This is a wise determination, and it cannot but commend the Liberal policy of Home Rule to the electorate; and if it should be necessary that there be a new election before the Lords can be induced to pass the measure, the Liberals will return to the House with a arger following than ever, which the Lords will not dare to resist.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WE extend our hearty sympathy to the pastor and people of Strathroy because of the great loss sustained in the destruction of their beautiful church by fire on the 2nd instant. This is the second time a similar calamity has befallen them. The fire did not originate in the church, but in side of the street.

THE Duke of Abercorn is one of those who profess to fear lest the Protestants of Ulster will be harshly and unfair'y treated if Home Rule be granted to Ireland. It becomes interesting to learn how His Lordship deals with Catholics where he has the power in his hands. He is Lord Lieutenant of Tyrone and Donegal, and in this capacity he has the appointment of magistrates. Sir George Trevelyan, in a recent speech, stated how His Grace uses this authority in the distribution of magisterial are 6 Catholic magistrates and 153 Catholics number 140,000 out of 180, 000 of the population, there are 9 Catholic and 130 Protestant magistrates. This is the religious equality which the Ulster Orangemen wish to preserve and the disturbance of which alarms the surest method to destroy the Confederation of Canada, and to hand the Dominion over to a foreign country, of diminishing prejudice against Cathis to create dissensions among the people, to disgust them with their present condition, and make them believe that it is impossible to live together harmoniously under one flag, is it not suspicious that the Mail and the present position of parties both in some other journals are now engaged the United States and Canada. In the in creating such dissensions?" The Canadian public remember that when two National Committees are Catholics the Mail was last engaged in similar work it leaked out that the chief leaders of both parties in the House of editor, who was also the writer of most of the no-Popery articles, was actually engaged in a treasonable negotiation to deliver up the country to Washington rule. Can it be that its present editorial staff are carrying on similar negotiations? It certainly looks as if this were the case.

WE feel great pleasure in congratulating Sir John Thompson and Spike Islands is very deep and his son, Mr. John Thompson, on the Success of the latter at the Stoneyhurst fleet. People accustomed to the busy son, now eighteen years of age, has their way through the hundreds of success of the latter at the Stoneyhurst completed his seven years' course in the college and has just passed the matriculation examination for London University, with honors. It is expected that he will return now to Canada to enter upon his legal studies.

He has might and brute force on his side, and that is all he requires. Consequently I do not see how Catholics can cast their votes to continue Morgan's brutal, bigoted rule for four years more." The retention of Colonel Morgan in his office by President Harrison, in spite of frequent remonstrances against his conduct, is likely to have more effect upon the coming Presidential election than or populous centre in Ireland. President Harrison dreams of-and the effect will not be favorable to him. It will be remembered that James G. Blaine lost his election by the change of a few votes at the last moment beoffices. In Tyrone, where more than cause he did not repudiate the Rev. half of the population is Catholic, there Burchard's celebrated alliteration denouncing "Rum, Romanism and Protestant. In Donegal, where the Rebellion." Morgan, who was formerly a Protestant minister, as it is currently reported, may prove to be a Burchard for the present Republican ticket.

According to the testimony of numerous Liberal canvassers throughout them so much. They are very much England, Lord Salisbury's appeal to opposed to a hypothetical tyranny of the anti-Catholic prejudices of the the majority over the minority, but people had very little weight in the the tyranny of the minority over the elections. Many Protestant clergy majority is with them a very proper men were among those who on political platforms in constituencies where there are scarcely any Catholics joined In view of the admitted fact that in protesting against the effort to raise a no-Popery cry, and it is believed that the effect will be the unexpected one olics and Catholicity, instead of increasing it.

THE non-political character of the Catholic Church is well-illustrated by former country the chairmen of the of Irish descent, and in Canada the Commons are also distinguished Catholic statesmen.

DIOCESE OF HAMILTON.

TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY OF ORDINATION.
On Sunday last, the 7th inst., the Bishop celebrated the twenty-eighth anniversary of his ordination as priest, by a Mass of thanksgiving, and in the evening assisted at Vespers and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in St. Mary's cathedral, at whose altar he was ordained by Bishop Farrel on the 7th of August, 1864. The good Bishop who officiated on that solemn occasion, as well as his venerable Vicar General, Father Gordon, and Fathers Smith and Kelly, who were also present, have long since passed to their reward.

Special to the CATHOLIC RECORD.

Last Sunday was a red-letter day for the Catholics of Campbellford and vicinity, particularly for the children, who on that day received, at the hands of their beloved Bishop, the sacrament of confirmation; many of them also receiving from him for the first time the holy sacrament of the Eucharist.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, accompanied by Rev. Father Scollard, arrived from Peterborough on the afternoon train on Saturday, and was met by the pastor, Rev. D. Casey. During the afternoon His Lordship examined the children, and found them well prepared for the reception of the great sacrament he had come to administer to them.

On Sunday at 8 o'clock His Lordship celebrated Mass and administered holy Communion to the children and also to many adults.

On Monday afternoon His Lordship, ac-companied by Rev. Fathers Casey and Scollard, drove to Warkworth mission, which is attended by Father Casey. On Tuesday morning at 10:30 Mass was celebrated, and twenty-five boys and girls elebrated, and twenty-five boys and givere confirmed.

At all points visited by His Lordship the reception he received from the people were most enthusiastic and hearty; showing the atmost good will raid loyal Catholic devotion to the Chief Pastor of the diocese. Father Casey deserves great credit for the admirable manner in which the candidates were prepared for the reception of the sacraments, L. K.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Thos. D. Egan, Orange, N. J.
We regret exceedingly to announce the death of Mrs. Thos. D. Egan, wife of Thomas D. Egan, Esq., of the New York Catholic agency. The sad event occurred on the 31st of July, at the family residence, in Orange, New Jersey, and the funeral took place on Aug. 3rd. To Mr. Egan, who was formerly a respected resident of London, and to his large family, our heartiest sentiments of sympathy are extended. He has lost a noble wife, his children a saintly and loving mother, and the Church a most devoted adherent. May her soul, through the mercy of God, rest in peace!

Mrs. Alex. Robbins. Springhill. N. S.

At Springhill, N. S., on Saturday, July 23, Mrs. Alexander Robbins, who has been in poor bealth ever since the fatal mine explosion in 1892, passed peacefully to rest. The news of her death was a shock to the community, as, until Friday, the 22nd, she was able to walk around the house, but at about 8:30 p. m. that evening she was stricken with paralysis, and never rallied. The deceased lady was well known and highly frespected by persons of all classes and denominations. In the Cathelic church on Sunday morning at High Mass the Rev. Father Eagan spoke at great length upon the kindness, patience and charitable life of Mrs. Robbins. All through her illness he had never heard one murmur against her hard tate. A large number of floral tributes testified to her great popularity, as did also the immense concourse of people which followed the remains to their last restingplace. Mrs. Robbins was a devoted Catholic wite and mother, and the bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the community. R. I. P. suspected of anything extraordinary, until the porch is passed and the gorgeous wealth of its pillars, altur, statues and stained glass windows suddenly bursts on the view.

Of course we had to go round by Sunday's Well, on the north side, from which a grand view is obtained of the whole city, its enor forms and its harbor. Here is also a beautiful church, with its alter and decorated pulpit of can stone, banners with images of saints and legends hung over every second pew along the main aisle, indicating, we were told, that the monthly meeting of the members of the Holy Family Society was to be held for prayers and instruction that even ing.
