

Canada and the National Policy

 migration of eastern labor. But cheap eastern labor means cheaper production and cheaper prices, and, on the theory that cheap prices are a national benefit, its entry should be encouraged, not impeded. No doubt there are other objections to the importation into Canada of an alien population that cannot be assimilated, but if cheap prices are to be refused on this or any similar ground it is an admission that they are not sufficient of themselves to control the national fiscal policy. And this at once opens the way for arguments grounded on the national advantage accruing from the encouragement of industries for which the Dominion is naturally fitted.

The Movement for Revision.
 It must be remembered that the movement for a revision of the Canadian tariff does not come from the supporters of the National Policy. The World is not and has never been in favor of excessive protection or of duties higher than are necessary to enable Canadian manufacturers to compete on equal terms with importers that have the advantage of cheaper labor or are able to dump their surplus products at less than market prices. To this latter species of attack Canada is peculiarly open, and United States manufacturers have been perfectly frank in admitting that they sell abroad for any price they can get. Had the Canadian market been opened to the free importation of United States manufactures, native industries could not have been developed in the manner they have under the National Policy. Were the measure of protection now afforded to be withdrawn, Canadian industries could not remain unaffected. Many would be practically destroyed, and the large and increasing industrial population compelled to find work elsewhere.

This is not an idle and groundless assertion. Canadian manufacturers cannot possibly compete with rivals enjoying a very large and profitable home market and ready to dispose of their surplus products at any prices they can get or that will enable them to drive their competitors out of business. If the protection afforded by the National Policy is removed, Canada will simply become to the United States manufacturers a source whence to obtain the raw material she can so abundantly supply. Ultimately the Dominion could only become an appendage to the United States, paying in the products of the soil, the mine and the forest for the manufactured articles it needs.

Has Brought New Industries.
 Not only has the National Policy been instrumental in building up native industries, but it has compelled United States manufacturers to erect branch establishments in Canada. The capital invested in this way is very large. An article appearing in November of last year, compiled after careful investigation by The Monetary Times, gave a list of 168 United States companies operating within the Dominion, with a total capital of over $100,000,000. In addition, $126,000,000 further has been placed by the United States investors in other industrial undertakings. Had a wiser policy been adopted at an earlier stage, these sums would have been largely increased and the spectacle would not have been presented of Canadian copper and nickel deposits owned by United States companies and their crudely smelted ores shipped to that country to be refined and exported as a United States product. None, or very few, of the United States companies operating in Canada would have established branches had the tariff not acted as an impelling influence.

In face of the great strides the Dominion has made industrially and commercially under a policy of moderate protection and the kindred policy of requiring natural resources to be manufactured within the province of their origin, why disturb a condition that has brought so much prosperity to the whole Dominion? The growth of the industrial and trading population was of direct benefit to the agricultural interests at the time when the United States was the great grain exporting nation, and the home market is still of great importance and will be increasingly valuable as the country grows. To interfere with its industrial expansion at the present stage in the nation's history would be a blunder of the gravest character and lead to consequences that would take half a century to retrieve.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS

RETURN OPEN VERDICT IN STEVENS TRAGEDY
 Jury Unable To Find Evidence of Foul Play—Trades Council Deliberations.

HAMILTON, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—The trades and labor council to-night decided to ignore the remark of Bishop Dumoulin, made at Hamilton, regarding labor unions, and more particularly the Hamilton Street Railway strike. The laborites concluded that, as the bishop's statement to the effect that the railwaymen injured themselves by their riotous conduct, was so palpably erroneous, there was no occasion for replying to it. The council made a small contribution to the striking car in Columbus, Ohio, and left it to committees to make arrangements for the appearance here in December of Philip Snowden, the distinguished labor member of the British parliament, and for the presentation of an exhibition put on by the labor department of the A. P. of L.

An Open Verdict.
 An open verdict was returned by the jury at the inquest conducted by Coroner Anderson to-night into the death of Isiah Stevens, whose mangled body was found on the T. H. & E. tracks on Monday. The verdict was that he came to his death by being run over by an express train. Evidence to the effect that the deceased had threatened to commit suicide one time when he was ill, was submitted by Cecil Down. The dead man was supposed to have had $100 on him, but there was none of it on him when the body was found.

A conversation which Alex. Fraser, Main and Wentworth-streets, was having to-night with another man was suddenly terminated when Fraser was picked up on the fender of a street car and carried half a block. He was unhurt and was sent home in a cab by Constable Tuck. It happened that the gentlemen were not aware of the fact that their conversation was being carried on in the centre of the car track.

S. O. E. Elections.
 At a largely attended meeting of the members of the district lodges of the Sons of England to-night, ex-Ald. Thomas W. Jutten was unanimously elected district deputy. John King, the retiring district deputy, was presented with a book case.

Toronto Symphony Orchestra.
 The subscription lists for opening concert, Oct. 6, close at 51 West King-street, Sept. 26. Prices $1.50, $1 and 50c.

DISSENSION IN CABINET OVER SUNDAY'S PARADE?

The Administrator's Message to the Legate Also Cause of Protests—Political Gossip.

OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Commander Roper's attack on the Conservative party generally for its criticism of the government's naval policy, has had the effect of helping to cement the Quebec wing to the old party.

Brothers in a family may quarrel, but if an outsider interposes, the brothers usually go together for defence. There are indications here that the old party branch is wavering, and it is believed that before next session of parliament the Conservatives will be once more a united party.

Reports from Quebec, both to Liberal and Conservative headquarters, are that the government party in the French province has been badly broken up as a consequence of the naval policy, while there has been a loud outcry from Ontario Liberals against the government for some of the incidents in connection with the Eucharistic Congress.

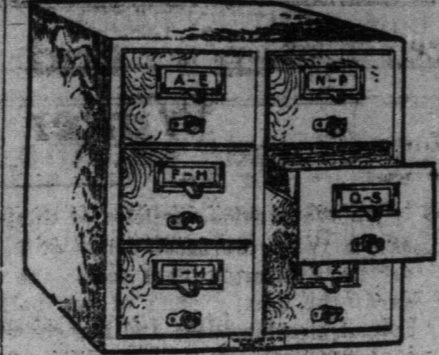

It is understood that at the cabinet meeting yesterday, more than one voice was raised against the wisdom of having allowed the 68th Regiment to parade in Montreal last Sunday, and the tendering of the "homage" of the administrator of Canada to Cardinal Vanhulst by Justice Groulx.

The government has certainly stumbled upon troubles, to which is added the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tour is regarded as having been far from the success that of former years by many thousands.

Central Canada Fair Closes.
 OTTAWA, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—The Central Canada Fair, which has practically closed to-night, has been favored with good weather, and the attendance has exceeded that of former years by many thousands.

George Millman, believed to be drowned, about whom the Detroit authorities have enquired of the local police, has notified police headquarters that he is alive and well. He had been missed from his boarding house in Detroit since Monday.

HOW HE WAS DROWNED NO EVIDENCE TO SHOW

Coroner's Jury Admits Itself Puzzled, and Adds Some Remarks About Corpses at Morgue.

Coroner Graham's jury, enquiring into the death of the unknown man whose body was found in the bay off Fisherman's Island, September 9, were of the opinion that even a postmortem operation should be interrupted to allow the inspection of the body. The foreman of the jury had brought two people to look at the remains while the autopsy was in progress, and had been told to return a little while later, as the body was scarcely in a state to be viewed by the uninitiated. No evidence was heard by the jury as to this point, but the following rider was added to the verdict:

"We wish to censure the attendants at the morgue for their refusal to admit persons to view the body while a postmortem was being held, by which his identification might have been established."

The verdict found that "An unknown man, about 35 to 45 years of age, was found. He had no marks of violence appearing on his body, but how or by what means, the said man became drowned, no evidence doth appear to the jurors."

ST. VITUS' DANCE

A Striking Example of Its Cure by the Tonic Treatment.

St. Vitus' dance is the commonest form of nervous trouble which afflicts children, because of the great demands made on the body by growth and development, and there is the added strain caused by study. It is when these demands become so great that they impoverish the blood, and the nervous system, that the full supply of nourishment, that the nervous debility which leads to St. Vitus' dance, arises.

The remarkable success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing St. Vitus' dance should lead parents to give their children this great blood-building medicine at the first sign of the approach of the disease. Pallor, listlessness, inattention, restlessness and irritability are all symptoms which early show that the blood and nerves are failing to meet the demands made upon them. Mrs. A. Winters, Viridian, Man., says: "When my little girl was six years old she was attacked with St. Vitus' dance. Her limbs would jerk and twitch. Her speech became affected, and at last she became so bad that she could scarcely walk, and she hardly dared trust her own legs, but under the care of a doctor, but in spite of this was steadily growing worse, and was feared that we would lose her. As Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her older sister of anemia, I decided to try them again. After the use of a few boxes, to our great joy, we found they were helping her, and in the course of a few weeks more her power of speech fully returned, and she could walk and go about as well as any child, and she has been well and healthy since. When illness comes to any one of our family now, we never call in a doctor, but simply use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they never disappoint us."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOW THE OPERA SINGER GETS CHANLER'S WEALTH

Real Estate Turned Over to Her, Subject to Mortgage, With $20,000 a Year for Life.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The prenuptial agreement between Mrs. Lina Cavalleri, the opera singer, and Robert Winthrop Chanler, the terms of which have been the subject of so many widely divergent reports of disagreements between the action of the old Astor family and the Italian diva, was filed in the register's office this morning by counsel for the singer.

The agreement was made on the last of May of this year in Paris between Mr. Chanler and the singer, whose first name is given as Natalia, and states that whereas a marriage was about to be solemnized between the two and the $400,000 might arise as to their mutual property rights, it was agreed that the property of each of them, both present and future, should remain the separate property and under the sole control of each of them.

The agreement then recites that in consideration of the said intended marriage and of the fact that Mr. Chanler gives to Mrs. Cavalleri "all those three farms, known respectively as Cole farm, Chowell and Benna farm and Home Farm, approximately 800 acres, and subject to a mortgage of $600,000."

The agreement further provides that Mr. Chanler turns over to Mrs. Cavalleri her life interest in property in New York city situated in several parts of the city, comprising in all thirty pieces of property, and concludes, "and all other realty forming part of the share of the above named Robert Winthrop Chanler, and in the estate of the late Mrs. Laura Delano, subject to a mortgage of about $140,000."

The agreement provides further that Mr. Chanler agrees to pay the yearly sum of $20,000 to Mrs. Cavalleri during her life by four quarterly installments of $5,000 a quarter, the first of which shall be paid within thirty days from the marriage.

To secure the payment of the $20,000 yearly Mr. Chanler in the agreement gave his wife power to collect the amounts due, if otherwise unpaid by him, out of money coming to him from the income of the Chanler estate trust fund; or if this money should prove insufficient, similar power was given to her to collect the balance from the income of the balance from the New York Insurance and Trust Co.

Before his marriage to Mrs. Cavalleri, Robert Chanler married Miss Julia Chamberlain, from whom he is divorced, and by that marriage there are two children, Dorothy, 6 years old, and Julia, 2 years old, now living with their mother.

TRADES CONGRESS

The policy enunciated by Ed. Stephenson of Toronto for the congress, or organized labor in Canada, sending a message to the British House of Commons had not been mentioned in any way during the convention.

For the Eight-Hour Day.
 The following resolution bearing on the eight-hour day was introduced by President Wm. Glocking of Toronto: "Whereas this congress has repeatedly placed itself on record of support of the eight-hour day, and whereas Mr. A. Veerville, M.P., succeeded in getting an 8-hour bill before a special committee of the house of commons at its last session, and whereas evidence was submitted by the executive of this congress, and the secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, together with a mass of evidence from wage-earners and employers, and whereas no substantial arguments were advanced from the employers' standpoint, and as good sound and substantial reasons were submitted from the wage workers' side, it is resolved that this congress in convention assembled reiterates its former demand on the federal government to place an 8-hour day on the statute books of Canada, and we also recommend that the executive council send a petition to request all affiliated bodies to petition all members of parliament and senators to support and vote for the 8-hour bill when it is next introduced."

The congress placed itself on record as favoring the chartering of all trades and labor councils in Canada by the American Federation of Labor.

Lament Goldwin Smith.
 The committee on officers' reports submitted a resolution lamenting the death of a great and sincere friend of the toilers, Dr. Goldwin Smith, probably the most distinguished scholar of his day, who demonstrated on every occasion his earnest desire to uplift and benefit the masses of the people. In his letters and public utterances he always espoused the cause of the common people, and he has left behind him a record which would be a worthy ambition for public men of any nation to follow."

NORMAN McNAB DEAD

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—B. A. McNab, managing editor of The Star, received word this evening of the death of his son, Dr. Norman McNab, aged 24, who had medical charge of a camp on the Transcontinental Railway west of Edmonton.

BREAD CASE DISMISSED

BRANTFORD, Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Magistrate Livingston to-day dismissed two charges against the Whitaker Baking Company, of alleged breach of the Bread Act.

The decision rendered by Judge Monk in Hamilton was followed. The company sold two loaves of 10 ounces each, which had become moulded together in the process of baking, for 6 cents, whereas other bakeries were selling one standard loaf of 24 ounces. The small loaves knit together, however, the court held, did not make one big loaf.

The police here to-day, received a report of a clever woman pickpocket operating with Howe's clues, which visited Brantford yesterday. A guest at a fashionable wedding farewell at the depot last night was relieved of a valuable watch and chain. A description of the woman was secured.
