

- Poets of Canada ; previous to 1867, 17 ; from 1867-1893, 20, 72 ; estimate of their productions, 20-25 ; patriotic strain of many of their efforts, 25-27.
- Political Life in Canada, attracts best intellects in old times, 11, 43 ; also at present, 43, 44.
- Potherie, La, his " Amérique Septentrionale," 6, 63.
- " Professor Conant," novel by L. S. Huntington, 82.
- " Prehistoric Man," by Sir D. Wilson, 81.
- Pulpit, literature of, in Canada, 43.
- RAPHAEL, W., artist, 54.
- Reade, John, his poems, 20, 21, 73 ; his " In My Heart " quoted at length, 77 ; essayist, 81.
- Redpath Library at Montreal, 90.
- Reid, G. A., Canadian artist, his " Foreclosure of the Mortgage," his success at the World's Fair, 87.
- Religious literature, 10.
- Richardson, A. H., the architect, a lover of the Romanesque, mentioned, 57.
- Richardson, Major, his romances, 82.
- Riley, James Whitcomb, the poet, 20.
- Roberts, C. G. D., his poems, 20, 26, 74.
- " Roberval," poem by J. H. Duvar, 75.
- Routhier, J. B., poet, 74.
- Royal Society of Canada, its foundation, 33 ; its objects, 33-36 ; its success, 36 ; its Transactions and their circulation, 36, 37 ; some of its most prominent contributions to the literature of learning and science, 37-39 ; its connection with " Tidal Observations," and the determination of the true longitude of Montreal, etc., 38 ; asks for sympathetic encouragement, 42 ; see note 58, p. 84.
- Ruskin, John, 21 ; quoted, 48.
- Ryan, Carroll, poet, 73.
- SAGARD, Gabriel, his " Grand Voyage," etc., 6, 63.
- Sainte-Beuve on French poetry, 22 ; on good workmanship in literature, and criticism, 47.
- Saint-Maurice, Faucher de, mentioned, " Sam Slick," by Judge Haliburton, 11, 12, 66.
- Sangster, Charles, his poems, 17, 69.
- Sarrazin, Dr. Michel, his scientific labours in Canada, 8, 64.
- Schools in Canada, number of, 65 ; pupils at same, 65.
- Science, Canadians achieve notable success therein, 32.
- Sculptors in Canada, 57, 88.
- Secord, Laura, her toilsome journey in 1813, described by Mrs. Edgar, 78 ; worthy of a poet's pen, 24.
- Selections from Canadian Poets, by E. H. Dewart, 73.
- Seminary, The Great and Lesser, founded at Quebec, 6.
- " Simple Adventures of a Memsahib," by Sara J. Duncan, 83.
- Sladen, Douglas, his collection of American poems, 76.
- Smith, Captain John, compared with Samuel Champlain, 62.
- Smith, Goldwin, on the study of the classics, 49.
- Smith, William, his History of Canada, 12, 66.
- " Social Departure, A," by Sara J. Duncan, 29, 83.
- " Songs of the Great Dominion," collection of poems by W. D. Lighthall, 76.
- " Songs of Life," by E. H. Dewart, 73.
- " Songs of a Wanderer," by Carroll Ryan, 73.
- St. Andrew's Church at Toronto, its architecture, 90.
- St. James's Cathedral at Toronto, its architecture, 90.
- Statesmanship in Canada, 15, 42.
- Stewart, Dr. George, his literary efforts, 81.
- Sulte, historian and poet, 20, 71, 73.
- TANGUAY, Abbé, his " Dictionnaire Généalogique des Canadiens Français," 72.
- Tassé, Joseph, his writings, 72.
- " Tecumseh," poem by C. Mair, 74.
- " Tendres Choses," poem by R. Chevrier, 76.