

Rev. W. H. Morrison, Pastor Universalist Church, Warren, Mass., says:

"The Royal Path of Life' is a perfect mine of the choicest thoughts from the greatest authors that have ever written during the past. No one who can afford to purchase this book should neglect the opportunity."

(This testimony was voluntarily given by a member of the largest Book Publishing Houses of the West.)

"I could say nothing of 'The Royal Path of Life' without a thorough examination, and I now rise from it with as thorough admiration. Such a book shapes a generation. They are seed-capsules breaking over a million minds and hearts, and letting fall into them in their quickening spring-time the ineradicable germs of thought, principles, Life.

"It is no slight thing to commend a book, and when I express my admiration of this, for the choiceness of its selections, their elevation and beauty of style, their copiousness of range, their generous patriotism and philanthropy of sentiment, their unadulterated morality, their liberality and freedom from sectarianism, I do it under a sense of my accountability for these words; nor less of our country's obligations to the compilers and publishers of this work."

B. F. Meek, A.M., Prof. of English Literature in the Alabama State University, Tuscaloosa, Ala., says:

"A glance at the table of contents of 'The Royal Path of Life' has convinced me that it is a work of much interest and value. Its articles are of a high moral character, full of 'wit and wisdom,' and are upon subjects of great concern to the youthful and the aged. One must be made wiser and better by its perusal."

"I take great pleasure in endorsing the foregoing statement of Prof. Meek."

"Prof. JOHN F. LANNEAU, 'Pres't Ala. Baptist Central Female College.'"

Captain J. W. Smith, of McKenzie, Tenn., says:

"I consider 'The Royal Path of Life' a book of unequalled merit. It is the best and most useful book I ever had in my house, with the exception of the Bible. The man who loses the opportunity of getting a copy of this book will make a great mistake."

Rev. C. W. Garoutte, Pastor of First Christian Church, Eaton, O., says:

"I have examined 'The Royal Path of Life,' and take great pleasure in recommending it as a book worthy of the high title which it bears. He who would be greatly aided in the rugged pathway of life should possess this invaluable friend and counsellor. May God bless the mission of this jeweled treasure, and may it have a welcome into every home where it knocks for admittance."

E. W. Norwood, A.M., Prin. Hitchcock Free High School, Brimfield, Mass., says:

"I have examined 'The Royal Path of Life,' and find it contains many helpful truths, and expresses them in excellent and well arranged terms. It is a book that will greatly benefit the young."

Rev. J. F. Forbes, Pastor, Cong. Church, Warren, Mass., says:

"The authors of 'The Royal Path of Life' have culled the choicest thoughts from the large range of standard writers and woven them together in some one hundred and fourteen essays, each complete within itself, making a valuable gem. I can recommend the book as being instructive and interesting."

Rev. A. W. Jones, D.D., President of the Memphis Conference Female Institute, Jackson, Tenn., says:

"'The Royal Path of Life' is, in my judgment, an admirable book, very attractive and useful. It is well suited to the family circle, and if carefully read will have a happy and elevating influence on all the relations of life. It has my earnest commendation. I would like to see it published in a number of small volumes, for the use of Sunday-schools."

Rev. A. H. Somes, Pastor Congregational Church, West Warren, Mass., says:

"I have examined 'The Royal Path of Life,' and find the authors have walked in 'the Great King's highway,' and culled the choicest flowers into one very beautiful and exquisitely sweet bouquet. The fragrance of these thoughts will fill every heart and household to which they may come with the richest perfumes of virtue, truth, peace and joy. The influence of these words shall be gathered in the great harvest of the last day."
