THE inside of the creamery or cheese factory is of first importance. It must be clean and sanitary, if the yard must be left a junk heap and the factory exterior weather beaten and bare. In our factories is handled the most sensitive of all food products, and in keeping that product clean, the maker has a big responsibility and many of them find that it, the sense of the contract of the cont

What can be done in the amall time available? A few trees, which can be planted in a couple of hours, will in time work wonders in the improving of the appearance of a cheese factory or creamery plant. A friendly patron might even be induced to dig a few trees from his bush and bring them to the factory. Next to dress, green grass kept closely cropped make the factory attractive. Some factories that I know of even have a few ahruba and flowers around, and it is wonderful how beautiful they look in their unusual setting. Paint on a factory is always an asset if the maker is willing to apply it. The owners of the factory, whoever they may be, should be willing to supply the paint. All of this means extra work for which the maker in one some does not engage to do. His reward, however, which the maker in one some does not engage to do. possible to have the water at any desired height in the fat. The wate is supplied from a spring 800 feel distant, it first coming through the stable and on to the milkhouse. The wheelbarrow seen in the picture was made by the proprietor of the farm for the purpose of doing away with high lifting of cans and the danger of upsetting them. The stand on which the cans sit is made from an old horse rake, the teeth being straightened out.
