FARMERSVILLE AND VICINITY.
Our Reporter's Note Book Turned Inside Out for the Benefit of the Public.

THE OLD C. M. PARSONAGE, now owned by Mr. J. H. McLaughlin, is undergoing extensive repairs.

Mr. DELORMA WILTSSE has entered into partnership with A. C. Barnett and they will open out this week a full line of boots and shoes of all kinds in the building now occupied by the latter. Look for their ad. next week.

MESSES A. PARISH & SON have made good progress during the week excavating for the cellar of their new brick block. The building will be rushed through lively as the firm have all the material on the ground ready for the workmen.

Mr. W. H. MAGEE, of Merrickville, has behind him $110,000 in real estate and personal property, the greater part of which was left to his three children after providing for his widow. He also made several donations to his brothers and sisters, each receiving $300, and to a grandson he left $1,000.

A UNION SABBATH SCHOOL was started at Wasburn's school house, on Sunday, the 1st inst., with Mr. Lewis Washburn superintendent. The school is well organized, and is attended by large numbers. It assembles at half-past nine every Sunday morning, and prayer meeting is held after the school—at 10:30.

THE THOROUGHbred Jersey bull, "Diamond," two years old, has been purchased by a syndicate for the improvement of their stock. The fee for a limited number of cows is $3. The animal will be kept at Ernest Livingstone's farm, a short distance from Farmersville, on the Lake Eloyda road.

THE BUILDING occupied by Messrs. Lamb and Thompson was vacated on Friday last. Mr. Lamb occupies the Armstrong House sample room as a drug store and the rooms over it. H. Arnold's store as a dental office, and Mr. Thompson has pitched his tent in the old meat market, lately occupied by Chas. A. Kincaid as a grocery. Mrs. Thompson occupies part of the same shop as a millinery room.

THE SMITH'S FALLS Independent thus complains of the High School in that town—"45 High School pupils, 3 teachers, $2200, 15 pupils per teacher, nearly $50 per pupil. Great Scott! Why not give the pupils the money, let them engage private tutors and rent the High School to some of the societies in town." We think the trustees of the Farmersville High School could give the managers of the Smith's Falls institution a few pointers.

THE BAND boys are busy practicing several new pieces and no doubt will soon give us a repetition of the numerous over air concerts, which were so much appreciated last season. The boys are sadly in need of a new band suit and we think that the people of the village would respond liberally if they were called upon individually and asked to contribute to so worthy an object. The services of the band have been given gratuitously on many occasions, sometimes at considerable sacrifice to some of the members, and we think the people should take this matter up and collect and present the boys with a liberal donation for the purpose above mentioned. The Reporter staff is prepared to respond liberally when called upon.

ON THURSDAY EVENING last, Mr. George W. Green, our popular young lawyer, was united in the bonds of wedlock to Ina, eldest daughter of Mr. A. J. Bates. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father, Kincaid st., Brockville, the officiating minister being the Rev. Mr. Weeks. The bridesmaids were Miss Lillie Bates and Miss Lulu Publow. The groom was supported by Mr. Billings, of Ottawa. After an elegantly served repast had been partaken of by the numerous guests, the happy couple started west on their honeymoon, amid the hearty congratulations of their friends. We understand the bride received many handsome presents some of which were in the sensible form of packages containing substantial sums of money. We wish the newly wedded pair a happy and prosperous career.

FROM PARTIES living near Graham Lake we learn that the boy Hooper, whose sad death by drowning was recorded in our list, was very much liked by all who came in contact with him. It seems that he was taken from the "Home" at Belleville by a lady and went to reside in the neighborhood of Toronto. Shortly afterwards the lady decided to remove to New York, and refused to take young Hooper, but he wished to go and start out on foot to seek his fortune. He started east on the way between there and Kingston he was two days and nights without food. He finally made his way to Lansdowne where he lived with a farmer for some time. A friend happening to mention to Mr. McClary that a smart boy wanted a place, he went up and being pleased with the boy's appearance brought him home with him, and during the four weeks that Hooper was at his place he received the very best treatment, and the boy in return tried to do everything possible for his benefactor. When the news of the accident reached Mr. McClary, he quickly collected the neighbors and used every effort to rescue the boy from the water and the search was continued until nearly midnight. When the body was recovered and taken to McClary's house, to points of expense were spared to give the remains a fitting burial, and the remark was freely made by those present that if the boy was McClary's own son he could not have received better treatment. The body was followed by a large concourse of the neighbors to its last resting place in the Calvary Cemetery, the funeral sermon being preached by Rev. Mr. Fuller of the Presbyterian Church. We understand that Mr. McClary will at once give orders for a monument to be erected over the remains.

NINTH DIVISION COURT.

The ninth Division Court was held in the town hall, on Monday last, His Honor Judge Reynolds presiding. In taking the bench, the Judge instructed the clerk to procure another place for holding court, his orders in regard to the town hall had not been complied with. The first case called was

C. L. Lamb vs estate late Stephen Sheldon, and Nathaniel Benedict, added by consent. This case had been adjourned from two courts, on technicalities, and was further adjourned, after hearing the evidence of plaintiff and several witnesses, to judges chambers, at such time, as would suit the convenience of counsel.

F. L. Moore, vs trustees of school section No. 32 of Elizabethtown. Action brought by plaintiff for wood furnished to school section. The defendants claimed that the wood was not furnished according to agreement, and the court nonsuited the plaintiff without costs of day.

Jas. Leneham vs A. E. Donevan, action on account. Adjourned by consent, as the debts, Attorney was absent on a bridal tour.

Chas. Foley vs Malvin Livingstone. Action for wages. Judgment for plaintiff.

Mrs. Jennie M. Curtis vs Johnathan Frost, P. D., Mitchell & Robinson garnishees. Judgment against Frost as no funds to garnishee, the account of Frost having been assigned before action was taken.

Chas. A. Kincaid vs Mitchell and Robinson. Action on account. Case adjourned. Papers to be sent to judge for further adjournment.

Wm. McLaughlin vs Jas. Cumming. Action for damage to the land of plaintiff, by the raising of the waters of Temperance lake. Martin Hunt appeared on behalf of Cumming, and asked for adjournment, to enable him to get on a surveyor and ascertain how much of the land claimed to be damaged was beyond high water mark. Adjournment granted by deft. paying costs of day forthwith.

J. H. McLaughlin vs H. N. Mosher. This was an old judgment summons on which the deft. had been previously committed to jail in default of payment. Mac. seems to stick to the doctor like a leech to a sick patient, and on the doctor stating his inability to get work to pay the bill, he generously offered to give him work at $25 per day, provided he boarded himself and performed a reasonable amount of work. The doctor thought he could make more selling "roots and yarbs," and it was finally arranged that he should work on a part of the job, and sell yarbs to pay the balance.

ARE THE QUALITIES OF OUR STOCK HEREDITARY?

By the Farmer's Editor.
From time immemorial, in every race of animals that we are acquainted with, individuals have been noticed that were noted for a vicious disposition. A proof of this may be found in man. One family or race is gentle and kind—another is cruel and warlike. It is equally clear that this vicious quality may be transmitted to animals as well as in man. Among birds and animals there occasionally appear individuals noted for intelligence to a degree almost human—their docility, amiability and kindness are surprising and that this wisdom—that these good qualities may also be transmitted with as great force as the bad ones in other specimens is quite true. Now and then a stock raiser has noticed these things so closely that he has determined to weed out in future all vicious stock and select those only with the most desirable disposition and by this means escape both losses and aggravations. How emphatically true is the above of the horse that is more to be desired than a horse that is all gentleness and kindness combined with abundant action and endurance. Young Warrior, the property of Sheldon Y. Bullis, of Plum Hollow, is a remarkable example of docility, as also were his sires for generations back. It is said that sometimes he is turned into his box stall in September and is not harnessed until the next April. When he is first harnessed, if one did not know better, he would think the animal in the meantime had been in the hands of an expert trainer while at the same time he is ready to display all the flourish and action that is called for—then instantly resume all the quiet gentleness of a lady's filly. Now these long periods of idleness prove that it is his natural disposition to act in this manner, and not training. The natural disposition is faithfully transmitted—training is not. Proof with animals, however well trained and tamed, impart none of these acquired qualities to their young, that will be retained by them if left to roam at their own sweet will, for in such a condition they finally manifest all the savage traits of disposition found in their progenitors. Therefore we infer that the intelligence and gentleness of a horse more especially for stock purposes is greatly to be preferred to any that may be acquired—for as in man no acquisition can for a moment weigh in the balance against common sense. The strong promise of extra high speed in the stock of this horse, and the high price paid for many of the same as in the case of the splendid sale made by Mr. Samuel B. Williams of this village, is sufficient to call the attention of thoughtful men to Young Warrior. There is a colt one year old, received by him, and in the next fall to be sold—standing 15 1/2 hands high—with every point for speed fully developed. It is more than probable that Mr. Bullis has struck a bonanza in that colt.

NOTE.—This article is written without Mr. Bullis's knowledge, and he is in no way connected with its insertion.—Editor.

ADDITIONAL COUNTY NEWS.

New Dublin.

Death has again visited our quiet neighborhood and removed one of our oldest inhabitants, Mrs. Jane Boulton, aged ninety-three years. She left quite an amount of money with Mr. George Boulton to take care of an aged brother who has always lived with her. The old gentleman is over eighty years of age, and never married.

The steam mill is running on full time, giving good satisfaction. We are more than pleased with the proprietor, Mr. Cadwell, as he is a very obliging, good natured gentleman.

Mr. Benjamin Horton has commenced putting up the walls of his house, placing it on a lovely site. When finished it will probably be the best house in Dublin. The cut stone base and corners were finished by Patrick Fitzgerald, of Farmersville, and are universally acknowledged to be the finest finished cut stone work ever put up in this section.

Mr. Thomas Murray, of the Bingo farm, had an encounter the other day with a Glen Buell colored man, and barely escaped with his life. Blood shed; water flew; hair dropped; ground all torn up; English language slaughtered; Watson's barn yard enriched; and still the exhibition goes on lively all the time. Tom says he must not call him out of his name by terming him a nigger.

Front of Yonge.

We met a first class tramp, if such there be, last week, and minutely looked him over. He was making his way to that hard city called Ottawa. Among many questions asked by us of said traveller we inquired if whiskey played any part in the drama of his life, to which he replied that it did, and that he would have been rich only for an inherent desire for bug juice. He informed us that he cannot now do without whiskey and that he carries a small still on his back and when he luckily drops into a Scott Act township or county, he just stakes down and makes a small decoction of tangle log.

It is reported that a Mr. Stephens will, during summer, at least, manage the stage between Farmersville and Melroytown.

Mr. James B. Baell has received a large consignment of apple trees, which he is now delivering to the farming community throughout the township.

The saw mill of Mr. George Tennant has been closed for some time, in order to have repairs made on boiler and other parts of the machinery, but will resume running this week (D.V.)

Newboro.

A. Wallace is building an addition to his house, recently purchased, the same to be used as a tailor shop. He will soon remove to his new premises.

The Rideau Belle is now making her regular trips.

The Whaley Bros. have erected sheds for manufacturing brick, near the Canal Locks.

John Moore's child who has been sick for some time, died last Wednesday night. The reporters of last week did not reach us as usual, which caused considerable disappointment. The Editor promptly forwarded a second lot, as soon as informed that none had been received.

John Hart, Ontario House, is preparing to build an addition to his hotel, in which there will be a hall and sample rooms. Ambrose Singleton and Will. Duffin students from Farmersville visited home friends, Friday and Saturday. Mr. S. returning on Monday.

Some of our Newboro sports have leased for the summer, Long Park, and intend fitting up the track in good style. We may expect to hear of some fast time being made by some of our local steeds.

Col. Benton, of Papineau N. Y., was in town last week looking over the Chaffee iron mines, with a view of buying and opening up the same.

The employees of our R. R. are working under the last year's chestnut, "work to-day and play to-morrow."

Mr. Butler, mother of James Butler of this place, died at the residence of her son, in Perth last week aged 93 years. "MY OWN NAME."

Elbe Mills.

The most of our farmers have begun seeding. The ground is yet rather wet. Haskins and Gordon sent away their first load of cheese boxes on Saturday last.

Mrs. Willard Weeks, from Grier's mills, is on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Hickey. Fall wheat has been badly winter killed in this vicinity, and will not be more than half a crop.

Mr. Geo. Hickey started for Milwaukee, Wis., on Tuesday 10th inst. He secured a position in an iron office with his brother-in-law, Wm. G. Moore.

Our neighborhood has been very quiet lately, excepting Mrs. Earl and Mrs. Gibson, who are recovering. There has been no sickness for which no doubt all are thankful.
