Newfoundland where unemployment is at its highest, will the minister ensure that quotas are put aside for those provinces so affected because of receiving the information late?

Hon. Otto E. Lang (Minister of Manpower and Immigration): Mr. Speaker, I will look into the question of why the forms have not arrived, and also discuss the matter raised by the hon. member, with my colleague the Secretary of State.

NATIONAL SECURITY

REQUEST FOR STATEMENT ON REASONS FOR INVOKING WAR MEASURES ACT

Mr. Lincoln M. Alexander (Hamilton West): Mr. Speaker, I wish to direct a question to the Prime Minister. In view of the fact it is alleged that the Secretary of State is now questioning the credibility of the government in dealing with the Quebec situation, and also the invocation of the War Measures Act, will the Prime Minister now take this matter into consideration and report to the House tomorrow in order that we can understand and be apprised of the attitude of the government in this whole matter?

Right Hon. P. E. Trudeau (Prime Minister): The hon. member's question is based on an earlier question of his leader, which was apparently based on a press report that was false. Therefore the whole premise of this question falls to the ground. I suggest that some members read the book.

Mr. Speaker: Order, please. The question period has expired. I have taken note of hon. members who have exercised patience. I did the same yesterday. I think I have been true to my word and have given preference to hon. members who did not have an opportunity to ask their questions yesterday. The Chair will follow the same practice tomorrow.

Mr. Asselin: I rise on a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker: The hon. member for Charlevoix on a point of order.

Mr. Asselin: Mr. Speaker, during the question period, the Prime Minister indicated that he had not seen the book written by the Secretary of State on the October crisis, and that according to his information, this book made no reference to the secret of the cabinet.

Can the right hon. gentleman assure the House—and this is the gist of my question of privilege—that he will ask the Secretary of State not to publish this book until he can look at it himself, to see—

Mr. Speaker: Order. I invite the hon. member to resume his seat. There is obviously no question of privilege. The hon. member's question has nothing to do with parliamentary privilege, and I must make a decision accordingly.

YOUNG OFFENDERS ACT

PROVISIONS REGARDING CHILDREN AND YOUNG PERSONS

The House resumed, from Tuesday, March 23, consideration of the motion of Mr. Goyer that Bill C-192, respecting young offenders and to repeal the Juvenile Delinquents Act, be read the second time and referred to the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs; and the amendment thereto of Mr. Woolliams (page 2381).

Mr. Speaker: Pursuant to special order made on Tuesday, March 23, the House will now revert to the deferred division on the proposed amendment to Bill C-192. Call in the members.

The House divided on the amendment (Mr. Woolliams) which was negatived on the following division:
