Reason and faith resemble the sons of the patriarch; reason is the first born, but faith inherits the blessing.

Write injuries in dust and benefits on marble. For nothing is lost on him who sees with an eye that feeling gave. For him there's a story in every breeze and a picture in every wave. Persons who are always innocently

Persons who are always innocently cheerful and good humored are very useful in the world; they maintain peace and happiness and spread a thankful temper among all who live around them.

We often think we are of great importance to other people; that they must be thinking of us and our affairs; that they watch our actions and shape their course accordingly. In general we are quite mistakes.

The people of a country like ours are peculiarly like a single great individual man, full of passions, prejudices often, but with a great heart, despising anything like show or pretense, and always atriving forward in a general right di-The truest lives are those that are cut

The truest lives are those that are cut rose-diamond fashion, with many facets answering to the many planed aspects of the world about them.  * Society is always trying in some way or other to grind us down to a single flat surface.

An excellent and usefulinaxin is this hopeful ejaculation-inever despair? The lot of man is disappointment, but his went enemy is despair. Resolute confidence, when all other means fail, may often avert danger and overcome difficulty; may more, it may convert the bane into a blessing.

Right-doing is first hard, then easy.

Right-doing is first hard, then easy, then delightful. Such is the history of each virtue in the race and in the individual. Its beauty may be hidden in the soot of self-denial and effort, but it comes into full bleom when at length the effort has grown into a pleasure that we would not willingly forcers.

would not willingly forego. Like flakes of snow that fall unperceived on the earth, the seemingly unimportant events of lite succeed one another. As the snow gatters together so are our habits formed. No single flake that is added to the pile produces a sensible change; no single action creates, how-ever it exhibits a man's character.

It is a fatal mistake to think that inhis work a value to mankind that follow the most urgent efforts

Household Hints.

Better than an iron apoon for mixing sponge for bread, and for similar uses is a "muddle," or a piece of oak shaped into a round smooth handle at one end, and the other end flattened like a thick knife blade, then sand-papered smooth. Scaly leg is caused by a minute insect.

Kerosene oil spiled with an old trush two or three times will cure it. The shanks may be immersed in oil for a minute. The foul should be kept on a bed of straw or hay until the oil has dried off. Some recommend an application of lard and flour of sulphur.

All loose parts of a stove, such as the legs, poker, etc., should be wrapped in coarse paper and put insidd the stove before it and a stove before it is put away. Then you'll know where to find them next fall. Mark the joints with chalk so you'll know how to put them together again. When a knob comes off a door handle you can fasten it on again by filling the cavity in the knob with sulphur, then heat the iron end of the handle which goes in the knob just hot enough to melt the sulphur, put the knob in, and let it cool. It will be firmly fixed in place.

The leaves of geranium are an excellent application for cuts, where the skin is rubbed off, and other wounds of that kind. One or two leaves must be bruised and applied to the part, and the wound will be cicatrized in a short time.

The oftener carpets are shaken the longer they wear. The dirt that collects under them grinds out the threads. Do not sweep carpets oftener than is necessary. A broom wears them very much When a carpet is taded, strong salt and water will often restore the brightness of

An annual subvention of 44,900 crowns has been voted to the conservatory of music at Stockholm, Sweden, founded in 1771, during the reign of Gustavas III.

There is in the historic loan collection in the London "Inventories," a case containing four violins valued at $5,000 each. The Mayence Pralter, in the same collection, is insured for $50,000. Herry Russel, who wrote the music to "Woodman, Spare that Tree," "Life on the Cosan Wave," and other popular songs some forty years ago, is still living in England.

The oldest collection of Scotch tunes extant is known as the Skene manuscript and is the property of the Faculty of Advocates of Scotland. It contains forty Scottish airs.

It is said that Arthur Sullivan does his musical composition between mid-night and sunrise, as at this time he is sure of being undisturbed, which carries the further consolation that Arthur must live in a neighborhood where there are yard. An old laird, sitting in a square table-seat below, had been anxiously watching all this with visions of an assessment for maintenance of the fabric. At last things seemed to be approaching a grisis, as the prescher the fabric. At last things seemed to be approaching a crisis, as the preacher, piling his periods, had wrought himself into a state of intense fervor, which would inevitably have vented itself on the rickety pulpit. Just as he was gathering himself for the final burst, he was snuffed out by the warning voice of the laird; 'Noo ma mon, mind, gin ye breek that, ye'll pay for it.'
