Splendid Address On The War-British Obligations Mantained-The Empire at Stake—A Stirring Address by Mr. W.S. Brewster

The Borden Club last night put on their opening night in the Conservative rooms with a goodly gathering and a star program or speeches and solos. The President, R. T. Hall opened the evening with his usual breezy remarks and outlined the season now ahead. Last night would be the last night for this year and after the New Year holidays, a series of lectures and debates would be given. He then called upon the evenings entertainer. Mr. Vernon Cooper, of Paris, who rendered in splendid voice Paris, who rendered in splendid voice the undying refrain Loves Coronation'. It was a great effort and the singer surpassed himself in his able mastery of its sentiment. Responding to an encore, he gave a musical reading "Let's argue it out" and blought down the house with his able mimicry and incomparable action.

Mayor Spence was then called upon for some remarks, which he said would be few. He briefly introduced all present to the speaker of the evening, Mr. W. F. Cockshutt.

MR. W. F. COCKSHUTT Mr. Cockshutt, who then rose to speak, was received with the ever recurring demonstration from the audiof his popularity.

CAUSE AND REASON. He said: The war was a topic perhaps thrashed cut, but was worth a review. It opened with the assassina-tion of the Crown Prince, and his consort, who was the heir apparent to the throne. The sympathy of the civilized world went out to Austria in her loss. All felt Servia was guilty, she When these socalled facts were investigated, it was found to be wrong, the crime was committed on Austrian soil and by Austrias subjects. Investigation has proved it so; even if it was only lately acquired.

An ultimatum to Servia followed, filled with 15 or 20 drastic requirements and we hnow her answer was not satisfactory. It would have pen-alized her to submit, as no self-governing state could permit. This ulti-matum was designed by the war-lords of Germany and was so designed that war would be the only possible out-come. That it fulfilled its awful purpose, is known to-day by the results. This was the occasion however, not the cause—the reason was the royal time selected was when she felt her strength and thought her enemies weakest. Russia, determined that she could not stand by and see her sister Slav state wiped out. France and Britain had their agreements and the neutrality of Belgium should not be violated, and they took up arms in when Germany wanted it, and violated, and they took up arms in her cause.

Belgium is one of little known countries of Europe, but one of the most interesting to visit. For one hundred years ago, stained with the blood of every nation of Europe, in 1815, Britain at that time was called into the breach just as she is to-day, to defend her against the legions of Napolean. Belgium was in no way interested. All she desired was peace. She had only a small army, though they came of fighting stock, that had given a wenderful account of herself given a wonderful account of herself in the present war. (Cheers.) Not a quarter of the size of Ontario, but it had a population of 650 to the square mile. Every feet of ground tilled; intensive farming on a scale we can be a square with the field of its battle to save the lives of little children for the lack of money have died for us, and whatever we have died for us, and whatever we have deliced for us, and the first of the firs tensive farming, on a scale we can-not understand, she has made the best of herself in every respect.

OUR OBLIGATIONS It was planned that Germany would go through Belgium; railways were planned for it, and the French border was fortified so strongly it could only be menaced at an awful loss of life and material. That is the reason she laid her campaign through neutral

With only 12 hours notice, the Belgians were asked to submit, and politely informed if not granted, it would be taken by force, but not until she had lest many of her finest corps by the gallant defence of the home-loving subjects of King Albert. Britain negotiated, and did her utmost to call a halt and stop the carnand much to be proud of. Germany's neighbors' were unpresent the day had with able mastery of subject he traced the history of the party from Sir John A. Macdonald's day to ours, age-it was useless.
