THE CROOKS ACT.

An Interesting Case to Come Up at the May Sittings of the Court of Appeal.

The case of Follis Johnson and the liense commissioners is well-known, and out of it promises to arise a very interesting point of law. Last year Johnson was ade postmaster of the western branch post-office, which he kept in connection with the sale of liquor under a shop license. with the sale of liquor under a shop license. The commissioners, acting under an old law, re-fused the license when he applied for it, on the ground that it is illegal for a public official to trade in liquor. He gave up the post-office, and the license was given to him, but subsequently he effected a pro-fitable arrangement with the post-office authorities and again took the office. The commissioners moved before the county judge that the license be set aside, under the section in the act dissualifying him for doing all in its power to injure the project, and Sir Henry Tyler is making great efforts to create a want of confidence in the enter-judge that the license be set aside, under the section in the act disqualifying him for two years and the judge decided against Johnston. The matter was carried before the superior court, where Mr. Johnson failed to have the judgment set aside. Messrs. THE TOBONTO HARBOR.

At the meeting of the property owners' association last night the harbor of Toronto came in for considerable discussion. Presi-dent Manning said that if proper steps had been taken some time ago the harbor would now be in good condition. If the whole of the island were washed away it would be a great calamity to the city, and by the judicious expenditure of a few hundred dollars some time ago this could have been avoided. The meeting did not relish the idea of the city being called upon to vote a sum of money for harbor improvements in view of the anticipated grant the government. The harbor will have to be put in proper repair at the joint expense of the city and the government, it is expected.
