MISREPRESENTATION BY THE OPPOSITION CLAIMED BY PREMIER

Continued from page one. Mr. Baxter presented a petition in favor of a bill regarding Trinity church, St. John. Mr. Copp gave notice of an inquiry regarding the opening of a new highway in Kings county.

Mr. MacLachlan presented a petition in favor of a bill to enable Northumberland county to issue bonds. Mr. Wilson presented a petition in favor of the bill to fix the valuation of the property of T. S. Simms & Co. in St. John City and County.

Mr. Tweeddale gave notice of an enquiry regarding the position held by F. P. Robinson, and as to payments made to him. Mr. Currie gave notice of enquiry regarding the receipts from violations of the liquor license act.

Immigration. Hon. Mr. Fleming on order of the day being called resumed the debate on the address, said that when the House adjourned last evening he was referring to the question of immigration, and he hoped that that question would receive the attention of the members of the House which such an important subject deserved.

The question of securing large numbers to come to this province and settle here was only one phase of the problem. There would of course be those who would not make good and what this legislature must do is to make conditions that will make the percentage of success as large as possible.

He expressed the hope that all members of the legislature would attend the evening session of the congress, and that the people of this province would come to look at this great problem in a new light. The successful settlement of the immigration problem would mean not only the upbuilding of this province, but the future of the Empire depended on whether the three hundred thousand people who were being recruited from the British flag.

It was gratifying to learn that four out of five of those now leaving the home land were settling under the old flag instead of having eighty per cent. of this number, as was the case a few years ago, settling in foreign lands.

A member of the British government had recently stated that during the next few years there would be four hundred thousand annually leaving the British Isles, that being the natural overflow of population. He was sure that not a single one of these would do anything to bring about the successful working out of the immigration problem.

The Fisheries Claims. The Hon. Leader of the opposition in his remarks to the House had referred to the fact that there was no reference to fisheries claims in the speech from the Throne this year. He did not wish the House nor the country to be misled because this subject had not the usual place in the speech that it had been forgotten, and he wanted to reassure the impatient hon. gentleman opposite that something had been done towards the settlement of these claims since the 21st of September last.

He also wanted to remind the hon. gentlemen opposite that he had been a supporter of the government's policy for twelve years, from 1896 until 1899 was in sympathy with the government at Ottawa, and that as far as they got in all that time with the settlement of the fisheries claim was to give the subject no reference in the speech from the Throne.

The province had two claims, one was for a refund of the amount of the license fees lost to the province when the federal government collected licenses from Quatawagwedwick and Metapedia streams, and the other is for the Dominion having taken control of the non-tidal waters of this province for a period of fifteen years.

The judgment of the Privy Council in 1892 regarding the latter claim decided that the federal government had usurped privileges and the province has a large riparian claim which has since been collecting licenses. These claims had not been neglected.

Had Boils On Neck and Arms. Had Them Lanced But Got No Relief Until He Used Burdock Blood Bitters. Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still, at the same time are very painful. They are caused entirely by bad blood, and for you to get rid of them it is absolutely necessary to put the blood into good condition.

interviewed by the St. John Telegraph on Dec. 28 last his hon. friend had argued that there was a startling deficit in the conduct of affairs under his government. He (Copp) had said that while an over-expenditure of fifty-six thousand dollars was admitted by figures really showed the over-expenditure to be nearly three hundred thousand dollars—astonishing to relate, he would like the members of the legislature to see how his hon. friend had figured out this deficit of three hundred thousand dollars.

The leader of the opposition had said that the government admitted that the amount was fifty-six thousand dollars. That was true, but the remainder of the interview, in so far as the alleged additional over-expenditure was concerned, was ridiculous. His hon. friend had said that the amount of ninety-six thousand dollars balance brought over from last year or consolidated revenue account must be added to the fifty-six thousand.

The government had a balance of ninety-six thousand at the beginning of the year and at the end of the year eighty-four thousand. From his hon. friend's statements it would have been just as warranted to subtract one hundred and eighty-four thousand dollars at the end of the year as it would have been to add the balance of ninety-six thousand dollars brought over from the previous year on the consolidated revenue account.

One would be just as ridiculous as the other. He would not like to say anything disrespectful of the leader of the opposition but he could not understand how his hon. friend had been led into making such ridiculous statements as that accredited to him in the interview. He had been talking about something which he did not know anything about, or had been making a deliberate erroneous statement to deceive the people.

More Addition. His hon. friend had also added $102,763.32 to the over-expenditure on ordinary expenditure. His hon. friend must be suffering from lapse of memory for he could not possibly have forgotten that there was such an account contained in either the ordinary or capital expenditure accounts, but it was for New Brunswick Coal and Railway repairs. He read for the benefit of his hon. friend the expenditures comprising this amount—Montreal Locomotive Works, one locomotive, etc. (1 Geo. V., Cap. 4.), $12,000; J. R. Stone, Commissioner Ballasting, etc. (1 Geo. V., Cap. 4.), $25,000; J. R. Stone, Commissioner, ballasting, etc. deficit on operating expenses, 1909 and 1910 (1 Geo. V., Cap. 4.), $16,844.31; Intercolonial Railway, ballasting, etc. (1 Geo. V., Cap. 4.), $24,763.32.

On the last item the government was paying a debt. One constituted by the government which his hon. friend supported. One of the legacies of the old administration. Can any one think of statements that would be more ridiculous than those that have been conjured and put together by the leader of the opposition? As for the administration of the government he was ready at any time for the closest possible scrutiny into its affairs. He would not say that the government had given the province perfect administration. The very best had made mistakes, but the government would strive in the future to do in the past faithfully and earnestly to collect what is due to the people and will work as earnestly and zealously to spend the revenue in the public's interest.

Mr. Bentley complimented the mover and seconder of the address and predicted for Mr. Cuptill a very successful future. He felt sure Lieutenant Governor Wood would fulfil the hopes of his province and to the members of the House. He referred to a recent coronation of their Majesties and said that the sentiment of loyalty and attachment to the Throne and British institutions should be too sacred to be dragged in the dust of political purposes as had been the case in the recent federal election. Political parties should secure some other way to win political battles. While the province had experienced a fairly satisfactory year along agricultural lines and it was a matter of congratulation that our farmers had received fair returns for their work, we buy unsatisfactory conditions elsewhere that served to materially assist farmers. There was room for a great improvement in the agricultural conditions of the province and he hoped to see a real development at no distant date.

The representation question was another matter of vital importance and if some adjustment was not made the province would lose its significance in the federal House. The Premier might pride himself on securing the settlement of the much vexed question of the St. John Valley Railway, but he would be doing the province a bigger service should he be successful in settling this question of representation. A successful immigration policy would work wonders for the province. It would settle our bridge question.

Mr. Bentley said that the opposition had always stood for I. C. R. operation of the Valley road, but had opposed part three of the bill, which provided for the building of a trrolley line and involved the country in great debt. He also had insisted that the road be built from St. John to Grand Falls and now the House was told that the agreement had been signed for a road to run from St. John to Grand Falls. Who had been consistent, the opposition who had always insisted on the I. C. R. or the government who had backed and finally accepted the I. C. R. operation?

Mr. Bentley moved the adjournment of the debate. Mr. Copp presented a petition in favor of the bill relating to the town of Sackville and the petition in favor of the bill to incorporate the town of St. Joseph.

Hon. Mr. Fleming moved that the debate on the address be made the order of the day for tomorrow. Mr. Copp said that the members of the opposition would be greatly inconvenienced if such an unusual course was taken as to have the House sit on the first Saturday of the session. Hon. Mr. Fleming said that it was the desire of the government to have the consideration of the address finished at an early date as possible, as until it was disposed of the other business of the House could not be proceeded with and for that reason the House would sit tomorrow.

The House adjourned at 6:05 p. m.

Financial Statement. He would like also to make a little reference to the financial statement of the government. He would not have referred to it at all had not his hon. friend made most extravagant charges against the government in this regard.
