FASTEST YET.

HOW TEN BROECK ECLIPSED THE RECORD.
 TWO SECONDS FASTER THAN EVER BEFORE ACHIEVED IN TURF HISTORY.

Last week scored another splendid achievement for the Louisville Jockey Club. The attraction of Ten Broeck's race against time proved potent, and the largest attendance ever beheld at the course was the result. There were perhaps eight thousand people on the grounds. In the grand stand were elegantly dressed ladies without number. The track had been carefully prepared, the sun shone brightly, the weather was delightful, and everything conspired to make the day joyous and memorable.

The grand event of the track yesterday was Ten Broeck's mile dash against the fastest time on record with weights up—1:41½. It was this, more than anything else, which drew out the immense crowds that filled the grand stand and overflowed the grounds. Everybody was on tiptoe of expectation, and the excitement ran to fever-heat. In the pools the betting was almost even, but it inclined sufficiently toward one side to show that there were numbers of experienced betters who believed that the splendid Kentucky horse would fail of achieving the task which had been laid out for him. Supreme confidence was felt in Ten Broeck's ability to beat the world in a race in which continued speed was the main requirement, but when it came to a mile dash his more prudent admirers preferred to wait for a precedent before scattering too freely their money or assurances of success. At a little after 3 o'clock, Ten Broeck, ridden by William Walker, one of the most successful jockeys on the turf, stepped up the track past the judges' stand, and was greeted with loud applause. Early Light and St. Louis, who were to run with him, the former to the first half mile and the latter to the second, also made their appearance, and Early Light walked up alongside of the monarch. The first start was a good one, and, as the two passed the stand, with Ten Broeck a little ahead, the drum tapped, the starter cried "go!" and they went, the one as never a horse went before, and the other in a gallant attempt to perform the impossible task of keeping up. Past the first quarter they swept, Ten Broeck increasing his lead and dashing with wonderful speed toward the half, where St. Louis was waiting to join him. Before he got there St. Louis started on the third quarter, and the phenomenon of seeing a horse ahead of him moved Harper's pet to a fresh burst of speed. As he stormed into the home stretch the excitement and enthusiasm increased. Kicked hands waved lace handkerchiefs, and ragged boys waved ragged hats; many lungs sounded congratulatory cheers, and fair throats swelled as though they would like to do the same if decorum were not such a tyrant, and amidst it all Ten Broeck darted across the line triumphantly, completing the distance of the State, who had gathered there to witness the triumph of Kentucky's greatest horse. Courier-Journal.

P. T. BARNUM'S GREAT SHOW COMING.

Our advertising columns contain good news for everybody in the announcement that the wonderful exhibition of the wonderful Barnum will exhibit in this city on Friday and Saturday, June 8th and 9th. The press whenever it appears emphatically pronounces it fully up to promises. For example the Watertown, N. Y., Daily Despatch, of May 24th, in an elaborate encomium says:
 "Mr. Barnum addressed the audience at each performance making happy speeches both times, and meeting with the most enthusiastic applause."

fully illustrated being as her $50,000 will be paid. Miss Hengler's original and dauntless $50,000 challenge double manage act, with her two superb tandem stallions, and Charles W. Fish, the chief among the rare-back equestrian champions. And all this but an inkling of what is to be seen, not to speak of the more than monarchical tree street parade in the morning, with its huge elephants in harness, drawing stupendous gold chariots, lions and unaccountable performed in procession, and other princely and novel sensations, far too numerous to mention. How can Barnum afford to show so much for so small a price?

A cricket match took place in the afternoon, between two teams captained by the Secretary and Treasurer, respectively, and was won by two men of money—money makes the mare go.
