Test eapot---pour d for five st delicious

ICIOUSNESS of delight.

over by the Right llbert. The Canon ting on this great hurch, this relic ng place in the bear testimony to he Incarnation so ancient monastery till taught in the He trusted that f the cross might uture time. They with the ancient mfort and creased enpower it cannot be money.

P OF LITTLE

Rev. A. W. Hutall attention to Church," Cheapas rector. St. e of the first Wren on the site nurch. There is eneath the clock, e days when the nd other great the jousts and Cheape. Ιι n to replace the ned the Royal ties. This scafally a wooden a tower," which whereby Queen

Every Motion free play. medium and

COMPANY

EUROPE!

THERE AND BACK $100

Write for Illustrated Booklet "S" descriptive of the Superior "One-Class" Steamers of the

MONTREAL-HAVRE-LONDON MONTREAL—GLASGOW

Weekly Services

THE ALLAN LINE

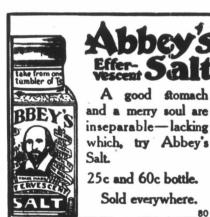

The largest and finest "One-Class' Steamers sailing from Montreal, will be employed in the London and Glasgow Services during the St. Lawrence season of 1912.

Full particulars on application to

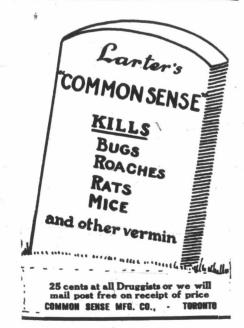

H. & A. ALLAN, MONTREAL

General Agents: The Allan Line Steamship Co.

Phillippa and her ladies fell "with great shame" upon the heads of the knights beneath. The steeple of Bow Church is claimed to be the finest classical campanile in the world, and "Bow Bells" have for centuries been famous. Every British child knows that Dick Whittington, as he sat on Highgate milestone, heard Bow Bells ring out:—"Turn again, Whittington, Lord Mayor of London." He obeyed and became one of the most renowned Lord Mayors! Not so well known, even among well-informed Churchmen, is the fact that the highest ecclesiastical court of the country-the Court of Arches-is so called from it having formerly been held in this church, the Norman crypt of which was used by Wren as a support for his building, and is renowned for its beautiful arches. Several of the old columns have been partially walled up, but some of the Norman pillars with the arches above are still to be seen. In the reign of William the Conqueror the church was styled "St. Marie de Arcubus."

Children's Bepartment

CAUCHT IN THE FLATTERER'S NET.

"Who knows anything about the flatterer's net?" asked Mrs. Blake, when the Pilgrim's Progress evening came around again, and the meeting was at Alice Blake's home.

Alice looked up, her cheeks flushing, and the bright tears flashing in her grey eyes. "You know that I do," she said softly.

Mrs. Blake smiled and laid a kind hand on her young daughter's arm. "That touches a pretty tender spot, Alice," she said, "and you needn't tell about it unless you want to."

"I do want to," said Alice, with just a bit of a choke in her voice; "it will do me good to tell it, and maybe it will do the others good to hear it.

"You remember, Miss Howard promised the first of the term that she would give one of Miss Alcott's books to the one who stood highest in English after the examinations. You know all about it, for you have heard me talk about it from morning till night for weeks past, and you know, too, how anxious I was to win. Not only because I wanted the book, though I like Miss Alcott, and all her works very much, but because I wanted the honour of being first.

"Well, I've always made pretty good grades in English, and the first girls all noticed it, and began saying, neglect to cure colds. 'Good for you, Alice,' and 'There's no show for us when Alice, is around,' till I-well, I got too sure of the house for prompt use when the myself, that's all.

"We had the final examination yesterday, and I intended to spend the evening before in hard study, but Emma Waters had a party and the girls were all bound I should go. 'You don't need to study,' they said. 'You know more than all the rest of us already.

"And so I went; and yesterday I missed three questions; and to-day-Miss Howard—gave—the prize—to Carrie Lane. I suppose I ought to annual temperature of less than three good little thing, and has worked temperature of eighty-five below. hard. But I felt just like Christian Verkhoyansk is in the north laticaught in the flaterer's net."

long arms and took his daughter into them.

"I do like girls that are brave caught in the flaterer's net, and if you learn to keep out of his way in future it will be worth more than a whole set of Miss Alcott's books."-The King Builders.

Cure that Bunion No need to suffer bunion torture another day.

DR. SCHOLL'S BUNION RIGHT per scholar support of the support o s comfortable, sanitary, convenient, Guaranteed or money back. 50 cents each or $1.00 per pair a drug and shoe stores, or direct from The I Scholl Mfg. Co., 472KingSt. W Toronto. Illustrated Booklet Free

THE COLDEST CITY ON EARTH. come every now and then to make

BLOW AT THE WHITE PLAGUE

Just think what it would mean if even half the deaths from consumption could be avoided. It is surely not too much to claim that at least of the term I did do very well. The this many cases are directly due to

> It is a simple matter to control a cold when you have Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in first symptoms appear. Many thousands have found this out by experience, and this is why no treatment for coughs and colds has anything like the sale in this country that this well-known medicine has.

> Croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, sore throat and chest colds soon yield to the healing, soothing influence of this great medicine. You can readily prove this and will then understand why this treatment is so popular.

be glad," Alice went on, while the degrees above zero, Fahrenheit, and tears flowed freely, "for Carrie is a a winter minimum of the remarkable tude sixty-seven degrees, on the Good Dr. Blake reached out his great Arctic plain, scarcely more than one hundred and fifty feet above the level of the sea. Probably there would be no town there if it were enough to call their faults by their not necessary to Russian governmennames," he said: "You are not the tal purposes to have an administrafirst, by any means, who has been tive centre for a region where many thrifty Yakuts, the fur-traders, carry on their operations.

The average temperature of the winter in Verkhoyansk is fifty-three degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. The Bright's disease. All of which rerivers freeze to the bottom, and the small trees have been known to snap it is claimed, not a disagreeable place waste matter. of residence, and is preferred by the Russian officials to many more southern and warmer posts. Its at- new leaf and eat less, particularly of mosphere in winter is always clear, meats, pastry and highly-seasoned and for the little time that the sun foods. One kidney-liver pill occais above the horizon, its beams are sionally at bedtime will keep the liver unobstructed. The air is still, too; and bowels active and insure the healthful working of the organs of no blizzards or drifting snowstorms digestion.

life a burden to the inhabitants.

The Siberian dress completes the The coldest inhabited place in the comfort of the citizens of this Arctic world is undoubtedly Verkhoyansk, city. It consists of two suits of fur, in north-eastern Siberia, with a mean an outer and an inner suit. The inner suit is worn fur side inward. the outer, fur side outward. With his hood down, and just enough space left to see out of and to breathe through, the Verkhoyansker is vastly more comfortable in a temperature of eighty below than many an American in his cloth overcoat in a temperature of five above zero.

> The winter, indeed, is more enjoyable than the summer, which is hotter, than might be expected. The average temperature of July in Verkhoyansk is fifty-nine above zero, and very hot days are not uncommon. The earth becomes green, and vegetation thrives, though only the surface of the ground is thawed. At Yakuask, which is further south than Verkhoyansk, but not much warmer in winter, the mercury rises in July to one hundred degrees.—Harper's Weeky.

> A large number of beautiful memorials of various kinds were placed in the different churches in Chicago at the Easter festival.

Gorging

In these words a prominent graduate of Harvard Medical School, E. R. Moras, M.D., calls attention to the habit of "overeating," which is resulting in the shortening of so many useful lives.

Every day you read of deaths of persons in middle life caused by acute indigestion, peritonitis, appendicitis or sult from overcrowding the digestive organs

The liver gets sluggish, the bowels and split from the force of the frost. become constipated, and the whole Yet, with all this, Verkhoyansk is, system is poisoned by the fermenting

You can overcome this poisoned condition by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Then turn over a