TARIFF CONCESSIONS ON AUSTRALIAN AND NEW ZEALAND CANNED FRUIT

Question No. 2,572—Mr. Howe (Hamilton South):

1. Are any special tariff concessions granted on imports of Australian and New Zealand canned fruit and, if so (a) what are they (b) do these special concessions take into account the economy of the Canadian fruit belt particularly in the Niagara peninsula?

Questions

2. What protection is afforded to Canadian fruit growers under existing tariff regulations?

Hon. Mitchell Sharp (Minister of Finance):
1. Yes. (a) See attached table. (b) The duty rates on certain canned fruit imported from Australia and New Zealand were increased in 1959 consequential to duty increases on fresh fruits following the Tariff Board's report on reference 124, "Fruits and Vegetables". The board's study was concerned with the protection afforded Canadian growers, including those located in the Niagara peninsula.

2. The rates of duty applicable to imports of fresh fruit are shown in tariff items 9201-1 through 9800-1. The duties under some of these tariff items are a combination of free rates, specific rates and ad valorem rates. The effective rate of duty under such items depends on the season of the year.
