Miss Agnes Irwin of English street is visiting friends in St. Thomas.

On Saturday afternoon the girls at Western University entertained at another of their delightful students' teas.

Mrs. Fred Matthews of Toronto is spending a short time with her mother, Mrs. N. S. Williams, Chesapeake street.

Mr. H. V. Canton, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dicks and Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Steele of this city have been visiting in Tampa, Florida.

Miss Myrtle Kent and Miss Olive Noble of Ostriville are visiting in the city, the guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. H. G. Collamore, 471 English street.

Miss Katharine Cronyn entertained the members of the Alliance Française at a quiet wedding on Friday evening, when French conversation prevailed throughout the evening. Plans numbers by Miss Madeline Simson and Mr. Eustace Edwards, vocal numbers by Mr. Gilles, and readings by Miss La Mieux, Madame Foley and Miss Foley were given and French choruses, with Mrs. A. D. Jordan at the piano.

ROWELL-SCOTT.
A quiet wedding took place at the Talbot Street Baptist Church on Wednesday last, when Miss Clara Agnes Scott of this city was united in marriage to Mr. F. Rowell of Winnipeg, formerly of Woodstock, the Rev. T. S. Roy officiating. After a delightful wedding supper had been served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowell took the evening train for Toronto and other eastern points. They will later spend a short time in London before going to their home in Winnipeg. The choir of the church showered the bride with many handsome and useful presents previous to her marriage.

HUTTON-HAVES.
A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Haves on March 9, when their only daughter, Hazel, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley Hutton of Uniondale. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of white crepe and myrtle by the Rev. Anderson of Welburn. The bride entered the parlor accompanied by her father, to the strains of Wedding March played by her aunt, Mrs. Robert Haves, while Master Lawrence Haves, brother of the bride, and Master Warren Haves, cousin of the bride, acted as pages. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of Old Colony silver, and to the organist a gold brooch. After the ceremony the happy couple led the way to the dining-room, where a very sumptuous dinner with pink carnations and yellow daffodils. The bride wore a navy serge suit with pink crepe blouse embroidered in blue and wore a corsage of Ophelea rosebuds. Immediately after the wedding dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Hutton left on the evening train for London and Lawrence, amid showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm on 37th con. of East Nissouri.

WHITE-McKAY.
A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. McKay, Wyoming, when his only daughter, Alma Florence, was married to James J. White of Wyoming. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. White, who officiated at the wedding. The bride wore a navy serge suit with pink crepe blouse embroidered in blue and wore a corsage of Ophelea rosebuds. Immediately after the wedding dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Hutton left on the evening train for London and Lawrence, amid showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm on 37th con. of East Nissouri.

BUSHELS OF EGGS ON SATURDAY MARKET

HERALD EASTER TIME
Maple Syrup Drops Ten Cents But Is Very Scarce.

It certainly was an egg market on Saturday. There were bushels and bushels of them, which began selling at 40 cents a dozen, but which came topping, tottering down as low as 30 cents by noon. And even then there were so many of them that the farmers' wives who brought them to market must have had to carry many of them home again. The Easter season will not be lacking in the proverbial egg food this year, and Johnny will be able to eat as many as his little "humpty" will hold. Poultry, however, was very scarce, and sold at the fabulous price of 41 cents a pound wholesale.

Maple syrup had dropped ten cents a quart but there were only a few seven syrup merchants on the market, with the warm weather pointing to very little more to come. Even so, the price of 90 cents a quart, it seemed to find buyers, however, and may come to be assured that the article they bought was genuine, as the Government pure food inspector was on the scene, ready to convict any seller who failed to have his name and address prominently affixed to his cans or jars.

Fresh salad vegetables, such as "radishes," lettuce, German chives, onions were conspicuous, while pretty bunches of rhubarb sold for 15 cents or two for 25 cents. Bottles of fresh-looking ground horse-radish sold from 25 to 30 cents, while mushrooms and a very little celery could be purchased by those willing to pay high prices.

Great quantities of freshly-dug parsnips were also noticeable, as well as the regular all-winter roots and many very fine preserved apples and potatoes. The seasonable Easter day selling of 50 cents a bloom or about $1 a plant.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Facts about your name; its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance to you; lucky day and lucky jewel.

MADE.
The numerous names which come from the Persian word for pear, Murvārīd (child of light), including the very charming MADE, it made its first appearance as Marguerite and named the virgin martyr, who became, before the advent of Christianity, eagerly adopted the name. It was a beautiful name, and almost at once, and from there it went to the land of the daughter of Alexander III, whose bride cost the life of Sir Patrick Spens. It nearly came back from Scandinavia, with her child, the Maid of Norway, but the Maid died on the voyage, and her name reached England through France and Germany.

There were many English forms of the name, though Margery was the general second, it is from the latter that MADE is descended. It must have been popular in England, but it remained for its appearance in this country to mark the zenith of its vogue. The pearl is, of course, MADE's talisman. The Persian word for pearl is mūd, which is formed from a drop of dew on which the moon's rays shine, imbues this gem with the power of its charm and its exquisite purity on its wearer. Monday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]
(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

XLII.—AT THE RAILWAY STATION.
People passed her in the streets like figures in a dream. Several looked curiously at the pretty, pale-faced girl with the dark, tragic eyes staring unseeingly straight before her.

"How am I going to face the future?" she was drearily asking herself. "How can I go back to the old routine, when my dreams have all been smothered to atoms?" She walked along, her young face set and rigid, tragedy lurking in her lovely eyes.

"I trusted him with my whole heart," she thought, as though she were trifled with love before. "I believed in every word he said. I believed in him. It seemed incredible, the whole affair." That enchanted evening of a night or two ago—spring, with its rush of passion, its bewildering scents, its heavenly song—finished with, broken, passion. "And I've got to go on living—without him!" whispered Betty brokenly.

Life seemed stretching out before her, a long, dreary, unending, hopeless vista. "I think that Jack Trevor—the image in her mind of all that was good—had acted so. Was there no chance of a mistake?" April Moore was involved in the tangled web of her own thoughts. She had been so sure of herself, so sure of her love, so sure of her future. And now she was here, at the railway station, waiting for the train that would take her away from the man who had been her life.

Several people were crowding in and out of the ticket office. Betty was looking at the clock. The train was due in five minutes. "And now to run for it!" she said. She took a few uncertain steps away from the ticket office. A man in a dark suit and a girl in a light dress were hurrying towards her. The man's face was pale, and he was looking at Betty with a strange expression.

"What's in a name?" he asked. "Facts about your name; its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance to you; lucky day and lucky jewel."

The Feeling of Forty.
When I was twenty years old I used to feel that I was a young man. I had a lot of energy, I was full of life, and I was full of hope. But now, at forty, I feel that I am an old man. I have a lot of experience, I have a lot of wisdom, but I have lost the energy and the hope of my youth.
