BAND CONCERT BY INDIANS
Red Men Delight To Render Even Classical Music.

Prince Rupert, B. C., July 11.—Seven Indian bands visited Prince Rupert one day recently. The bands were musical organizations, come to wrestle for the honor of being the best Indian band on the Pacific coast. Instead of coming armed with tomahawks and knives, decked in lurid paint, they came armed with nothing more serious than musical instruments of modern type and decked out in brilliant and well-fitting uniforms.

On arrival at Vancouver Mr. Duncan took his instruments to a band instructor and said: "I want you teach me how to play these."

"All right," said the bandmaster.

"When will you be prepared to begin your lessons?"

"Right now," said the missionary, "and I want to be taught how to play all the instruments by tomorrow noon, as I leave for the north then."

DEVISING A REMEDY Czar Alexander the Second Lim-

Romanoffs Worrying Over the Tragic Contingency.

say "great prince," or "veilik kniaz."
The late Czar Alexander II. radically limited this. He was frightened by the idea that the descendants of his uncles and cousins would be too numerous, and estimated that in 1950 Russia would be blessed with no less than 300 grand dukes and duchesses. This was considered undestrable; there would not be enough money to keep hem all grand ducally, and the dashing title, so beloved of inferior novelsts, would descend to the rank of n English baronetcy.

Alexander was a wise man—as BOSTON'S POLICE

Alexander's Scheme.
Alexander was a wise man—as events have proved, too wise. He declared that henceforth only the sons and grandsons in the male line of a czar should bear the title grand duke and be addressed as imperial highness. Great-grandsons and all future generations should be merely "princes of Russia," with the attribute "highness."

generations should be merely "princes generations should be merely "princes of Russia," with the attribute "highness."

But Alexander's scheme worked out much too drastically, and now it is possible that a generation hence there may be no grand dukes at a!l, and that Russia may lose what—along with the knout, the samover, and caviare—is reckoned one of her most character-istic products. The reason is that by then there may be no grandsons of Alexander III. alive, and that Nicholas II. will probably have no grandsons of Alexander III. alive, and that Nicholas II. will probably have no grandsons in the male line. The Czar's brother, annot have grand ducal sons because la fately ran away with plain Madame Mamontoff, and his children will have to titles at all.

Children Only Princes.

The sons of the Czar's uncles are, of course, grand dukes—of such are "yril, Boris, Andrel, and their cousin mitri. But, according to Alexander II's ruling, their children will be only brinces. The same applies to the hildren of the farther-off grand lukes, Constantine, the imperial poet, eter Nicholalevitch, Grand Duke Alexander II's ruling, their children will be only brinces. Those same applies to the hildren of the farther-off grand lukes, Constantine, the imperial poet, eter Nicholalevitch, Grand Duke Alexander II's ruling, their children will be only orinces. The policeman is not forazy with heat; the is just following at space they should not yell for an alienist. But, according to Alexander rulling, their children will be only the same applies to the ren of the farther-off grands, Constantine, the imperial poet, r Nicholaievitch, Grand Duke alexander allovitch. With all these the title duke dies, and so does the admost their imperial highness."

Short, there is only one living anoff whose future children will rand dukes. That is six-year-old is, the Czar's son and heir. But dexis will not marry for another re years or so, and as the existry and dukes are mostly well on ins, it may easily happen that Rustyll be without a grand duke, and lexis has only one son, there will wise be no grand duke dukes during his ereign. What is worse, if he has on, the heir to the throne will be son of Grand Duke Cyrll, who will be without a grand duke during his ereign. What is worse, if he has on, the heir to the throne will be son of Grand Duke Cyrll, who will the heir to the throne will be of Grand Duke Cyril, who will mere "highness" and "prince." according to Romanoff tradition, the prospect worries the feels sore at his father's because the rival Austrian imperia the Hapsburgs, including the and Modena branches, there less than 177 living archdukes than 177 living archdukes and in 1950, if they by at their present rate there obtains he five hundred.

woman, and Grand Duke Alexander Michailovitch is keener still.
Alexander's whole career has been a bid for wealth and glory. Before the war with Japan he was chief councillor of Nicholas II. He ran the fleet and the volunteer fleet, and in order to fill his pockets went into those dubious Corean and Manchurian concessions which ultimately led to war. Russians declare that he has a large share in the Parls Magasins du Louvre department store, and it is certain that he lately made successful aftempts at land speculation.

ago at the marble palace. Grand Duke Nicholas took the chair. The Grand Dukes Alexander, Peter, George and Constantine, all of whom are interested, took part. Constantine argued in favor of leaving things as they are, and said he didn't care whether his children grew up grand dukes or not. The council finally adopted by a majority the suggestion that henceforth the eldest son of every grand duke, however, remote from the czar, should inherit the title grand duke, leaving the younger sons, as at present, merely "princes" with the title of "highness." But, after many fierce disputations between the grand ducal counciliors, the suggestion had to be abandoned before presentation to the czar.

The reason was that Grand Duke

ECZEMA AND WHAT IS DONE TO CURE IT

Desperate Efforts, Disheartening Failures and Final Success.

Eczema is a skin affliction to which men and women alike are subject, from the first to the last day of their existence. It may occur as a single tiny spot, appearing and disappearing with each change in general health or present only at certain seasons; at the other extreme, the whole body may be involved in a torturing eruption. The latter condition may gradually arise through the neglect or improper treatment of lesser troubles or an apparently healthy skin may, in a single day, become a mass of eczema.

But whatever the form of the affection, the distressing itching, burning, scaling and crusting, the serious disfigurement and the constant dread that the eczema will become distressing itching, burning, scaling and crusting, the serious disfigurement and the constant dread that the eczema will become chronic, make a speedy cure the aim of every sufferer. Unfortunately, such a cure is not always readily obtained. The most skilled physician is often at a loss and even hospitals are forced to discharge the patient as incurable. Then a wide variety of remedies are resorted to, many perfectly harmless and equally ineffective, others so offensive to every sense that, were it not for the relief they are supposed to afford, no person of refinement would tolerate them for an instant. To such sufferers, discouraged by repeated failures of even these herolo methods, the instant relief afforded by the first bath with Cutleura Soap and gentle application of Cuticura Ointment is almost incredible. They stop the tiching and burning at once, make sleep possible and, in most cases, point to a speedy cure. So pure and sweet are Cuticura Soap and Ointment and so free from every; substance of a disagreeable or harmful nature that they can be used without hesitation on the youngest infant or tenderest skin. Besides, they are most economical, a single set being often sufficient for the treatment of even the severest cases.

In proof of the efficacy of the Cuticura Remedies it will be enough to quote here a single letter, from Mrs. Edward Menning. It Lansing Block, Watertown, N.Y.: "Four years ago I suffered with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to feet and for six months confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor, I was advised to try Cuticura, After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my entire lliness. I also used Cuticura Beothers, sole propa, Boston, Mass. Malled free, on request, latest 38-pags. Cuticura Soap of Cuticura Soap constant dread that the eczema will become
