

The broad fields east and west are calling for young people who are in love with the great outdoors. Idealists, above all, are wanted, for the true idealists are the ones who can "toil terribly." They are those who, in order to make their dreams come true, can harness themselves up and tug and pull. Our country needs, moreover, young people who so keenly want to get at the truth that they will tease nature with their questions and never stop till they get the right answers, with all the proofs. Especially does it need those rare persons who know how to intensify their own working power by joining with others in a common cause.

—Dora Williams.