CHRISTMAS

1892.

Believing that we are about to experience a holiday season of unusual activity, and anticipating that a general and widespread observance of Christmas and the holidays will bring with it a great demand for gifts of every description, we feel that we have a holiday message of importance for every household. Our message to Holiday Shoppers and Gift-makers in general can be condensed in five short words—'tis simply this:—

WE HAVE WHAT YOU WANT.

Forethought, careful study, taste, hard work and liberal buying are the factors we called to our aid long before you had entertained a passing thought of the demands of far a way Christmas, and now we are ready, thoroughly and completely ready, to serve you well, meet your wants, gratify your wishes, and satisfy your taste with gifts for old and young alike.

Concerning variety and completeness of assortment we would also say a few words. We know it is oftentimes difficult to find the one thing which seems just suited for a particular individual. People differ; there are wants and tastes innumerable, and it requires an exceedingly well-selected stock to meet the requirements of all. Keeping this point well in mind, we made our selections to cover the widest possible range of human needs, and are pleased to state that varied styles and grades in innumerable articles will gratify and satisfy the most critical and exacting. In fact our extensive display of beautiful Holiday Goods, as we believe, the nearest perfection of anything yet shown in the Dominion.

THEN COMES THE MATTER OF PRICES,

Which indeed is a most important consideration, as at Christmas times the promptings of many generous hearts exceed the limit of the purse. We do not only claim, but WE DO OFFER our entire stock at prices as close as honest goods can be sold. We offer no "baits," but mark all our wares at one uniform scale of low prices, giving full value for the money, and guaranteeing every article as represented. We can show you pretty and desirable gifts costing but a trifle, and representing good value for every cent asked, and from that point upwards to the most elaborate and expensive presents the heart could desire.

AND NOW, WITH THE UTMOST CORDIALITY,

We invite you, reader, to call and see this beautiful display of tempting Holiday Goods, which we do not exactly consider our own, as we are only holding them in trust for a little while until willing customers will come and take them away. Even the most liberal buyer can take but a very, very small portion of these pretty things, and every visitor can have the privilege of seeing and enjoying them ALL, providing the coming is not delayed until the assortment is broken. It will afford us a genuine pleasure to exhibit our goods to all lovers of the beautiful, and no one need feel the slightest obligation to purchase unless so disposed. Therefore, please feel free to come, act for your own pleasure, and be certain your attendance will gratify us sincerely.

Very truly yours,
