes assembled in the royal hall at the Wind Park railroad station. The high court officials, military dignitaries, Count Von Bismarck and other members of the cabinet, Knights of the Black Eagle and the members of the reichstag assembled at 10.25 o'clock in an adjacent hall.

Soon after ten o'clock the special train ordered by the emperor to bring the invited guests from Berlin reached Wild Park station. Among the guests the foreign ambassadors made a striking figure, wearing their highest official uniforms. The United States ambassador, Andrew D. White, however, was attired in simple black.

At 10.30 the signal was given that the funeral train was approaching. Conversation, which had hitherto been carried on in suppressed tones, entirely ceased, and an air of great solemnity possessed the company. The train rolled in slowly and noiselessly. Twenty non-commissioned officers of the Dowager Empress Hussar regiment, No. 2, came forward and bore the coffin to the royal hearse, which had in the meantime arrived from the new palace. Chamberlains and courtiers with royal insignia participated in the transfer of the coffin from the funeral car to the hearse.

Slowly and solemnly the procession formed. Eight staff officers seized the reins of the eight splendid black horses attached to the hearse and four Knights of the Black Eagle took hold of the points of the pall cloth, while twelve royal chamberlains held the supports of the canopy covering the hearse and four other courtiers held the cords from the corners. Flanking these to the right and left were two staff officers and twelve captains. The procession formed in the shady avenue extending from Wild Park to the new palace. The public had the only opportunity to see the procession, but not only the slightest view of it, although immense crowds had assembled upon the streets intersecting the road at right angles, and the people strained their necks to get a glimpse of the cortege.

The following was the order of the procession: A squadron of the Gardes Corps. A squadron of the Dowager Empress Hussar Regiment. The Band of the Leib Infantry Battalion. Courtiers, Clergymen and Pages, and the Physicians of the Dead Dowager Empress. The Officers Corps and a delegation from the Dowager Empress Frederick's Foreign Orders.

Four Noble Marshals, bearing insignia, followed General Von Moltke, with the Dowager Empress Frederick's Court and Pages. Gen. Von Der Planitz, with the Louise Order and the Cross of Merit for Women, and Lieut. Gen. Von Lese, with the Star and Chain of the Black Eagle. Gen. Von Waldersee, bearing the Dowager Empress's Order of the Crown. Numerous Courtiers as Marshals. The Dowager Empress Frederick's Court and Pages. The King Edward.

Crown Prince Frederick William and the other Royal Princes and Princes of the Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers and Personages from the Emperor's and Empress's Entourage. Two Noble Marshals and Princes not belonging to the Royal Family. The Imperial Chancellor, Count Von Bulow, and the other Members of the Cabinet and Government Officials. Members of the Order of the Black Eagle. Members of the Reichstag and of the Diet. The Burgomasters of Berlin and Potsdam.

The procession moved through the tree-arched avenue to the new palace, and then through the park to the Sans Souci garden, all of which were closed rigidly against the public, though a few newspapers, which were admitted by card. When the procession started the bells in the Friedenkirche (Church of Peace) began tolling and all other bells in Potsdam joined in. When the procession reached the mausoleum adjacent to the Friedenkirche, all those in the procession in advance of the hearse took up positions opposite the church. When the coffin was borne across the threshold of the mausoleum, the cathedral choir from Berlin intoned a solemn strophe. Only the emperor and empress, the other members of the imperial family, King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the other members of the British royal party and the princes of the highest rank entered the mausoleum, which is small. Dr. Peratus, the chaplain, offered a prayer, after which the choir again sang. When their majesties left the mausoleum the procession dissolved. The empress, Queen Alexandra and the other ladies went in carriages direct from Wildwood to the mausoleum.

THE GREY WOLF.

The grey wolf comes again; I had made fast the door with chains; how has the grey wolf passed. My threshold I have nothing left to give; Go from me now, grey wolf, and let me live! I have fed you once, given all you would, give all I had to give. I have been prodigal; am poor now, the table is but spread With water and a little wheaten bread; You have taken all I ever had from me. Go from me now, grey wolf, and let me live! The grey wolf, crouching by the boiled deer; Wait, watching for his food upon the deer; I see the old hunger and the old thirst of blood. Rise up, under his eyelids, like a flood; What shall I do that the grey wolf may go; This time I have no store of morsels to throw; He waits, but I have nothing, and I stand Helpless, and his eyes fasten on my hand. O grey wolf, grey wolf, will you not depart This time unless I feed you with my heart? —Arthur Symonds, in the Saturday Review.
