London, Oct. 24.-The Crippen murder case, which ended on Saturday, has proved to be the most sensational and dramatic tragedy in the annals of modern criminal jurisprudence of England. Widespread interest was manifest over it on both sides of the water. An American dochall artist and living at Hilldron Crescent was convicted of murdering his wife. Coupled with the tragic story is a pretty young stenographer, for several years secretary to the prisoner and with whom Cippen was known to have been on very friendly and intimate terms.
