THE FIRST SLEIGHING.

Though the fall of snow last night was very light, many people made the best of what there was, and had a cut ride out to the downtown pavements. For the first time in many months the "unhappiness of the bells" intermingled with the other sounds of the streets. Yesterday was a day of misery for horses. The snow made the pavements slippery and as the animals were not shod and they fell by the dozens in all directions. As a result the busiest places in London today were the blacksmith shops, where hundreds of horses with every appearance of absolute satisfaction, submitted to the ordeal of having their feet pared to fit a new pair of shoes.

DEATH OF A PAPINEAU

A Son of Louis Passes Away at Papineauville.

Montreal, Nov. 25.—The death of one of the most notable French characters of the last half-century, Mr. Joseph Amodeo Papineau, son of Louis Joseph Papineau, a leader of the French rebellion of 1837-1838, occurred at Papineauville Monday night. The deceased, who was 84 years of age, went through the entire rebellion with his father, and during the rebellion founded a society known as the Sons of Liberty. He was in later years one of the leading followers of Dr. Chiquet, and in 1837, after a refusal to pay a tax of the church, he joined the Catholic faith and became a Presbyterian. The Papineau family is one of the most noted for the longevity of its members in the Province. The father of the deceased died at the age of 85 years, and his grandfather at 22 years. One of his sisters is the mother of Henri Bourassa, member of Parliament for Labelle. The expression "baker's dozen," which is in point of fact 13, has a history. For a baker in the old times had to give short weight in bread exposed him to considerable penalties, and thus the custom arose of adding an extra loaf to the dozen as compensation for any possible deficiencies in the rest of the batch.

SHATTERED NERVES

It is a miserable thing to lose one's nerve, and yet it requires "nerves of steel" to withstand the strain of the "strenuous life" many of us are living under twentieth century conditions. Unfortunately few of us are equipped with nerves of steel, and so the aid of science must be invoked and, as usual, science comes to the rescue.

Ferrol (the Iron-Oil Food), is a scientific and therefore perfect emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus, and will, without fail, restore the shattered nerves to a normal and healthy condition.

If taken in time, it will prevent loss of nerve and all the misery that loss entails.
