GERMAN FLEET LOCKED IN NOW BY MINE FIELD

Can Come Out, But Must Fight in Place of British Navy's Choosing.

London, Nov. 15.—The Daily Express in the course of a dispassionate article on the navy asserts that it is allowed to reveal a "secret" long known in Germany, that the British mine fields in the German mine fields protecting their channels and harbors and that unless their ships are scrapped or made by mines, they will stay in the Kiel Canal until the end of the war.

The writer declares, nevertheless, that plenty of space is left to enable them to emerge and fight in a place of the British navy's choosing. The British armada of patrol boats is equipped with wireless to ensure against surprise.

He declares, incidentally that there will be no Trafalgar in the present war. The great final engagement of the war he says, was that of the Dogger Banks in January. He adds that a map showing the German submarines captured recently was shown to newspapermen visiting Admiral Jellicoe's fleet. The map covered only the waters to the west. The operations since then, the writer says, have been far more successful.

Berne, Nov. 14 vit Paris, Nov. 15.—The anniversary of the battle of Morgarten in 1315, which marked the origin of Swiss liberty, was celebrated to-day. President Motta delivered an address in which he declared Switzerland must avoid doing anything which would tend to cause a division in the country and must take every step possible to unify itself. The time will come he said when the entire world will recognize the good will and reconciling influence of neutral countries.

The revolting Swiss confederates 1400 strong under Unterwalden defeated 15,000 Austrians under Duke Leopold in the mountain pass at Morgarten on November 15, 1315. Fifteen hundred Austrians perished.

Ireland is now at work on a large scale in the manufacture of munitions of war. For several years past there has been only one large Irish factory of war material, Kynock's, in County Wicklow. It is an offshoot of the Birmingham firm of which Arthur Chamberlain, brother of the famous English statesman, was the head. But the necessities of the war have in Ireland, as in England, turned other trades into the munitions business. Representatives of Lloyd-George's department went over to Ireland and got into touch with leading business men in Dublin and throughout the country. The work is now well in hand, and no fewer than 170 firms in Ireland are engaged in it.

The text of the communication follows:—

"In the Artois district at The Labyrinth the fighting between infantry forces, together with the throwing of hand grenades, continued without interruption last night. It has been confirmed that the losses of the enemy during the action of Nov. 14th were very heavy."

"In the Champagne district the Germans have attacked with hand grenades the barriers erected in front of our listening posts at Butter do Tache. They were repulsed."

"In the Woevre, to the north of Cirey, the explosion of one of our mines together with the very sustained fire of our trench guns, overwhelmed the enemy and demolished his sapping works."

Paris, Nov. 15, 2.35 p.m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of hostilities in the east, which reads as follows:—

"During the day of November 12 we made progress to the north of Pabrovo, in the direction of Kosturino. Bulgarian troops delivered a violent attack along the entire front of the left bank of the River Cerna. They were driven back with heavy losses."

M. GALLIEN GETTING AFTER THE FAVORITES

Paris, Nov. 15.—General Gallieni, the French minister of war, gave another example to-day of his decision not to tolerate abusive favoritism in the army when an officer of the territorial was sentenced to sixty days in a fortress for making use of an automobile owned by a man whom he had selected for an order.

At the expiration of the sentence, the name of the officer will be stricken from the army list, while the order will be sent to the front as soon as possible.

General Gallieni furthermore sent a circular to the generals in various regions of France condemning as criminal abuses of all kinds at a time when the country is at stake and stating that he wished to stigmatize such acts by the foregoing example.

WASHINGTON LISTS SURVIVORS

Washington, Nov. 15.—The most connected official narrative of the rescue of survivors from the torpedoed Italian liner Ancona yet to reach the State Department arrived to-day by cable from Ambassador Shnap at Paris who transmitted telegrams to the French Minister of Marine from the prefect at Bizerta. They follow:—

"November 7.—100 shipwrecked persons of which six wounded from Ancona torpedoed Sunday noon brought to Bizerta."

"November 8.—Two torpedo boats this evening brought 21 survivors and four bodies to Bizerta. Survivors are 163 out of 480, and are being cared for at Sidi Abdallah hospital. The submarine which sank the Ancona, according to Concordant information received by me was from 80 to 100 metres long, and armed with fairly large guns forward and two smaller ones aft."

"November 9.—A boat from the Ancona arrived this afternoon at Cape Bon with 28 persons, bringing total survivors to 187. Of the 181, cared for at Sidi Abdallah, one is an American woman, one is a Russian, sixteen are Greeks and the balance are Italians."

"November 10.—Two of Ancona boats have just arrived, one at Sembra with 28 survivors and the other at Tunis with 37 others. Total survivors 224."

This was all the official information in the hands of the French Government.
