

OUR COUNTRY CORRESPONDENCE.

FREDERICTON.

Fredericton, Feb. 17.—(Special).—The affairs of the estate of the late Wesley Newnham reached the point when the executor is able to settle up the claims against the estate. The executor, Mr. J. H. McNeil, is now in a position to pay the claims in full. The estate is yielding 61 per cent on the amount of the claims. Mrs. Fredericton Cook died this morning at her home on Charlotte street after a lingering illness from consumption. She was a daughter of Robert Hamilton and is survived by her husband and one child.

Fredericton, Feb. 18.—(Special).—Harry Steen and Miss Evelyn Parker, daughter of Mrs. George Parker, were married this morning at the home of the bride's father, Rev. J. H. McNeil officiating. Last night was one of the very coldest, the thermometer registering 30 degrees below zero.

Negotiations between Mount Allison and the U. N. B., concerning a debate between these colleges, have been going on and at last something definite has been decided. A challenge from the former to the latter to debate on the subject, "Resolved that Canada should contribute to a general fund for the defence of the British Empire." The choice of affirmative or negative is left to the U. N. B.

The festival concert in City Hall tonight was a great success. The orchestra was led by Mr. J. H. McNeil. The program was well received and the audience was large.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 19.—(Special).—Geo. B. Crawford, of Newcastle, Queens county, Harry B. Sprague, of the same place, James Holland and Fred J. Love, of this city, Frank Robinson, of Marysville, and William E. Caldwell, of Boston, are applying for incorporation under the name of Crawford, Sprague, Holland, Robinson and Caldwell, Ltd., with a capital stock of $30,000 divided into 50,000 shares of $10 each. The object of the company is to mine coal and other minerals and to carry on mercantile and manufacturing business. The chief place of business is to be Newcastle, Queens county.

R. A. Estey's saw mill had a narrow escape this morning from destruction. Fire was discovered about 3 o'clock and an alarm given. The fire department responded quickly and their prompt work saved the structure. Loss about $50.

Sussex, N. B., Feb. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fawcett, who have been visiting in Sussex, returned to St. John this evening. Miss Angela Keith, of Harvey, York county, is here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Keith. Miss Abbie Smith is visiting friends in St. John.

The snowstorm of the season is raging here today. Some 10 inches has fallen since morning.

Canterbury, N. B., Feb. 19.—Alex. Bennett passed away this afternoon after a long illness. Deceased was 64 years of age. He was a general dealer in this village. Being a Mason the funeral will be conducted by the Masonic brethren at 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The government candidates are sure of a large majority at the polls this parish on the 28th.

Chatham, Feb. 17.—(Special).—The Newcastle curlers played here against the local curlers yesterday afternoon for a number of wagers. The Newcastle team won by two points. After the game Premier Tweedie entertained the visitors at a supper at the Adams House. Speeches were made by the premier, Mr. Hildbrand, Mr. A. Lawlor and others. Another snow storm with strong east wind is raging today and night. This morning the thermometer registered 31 below zero.

Chatham, Feb. 17.—A special meeting of the town council was held last evening to consider the town accounts. Alderman Nicol reported that the total cost of water and sewerage system was $14,000, the running expenses last year $12,000, receipts from all sources were $3,213, which leaves a deficit of $10,787. Referred to finance committee, with power to publish them in town accounts.

Fredericton, Feb. 17.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 18.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 19.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 20.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 21.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 22.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 23.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 24.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 25.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 26.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 27.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 28.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 17.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 18.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 19.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 20.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 21.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 22.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 23.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 24.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 25.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 26.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 27.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

Fredericton, Feb. 28.—(Special).—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

The Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman—Congressman Meekison Gives Pe-ru-na a High Endorsement.

Congressman Meekison of Ohio.

Hon. David Meekison is well known not only in his own State, but throughout the United States. He is a member of the Fifty-fifth Congress, by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State. Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete record of this distinguished statesman. Catarrh, with its insidious approach and its agonizing grasp, was his only untoward ailment. For thirty years he waged an unsuccessful war against this personal enemy. He had tried every remedy known to man, but to no avail. He was at last forced to the conclusion that he must try Pe-ru-na. He had heard of its success in curing catarrh, and he decided to give it a trial. He took a few boxes, and in a short time he was cured. He writes: "I have never since suffered from catarrh, and I feel that I owe my health to Pe-ru-na. I will fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

The many friends of Miss Josephine Creelman, Upper Stewards, are sorry to learn of her severe illness. She is in the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax. Dr. Hartman, barrister of Digby (N.S.), spent Sunday in Lower Kent county. R. H. Kennedy, of Hilden, was in Truro on Monday to attend the meeting held at the residence of the Rural Consolidation Scheme.

Edward A. Faulkner recently returned from Cowley, Alberta (N.W.T.), to his old home in Lower Kent county. He left home about five years ago, and is now a contractor and builder in the Northwest. An unusually interesting meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street, on Sunday evening. The meeting was held for the purpose of raising funds for the benefit of the St. John's Hospital. The meeting was very successful, and a large sum of money was raised.

The Swimmers' Club from Windsor, who were in St. John's on Sunday, were very successful in their swimming. They won several prizes in the various events. The club is very popular in Windsor, and they are looking forward to a successful season this year.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. H. McNeil was held this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of her son, Mr. J. H. McNeil, on Charlotte street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends. The interment was in the cemetery.

to again hand over the destiny of the province to those who, for 18 years, made no progress. (Applause.)

Politics meant the upholding of the country, and looking back on the progress made under six years of Liberal rule, it did not seem possible that the people of this city were prepared to go back to old conditions.

Mr. McKewen then took up the slanderous statements made concerning the asylum commission in connection with the estate of D. Bell, of Victoria, county. These statements had emanated from the opposition candidate in Victoria county, Mr. Carter.

His statement was concerning the way the asylum commissioners had dealt with the property of an unfortunate individual, Mr. Bell, who had been committed to the asylum. Mr. Bell had received a pamphlet which had been issued on the subject, and circulated, filled with misleading statements. The statement was that Mr. Bell had been committed to the asylum for the purpose of robbing the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

The statement referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

Mr. McKewen referred to the unfairness, baseness and untruthfulness of the charges. He said it was true that Mr. Bell went to the asylum in 1899. When he was taken to the asylum, Mr. Bell was charged that the commissioners, for some ulterior motive, had conspired to rob the members of Mr. Bell's family of their property; that they had sold their personal estate and took some notes of hand, amounting to some $2,000, and also sold four farms for $1,500; that large fees had been charged by the solicitor who acted for the commission, and that Mr. Bell had been practically been turned out of doors.

</