urge that the people of Canada had as much right to know what was going on as the people of Newfoundland. In delighted Mr. Davies' persistence in the matter, but regretted it was not equal to the inertia of the Government.

Foster Denounces the Opposition

Mr. Foster, in his reply, carried the war into Africa in a manner that evoked cheer after cheer. He exposed the inconsistencies of the Opposition on this and other questions, and, taking up the issue itself, demonstrated that the Government were following the British practice in refusing to make public negotiations with another country before they had been concluded. After expressing regret that the Opposition leaders in their zeal to attack the Government and discredit it before the country, had taken their stand so far from constitutional ground, the Finance Minister eloquently warned them they had hard work before them ere they reached the desired haven. They had to rid themselves of insecurity in the very vital parts of their policy. They had to get a better fiscal policy, something the people could understand stand, something they could understand themselves. (Cheers.) He reminded them that their record was not a good one and that not many years ago they sailed so close to treason that the people could never forget it. When the time, whatever their policy, whatever their tactics, the Conservative party were prepared to meet them at the polls. (Great cheering.)

Mr. Davies Gets Excited

Mr. Davies, red in face and trembling with emotion, jumped to his feet and pounding the desk accused Mr. Foster of having demonstrated his utter lack of the qualities a premier should possess.

Hon. Mr. Ives made a keen reply to Mr. Davies, and after Mr. McMullen had tried to tell a funny story, but miserably failed, the debate dropped. It will be some time, however, before the effects of this, the hottest episode of the session, will pass away.

Budget Debate Resumed

Hon. Mr. Dickey then resumed the adjourned Budget debate, and was followed by Mr. Martin, who had the floor at 6 o'clock.

After recess Mr. Martin spoke for nearly three hours, in which he traversed the whole range of the Liberal policy. He said when the Liberals came into power they would be able to save four mills from a year in the expenditure.

Mr. Taylor moved adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned.

C.P.R. Freight Rate Reasonable

The report of the commissioners who last winter investigated charges against the Canadian Pacific of excessive rates in the Northwest and discrimination in certain localities, was presented to Parliament to-night. The report says among other things : In the opinion of your commissioners, a comparison of the foregoing schedules, covering the bulk of the traffic carried, does not bear out the charges that the rates in Manitoba and the Northwest are either exorbitant or excessive. On the contrary they are exceedingly favorable, as compared with rates on American roads. In contiguous territory, and indeed your commissioners believe that they are very little, if any, in excess of average rates charged in corresponding traffic in eastern provinces when it is considered that the great bulk of the traffic in the grain, live stock and coal in the west entails the hauling of about 75 per cent. of the cars empty one way. Second rates are high compared with those charged in eastern provinces, but not in excess of those charged by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern in contiguous territory. The commissioners allude to the fact that no large freight shippers had any complaints to make. Besides it is noted that with 18,000,000 acres of unsold lands in the west, any policy of the Canadian Pacific other than that favorable to settlers would be "simply suicidal and ruinous to the company."

American Anglers' Deputation

The effectiveness of a little timely retaliation on our neighbors was fully demonstrated to-day by the visit of the deputation of New Yorkers, all members of the Anglers' Association of St. Lawrence, accompanied by Controller Wood, Messrs. Taylor, Northrup and Metcalfe, M.P.'s. They waited on Hon. Mr. Costigan and urged him to remove the restriction imposed on foreign fishermen fishing in Canadian waters to the extent of $5 per rod per season. This license was imposed two or three years ago when the alien labor law was enforced against Canadian boatmen plying in American waters of the St. Lawrence. The visitors to-day drew a specific pledge that the law would not be enforced against Canadians if the license were removed. President Heath volunteered the remark : " Let us have no more friction and unite to make this the greatest summer resort on earth." The Minister, in reply, said they would readily understand that our current legislation would be required by both countries in order to have a permanent understanding. The deputation left with assurances that their request would be granted.

THE CRAZE FOR GOLD.

Speculators Buying Land in the New Eldorado at Rainy Lake.

Rat Portage, May 10.—The "gold fever" in the Rainy Lake district of Canada is assuming enormous proportions. Eight small sections of land in that country were sold two days ago for something over $350,000, with no mines opened on any of them.

The purchasers were Americans, who are making arrangements for the immediate development of their property. It lies along the Seine River, a stream which has sprung into sudden fame from the wealth already unearthed in the valley through which it flows.

The great stir caused by the discovery of gold in the Rainy Lake country last year first brought the district into prominence. Since then better locations have been found up the Seine. Reports of still richer finds upon an island in Big Manitou Lake, which is a sheet of water connected with Rainy Lake, have got abroad. Miners and prospectors are ranking into this country by way of Duluth in large numbers, and it certainly contains some of the richest deposits of gold ever found.

France and the New Chinese Loan

London, May 10.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says : M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has invited the leading Paris financiers to meet at the Foreign Office to-morrow to consider the impending Chinese loan, the manner in which the Bourse might co-operate in negotiating it and the conditions on which French capital might share in it. Considering the interest at which China will have to borrow, the fact that the indemnity is said to be £130,000,000, and the amount necessary to repair the ravages of war and to re-adjust China's finances, it will not be surprising if the loan be £150,000,000. It is not likely that a decision will be arrived at without consulting London.

WARD ONE CONSERVATIVES.

A Well-Attended Meeting—Dr. Ryerson on the Local House Session.

The half-yearly meeting of No. 1 Ward Liberal-Conservative Association was held in Dingman's Hall last evening, the president, Thomas Mitchell, in the chair. There was a large attendance. Fourteen new members were elected and a number of removals noted. Among the communications was a letter from the Central Association, sending a contribution of $25 to the ward funds and the letter from Dr. Ryerson, M.L.A.

"If I might be permitted a word on the events of the late session of the Provincial House, I would like to say that Conservative party proved itself true to its platform and its principle, which cannot be said of the halfbreeds and mugwumps who compose so large a proportion of the membership of the House. It proved itself the friend of the workingman in the legislation it introduced, and in the act of opposition. It was the only real independent party in the House which hewed to the line, let the chips fall where they might. The Government hedged on their policy to catch the Patrons ; the Patrons swallowed themselves boots and all to catch on to the loaves and fishes. The loudness of their shouts of independence before election was only equalled by their silence after securing their seats. Such fakirism, should be held up to perpetual contempt and scorn by the people who were befooled by them."

Appreciated.

Mr. Score informs us that it is truly wonderful the thousands of gentlemen who have appreciated the introduction of Guinea trousers in Toronto. Of course, one can purchase a pair in London, England, for a guinea, but to have them made here for that price is truly phenomenal. The goods are all imported and are of the best quality, and they tell us they absolutely guarantee every pair manufactured. Don't be sceptical or prejudiced, but call and examine the material used; they are most convincing.

REBUKED, BUT TOO LATE.

A Sailor From the Ætna Regente Picked in Mid-Ocean.

Lisbon, May 10.—The newspaper Cronista, published in Teneriffe, Canary Islands, says the captain of the brig Caridad, recently reported there, that he found in mid-ocean an exhausted sailor lashed to a plank, who said he was from the lost cruiser Reina Regente. The castaway is said to have tried vainly to tell his story. He died. The Cronista says a few minutes after being taken aboard the Caridad. No dates are given in this story.

The Druggist's Profit.

In a West Philadelphia pharmacy last night a visitor who is on terms of familiarity with the proprietor remarked challengly to the latter, "I presume you cleared 50 per cent, profit on that prescription that just went out." Better than that," replied the druggist. "That prescription called for three grains of powdered alum in two ounces of water. I buy the alum for about a cent a pound and draw the aqua from the spigot yonder. The actual cost of the mixture was so infinitesimal that it could scarcely be expressed in fractions of a cent. Yet I charged 35 cents for it and my conscience doesn't reproach me the least bit. Had I given it to him the probability is that the patient wouldn't have used it at all, and in any event its efficaciousness would have been impaired by the knowledge that its commercial value was next to nothing. And there's another side. I compounded a prescription this morning the rare ingredients of which actually cost me nearly $3. I charged $1 for it, and the customer gave me a look which said as plainly as words, 'You're a swindler.'"

Rich, But Vulgar.

What must be the training at home of a child who is so vulgar as to toast of her father's wealth? Yet The New York Tribune publishes the following as a true story of a Newport happening last summer :

"Is your father a millionaire?" said a member of a child's dancing class to a new pupil.

"I am sure I don't know," answered the newcomer, "but I do not believe it."

"Because," continued the first speaker, "if he is not, you ought not to have joined the class; all of our fathers are millionaires?"

Woman Represents "Progress."

The colossal figure of "Progress" which is to surmount the dome of the new City Hall at San Francisco, 300 feet above the street, will be 20½ feet in height, and represents a female figure holding aloft a torch. The model has been completed by Marion Wells, the sculptor, and will soon be cast.

A Snake the Negro Fears.

Mr. Powe, in speaking of the other kinds of snakes, said that the "coach-whip snake" was the terror of the negroes. There was an old superstition among them that the coach-whip would whip a man to death, and then put the tip of its tail into the nostril of the victim to see if he was dead. An old negro man went out to catch the horses of the party, which were turned into pasture, while they were out fishing and hunting, and on the way began to think about snakes. The old man had a bridle on his arm, and by some means one of the long leather reins had got loose, and was dragging behind him. His imagination did his work. When up so that the reveat was standing out on its black skin. He chanced to look back and catch a glimpse of the rein. He let a blood-curdling yell and ran. He looked back and on came the rein which he took for a coach-whip snake after him to beat him to death. The negro actually ran till he fell exhausted, and then fearing the superstitious act of having the tip of the snake's tail run up his nose he clapped his hands over his face and prepared for the whiping—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
