Had Passes Anything to Do With the Defeat of the Electric Railway Bill by the Solid Quebec Vote?—Had They?—An Attack on the Member for East York.

Ottawa, March 17.—Dr. Lachapelle, M.P., raised quite a breeze at the Railway Committee to-day. After the Pontiac and Pacific Junction Railway Bill had passed through the committee the doctor rose, with blood in his eye, and The Toronto World in his hand. "I see Mr. Maclean, the member for East York, present."

Mr. Maclean, I am here.
Dr. Lachapelle: I want to know if the member for East York has anything to do with an article headed, "if Passes Have Anything to do With this Vote," in his paper. The Toronto World. The article refers to the defeat of the Electric Railway Bill by the Railway Committee a few days ago.

It gave the names of the French members who voted against it. "I do not think," said Dr. Lachapelle, "that the article calls for much comment from me. I tell the member for East York that I will not answer him in the same dirty language as that article. I like to keep my hands clean all the time. If think there is a rule of the House which applies to any member of the House which applies to any member of the House who uses offensive words against another member of the House. If the clue leads up to anything it may explain how the crime came to be committed without premeditation as to details.

The Soo mixed train to-night had on board Mr. E. F. B. Johnston of Toronto, the lawyer retained for the defence. After a few minutes' conversation at the station with Mr. E. Hammond, Mr. Johnston proceeded to Bracebridge to interview the young man whom he has undertaken to extricate, if possible, from the net which circumstantial evidence has woven around him.

Mr. Tisdale (chairman): This rule Mr. Tisdale (chairman): This rule only applies to words spoken in the committee or in the House. It does not refer to words written or what has taken place outside the House.

Mr. Choquette characterized the article as mean and cowardly. He did not know who wrote it. He read a circular which he had received, asking him to support the bill, as it was to be reintroduced in the House. The circular was signed by E. Bristol, who also complained of a solid Quebec vote, although the project was an Ontario one. This Mr. Choquette denied. The road was to start at Montreal. The circular said that Mr. Coatsworth was keeping back the introduction of the bill at the request of Mr. Foster until the vote was taken on the Remedial Bill. He wondered what connection the bill had with the Remedial Bill.

ail who propose to practise or do now practise as architects, but who are not now members of the association. The members of the association should first of all qualify themselves before seeking to impose conditions on others. They should be made to stand an examination, conducted by examiners not appointed by themselves but appointed by Government.

Section three of the proposed amendments shut out all from the profession who have not served a five years apprenticeship to architects approved of by the council. (An exception is made in the case of some students and M. A.'s, who are limited to three years, but why, it is difficult to see.) It is a well-known fact in building circles that some of the best and most practical architects have not served such an apprenticeship, but have risen from the carpenter's bench, or begun with the bricklayer's trowed. In the old country so much is practical knowledge of building valued that architects in selecting young men for their offices give a preference to those who have some practical knowledge of buildings, and it is no uncommon thing for young gentlemen who aspire to become architects to serve a year or two at the building trade. for young gentlemen who aspire to become architects to serve a year or two at the building trade.

Mr. Horning escaped uninjured, but badly shaken. Mr. Verity was more seriously injured. A doctor was immediately summoned, and from examination it is thought no bones are broken, and it is hoped nothing more serious than a severe shaking up will result.

THE SEVENTEENTH IN MONTREAL.

Memory of the Patron Saint.

The outward signs in Toronto that yesterday was the festival of St. Patrick were three fold—the general wearing of the green, sprigs, sham rocks and ribbons; the celebration of High Mass in the Catholic churches; and the Irish entertainments which were held at night. Concerts and lectures were given in the public halls, and at which much enthusiasm was evoked. Rev. Dr. Burns was eloquent in St. Andrew's Hall on "St. Patrick and his Lessons," and the old story of the Saint's life was rehearsed at other Irish assemblies.

HISTORICAL EXHIBITION. Some Amendments to Mr. Howland's Bil Regarding it Made Yesterday.

Dr. Ross presided at a meeting of the special committee appointed to consider Mr. Howland's bill respecting the proposed Canadian Historical Exhibithe exhibition. It was assumed, how-ever, that this matter of detail would be fulfilled all right, and it was provided that the British Association while in Toronto, shall have prior claim upon the university buildings. A clause gives the commissioners power to issue debentures to an amount not exceeding $250,000 at 4 per cent., instead of 3 per cent., as originally provided.

The committee amended the clause respecting the sale and leasing of cat-ering privileges so as to bring it with-in the provisions of the Liquor License Act. The bill was reported, with some other minor amendments. W. Rose Wilson, who a few years ago was a prominent member of the Canadian international eleven, is again in New York. He is a bowler of great speed with a good leg break, and on a soft wicket he proves very effective. He will probably play with some local slayar this seesen.—N. K. World.
