Progress of the War.

The war news has grown to be such an uncertain quantity, that people not given to sensationalism, not unreasonably regard it as a huge farce. Ever since the declaration of war we have, from day to day, been told of a momentous engagement about to take place between the contending forces. These trials of martial prowess have been postponed or countermanded according to the whims and caprices of the sensational news monger. So much contradiction and unreasoning has there been in these matters that those who do not wish to be humbugged are very little about reading the latest war news. We have had, during the past week, several accounts of the bombardment of Santo Domingo, and the results. First we were told that terrible destruction and loss of life the American ships caused, while they themselves escaped unharmed, and none of their men were hurt. Following this we have an account purporting to come from Madrid, which stated that the American ships made three fierce attacks on the forts, which replied, repulsing the Americans with heavy losses, estimated at 1,500 men. The batteries were unscathed and the ships were repaired. On Thursday last we were informed that a great battle took place at Camerana, on the Bay of Guantanamo, a small town about fifty miles from Santiago; that the town was almost, if not entirely, destroyed, and that a force of about 8,000 American troops had been successfully landed on Cuban soil. This report admitted that four Americans were killed and one wounded, and that the Spanish loss was heavy. In connection with this battle and the landing of American troops a Washington despatch of the 13th, says, no word had been received by the officials concerning the fight at Guantanamo, and that the report that 8,000 troops had landed near Santiago could not be confirmed. After numerous other contradictory reports regarding fighting and the landing of troops, we were told yesterday that, at last, fifteen thousand American soldiers were on the high seas to join Sampson's floating army, and that the first great struggle between the Spanish and American soldiers was near at hand. We were further told that the fleet would not likely arrive off Santiago before Thursday, tomorrow. The fleet, it is reported, consists of 32 transports and 16 war vessels. According to this the United States authorities are making a supreme effort to consummate their work in behalf of humanity! While all these preparations are in progress to liberate the poor down trodden and unenlightened Cubans, the highly civilized and refined soldiers of the United States, by way of diversion, are fighting among themselves in their camp at Tampa, Florida. It is said that a squad of colored regulars got drunk on being paid off, and met a lot of white southern volunteers, whom a fight ensued; four were killed. More trouble in consequence of race feeling, is anticipated when new troops arrive. So much regarding operations on the Atlantic side. Meanwhile we are told General Merritt, who is to be the Military Governor of the Philippine Islands, will leave San Francisco, inside of two weeks. His troops will precede him. Two fleets have already sailed, and a third army is in course of preparation. Right on the heels of this comes from San Francisco, intelligence somewhat at variance with the ordinary war news; but which we have no doubt has more truth in it than most of the rest. Indeed it is safe to say that the spirit that would inspire such enterprises has had most to do with this unrighteous and outrageous war. Here is the despatch in question: Powerful influence has been brought to bear upon President McKinley by the leading Protestant denominations against allowing the Philippines to remain in the control of the Roman Catholic mission, and in favor of the separation of the Ladrones and Carolines in the interests of Protestant missions. So the cat is out of the bag. We commend this intelligence to the serious consideration of the editor of the Boston Pilot, and the editors of those other Catholic newspapers in the United States who have been praising the United States authorities for inaugurating this war in behalf of humanity, civilization and Christianity.

By a vote of 28 to 5 the senate on Monday last rejected the second reading of the Manila Insular School Bill. This measure provided for an advance by the Dominion Government to Manila school funds held in trust by the Dominion Government out of the sale of western lands reserved for school purposes.

TWO WARNINGS.

Loosing flesh is one and a hacking cough is another. If they come together the warning is a loud and hard one. Scott's Emulsion does some of its best work in just these cases. It prevents consumption.

The Late Judge Reddin.

It is our sad duty today to chronicle the death of Judge D. O. M. Reddin, of the County Court of King's County. The summons of the dread reaper is, in this case, more keenly felt by his friends, in consequence of the call being somewhat sudden. His illness lasted but a few days. He was stricken with pneumonia which baffled the efforts of the most skilled physicians. He was well prepared for his final journey. He devotedly received the last Sacraments and died fortified by all the rites of holy Church. Deceased was the son of the late Dennis Reddin, and was born in this City, in 1829. He was educated at St. Andrew's College and at the Seminary of Quebec. He studied law with the late Sir Robert Hodgson and was admitted to the bar in 1852. He became Solicitor General of the Province in 1853, and continued in that office for several terms. He was Attorney and Advocate General in 1867 and 1868. He was for nine years a member of the Board of Education, and was for a number of years Law Clerk to the Legislature. In 1870, just prior to the entrance of this Province into Confederation, he was appointed Judge of the County Court of King's County. From that time till his death he continued to discharge the duties of his responsible office faithfully and efficiently, and to the satisfaction of the public. He was of most genial disposition and was a great favorite in social circles. His qualities of head and heart won for him hosts of friends among all classes of people. He married, early in life, Susan J. K. Brown. She and six children survive to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. The funeral took place this morning and was very largely attended. A Solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated at the Cathedral by his Lordship the Bishop assisted by Rev. Dr. Doyle as arch-priest, and Revs. St. D. Phelan and Dr. Morrison as deacon and sub-deacon. After the singing of the Missa and the absolution, the funeral cortege proceeded to the cathedral, where the Bishop presided. The pall-bearers were: Hon. E. J. Hodgson, Hon. Judge Alley, Hon. Frederick Brecken, Professor Caven, F. L. Hassard, Esq., Thos. Handranan, Esq., Mrs. Reddin and the family have our sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

Sir Adolphe Chapleau.

WORD comes from Montreal of the death of Sir Adolphe Chapleau, ex-Lieutenant Governor of Quebec, which took place in that city shortly after noon on Monday last. Deceased had been in poor health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. On Thursday last he received the last sacraments and died fortified by all the rites of the Church. Joseph Adolphe Chapleau was born at St. John's, New Brunswick, in 1840. He received his education in his native parish, and at the College of St. Hyacinthe. Having chosen the profession of law he was called to the bar of Lower Canada in 1861. He rose rapidly in his profession and soon attained to eminence in the courts. He was elected to the Quebec Legislature in 1867, and continued a member of that body till 1882, when he was elected to the Commons by his native county of Terrebonne. He was a member of the Quebec Government from 1873 till 1874, and from 1876 till 1878, when the de Bucherville Government, of which he was a member, was dismissed by Lieut. Governor Letellier. He then became Leader of the Opposition in the Legislature, and became Premier on the fall of the Joly Government. He resigned the Provincial Premiership in 1882, when he entered the Commons and became Secretary of State in Sir John A. Macdonald's Government. He continued in this position till 1892, when he was appointed Lieutenant Governor of his native Province. He was subsequently knighted and has since been known as Sir Adolphe Chapleau. He retired from the Lieutenant Governorship, at the expiry of the term, a few months ago. Since then his health has been poor and he has been very quiet. Sir Adolphe was an ardent Conservative, and possessed great influence with the French Canadian people. He possessed brilliant talents, and was an eminent lawyer, and, possibly, the most powerful orator that ever the Province of Quebec produced. The power of his oratory was such that he could sway multitudes of his countrymen at will. Ill health had, of late, prevented him from taking a more prominent part in the public affairs. He certainly was one of Quebec's most gifted and brilliant sons.

The Dominion Parliament was prorogued on Monday. A spirited debate took place in both chambers on the third reading of the Supply Bill. Foster spoke for over an hour, reviewing the financial career of the Government. The first part of his speech was a statement of the increase in expenditure, debt, and taxation in two years, and by citations from declarations made by Laurier, Mills, and other members of the present Government, before elections, he showed that the party in power increased expenditure exactly by the amount they promised to reduce it—four millions; and that the public debt had increased about twice as fast under this control as during the last four years of Tory rule, when Cartwright pronounced it "monstrous and dangerous." The second part of Mr. Foster's discourse dealt with the reckless and criminal way the Government had broken down the safeguards imposed by the traditions of usage and the constitution against lavish and irresponsible spending of money. He spoke of the expenditure in excess of the money voted, contracts given out to friends and relatives of Ministers, privately and at private prices, of the great crop of superannuations of the general increase in ministerial establishment and of general spendthrift methods of the Ministers. Fielding, in a brief speech, admitted the supply bill to be the largest in the memory of Canada. In the Senate, Ferguson criticized the bill in the light of Mills' own declaration before the elections that a four million reduction could easily be made in current expenses.

BABY BRIGHTNESS.

Soon fade when Diarrhoea seizes on the little form. Dr. Fowler's Kidney and Bladder Pills have saved many infants as well as adults. W. W. Walters, Richmond St., Hamilton, Ont., says: "I cured my baby of a bad attack of Cholera by using Fowler's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Nothing else did any good, but the baby improved from the first dose of the Wild Strawberry."

This Montreal Gazette refers to the act recently passed by our Legislature making it necessary for any creditor selling goods through a commercial traveller, and who has to resort to the courts for the purpose of collecting the amount of his claim for goods or for promissory notes or acceptances, to prove at the trial that the commercial traveller who effected such sale had at the time a license under the provisions of the act and says: "Montreal merchants look on the act in question as injurious to their interest, and the Bankers' Association will consult their legal advisers to ascertain whether it cannot be disallowed as unconstitutional by the Governor-General-in-Council. The Council of the Board of Trade will probably petition for its disallowance if it be decided that it cannot be done. The Montreal Times referring to the same act has this to say: 'If the people of Charlestown or the Island of which it is the capital, chose, like the people of Fredericton and some other places down east, to adopt, and then reform, more enlightened years to adhere to, such narrow and antiquated view of trade as to repel visitors and tax people who offer their goods, we can only wonder and wonder. But the clerk of the Charlestown Provincial Treasurer goes further in its statement of the effect of this law. 'The provisions of said Act also apply,' he says, 'to all creditors seeking to prove claims against debtors under the provisions of an Act passed during the same session, intitled 'An Act Respecting Assignments for the Benefit of Creditors,' 'although' the Act does not, however, apply to contracts entered into previous to the passing thereof on the 14th of May, 1898.' This means if we interpret it correctly, that if a house, in Montreal for example, sells a bill of goods to a retailer in Georgetown, or Summerside, and the retailer neglects to deliver to pay it when due, the authorities of the province will not assist that house to collect its justly due debt because a license to trade had not been paid to the Government. This it seems to us, is something more than merely saying to merchants at a distance: 'Keep away from us; we don't want you; we will sue and harass you if you dare to attempt to sell us goods.' It is virtually helping that debtor to defraud his creditors, because if the Montreal merchant cannot produce his license the Summerside or Georgetown dealer must snare his fingers at him and make him wait for his money. This is one of the recent provincial enactments that needs revision."

Ditching Plow.

Sir, I have numerous inquiries from your Province about a ditching plow that I have used on my farm for a number of years.

Permit me to state for your readers that with this plow, I have made and an extra man, a farmer has again and again finished up 800 feet of drain, 3 feet deep, in a day.

My plow cost me less than $20, laid down at my door, and any farmer can have it at the same price. It works successfully in gravel or the toughest clay. If any farmer cares to write to me, enclosing a stamp to carry his letter back, I can furnish him information which will make his ditching work no longer a drudgery, but a delight.

It is a fact that nothing is hindering prosperity on the farm so much today as the want of ditching.

I am yours,
B. G. Scott,

The government was brought up with a round turn on the morning of the 3rd. The majority tried to force through the public accounts committee a report commending the action of the government in spending some $10,000 in the alleged ballot box prosecutions. The inquiry is not yet completed. Some more witnesses called have not appeared, and the man who did come with a contradictory story of the committee's fraud did not bring his evidence. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper stated that the inquiry would be resumed next session, and proposed that in the meantime the evidence so far taken should be reported without comment. Messrs. Mallock, Sifton, Davies and Fielding were present, and it was insisted that the report vindicting the government should be brought in. There was real confusion, but Sir Hibbert Tupper supported by Messrs. Wood, Clancy, Sproles and others in the demand that judgment should not be passed by a majority of the committee without hearing any evidence except that of the man who pocketed some of the money. As the majority were determined to shunt down and vote down the opposition, Sir Hibbert assumed the offensive, withdrew his motion to report evidence and proposed to re-open the case, asking for a summons for Sir Oliver Mowat and several others, and informing Hon. Mr. Mallock that the government would not get their business through the house until this investigation was concluded if the minister persisted in their determination of the money. THE CHURCH'S

"Such has been the Church's beginning, for England's of the many, though none with such subsequent dim Church and to the world, must be till the end. In this era matters of truth and morality speak the will of God. It is to man, and it must ever proceed must be as it was in the Old Testament. The fate of the fortress-like portal of our armies is the inscription on it ought to be: 'Pro aris et foveis nostris.' It is our altar and our fires. It is comprehensive summing up of all that has been said. It is by that power alone has strength to keep in check the animal passions, whose untamed satisfaction is the cause of ruin of the moral life. It is by the altar that the woman puts on and her beauty as a stainless chaste wife. It is the altar that she becomes the priestess of her home, and the temple where no unclean thing is by the altar that she inspires her sons and daughters the faithful, and the glory of the factitious and admiring flesh husband, and makes him a devoted guide in prosperity and adversity, his happy in the life and his persevering influence hand, they journey from earth the home of the Father of us all, and the altar of the home is the place like the one where their wedding day, when the wife and her husband are sanctified by the blood of Jesus and like that other sacred spot first married lovers stood and first home an earthly paradise, and not man pronounced them keep such homes as God made men in times of peace frame will have, and for that reason the carnage of war, they will gladly die. 'Pro aris et foveis' is the motto for those who are true to their homes; for those who are not is an empty mockery of meaning. That fire which burns upon the mantelpiece itself to the souls of dwell in the household, makes the altar of the home, and from the united virtues of husband and wife, and the home are found a midday of truth, fidelity, and rest, which is the only light in which we can acquire and preserve a real peace. In this light nations shall be judged in the brightness of their rising possession of wealth, not the pious, not mere intellectual or personal purity of men and women, and the inviolability of the tie and the altar-like holiness, heartiness, are the guarantee, the property and the life of the nation of the earth."
