

The Royal Ajax

FROM all time the principal complaint of eyeglass users has been loose screws. This is entirely obviated in this style of eyeglass. By its peculiar construction, the spring, nose guards and studs (which are connected with the lenses) form practically one piece. So confident are the manufacturers of the stability of this article that they guarantee the mounting against breakage for two years.

The parts which are subject to greatest strain are made of solid gold, the balance being of 10-year filled gold stock. The whole is guaranteed to wear for ten years.

The Royal Ajax is considered by connoisseurs to be the acme of excellence in eyeglass construction.
