MONROE DOCTRINE OF TO-DAY

The Monroe doctrine is again coming to the front in a practical way. This time it is the German Emperor who is about to challenge its authority. Germany, as is well known, has extensive interests in South America, and it is quite natural that it should seek, by every legitimate means, to strengthen its position on that continent. It is believed that Germany is now negotiating with Venezuela for the purchase of a port in the island of Margarita. The matter has gone to the commission of the Washington Government, which has ordered its Consul at Caracas to watch the negotiations and keep the proper authorities posted. Whether or not the negotiations for that port means, to strengthen its position, but it is considered that Germany, by her operations in South America, will be long challenge the Monroe doctrine. The Monroe doctrine has all along been more or less a dead letter, but it is now at the present time a genuine document. The doctrine, while it claimed for the United States freedom from interference by the powers of Europe in the affairs of the American continent, it also claimed that the United States Government would not interfere in European affairs. The question now arises whether the United States has not violated the Monroe doctrine and thereby provoked the European powers from further recognizing it. The United States Government is acting on this assumption. In annexing the Philippines, he argues that the United States has violated its pledge not to interfere in European affairs, but the ingenious Yankee is ready with his reply. He contends that the Philippines are in Asia, and that in annexing these islands the United States is not interfering in European affairs, and is consequently not violating its obligations under the Monroe doctrine. Notwithstanding its participation in the Chinese embargo and its annexation of the Philippines the United States issues a declaration to keep the world in mind. PRactical TEMPERANCE

An interesting and instructive lecture is being given by the temperance people of Scotland. Certain localities have adopted a modified form of the Gothenburg system and with satisfactory results. In the village of 3200 inhabitants, a public house has been in operation for five years. The Five Cent Company procured a license for a converted cottage, which was at first managed by a committee nominated by the local temperance people. The public house was well managed and good management was consistently aimed at. Ultimately the company purchased the house and turned over the concern to the Hill of Beath Tavern Society. The total receipts up to September, 1900, were $45,055 and the total profits $10,385. By its articles, the society is bound, after paying a fixed percentage on the capital, to devote the rest of the profits to the cause of temperance. The public house is not on the line of traffic and it would be seen and frequented by comparatively few. An open space opposite the Court House, even if it were only one-quarter the size of the Upper Canada College grounds, would be of great utility. The city has already had an unfortunate experience in dealing with the University and Government. We pay a yearly tax of $4000 for privileges in Queen's Park, which is a large sum of money to much better advantage. If the city is really in need of a park let it advertise for sites and locate it where it is needed. The block in front of the municipal buildings is much preferable to the college grounds, and if a larger site is deemed advisable the necessary plot could be acquired in the lower part of St. John's Ward, at a comparatively small figure. The purchase of a square in front of the city Hall is an almost absolute necessity. Until we have arranged for the acquisition of that property we should not entertain any other park scheme, and certainly not the proposal to acquire the Upper Canada College property.

The winter trade has been less than during the preceding season. While the quantity of deals carried in the winter port ships is less, the trade in lumber is still active. THE GOLF GIRL

Is the type of the modern woman at her best and best. She walks with an easy grace. She is a picture of perfect womanhood in life. But generally the golf club is laid aside with marriage. A physical languor overcomes the once athletic girl. Exercise makes her nervous, and she is unable to accept this condition as a natural thing, but it is unnatural. Marriage should be a woman's happiness, rather than a burden. The general health is related to the local health. The womanly organs, which there is no need to suffer from weakness and disease, are the weak women strong, sick women well. A regular diet, good food, and a healthy mind, are the keys to a healthy body. The body is a condition of sound health. The body is a condition of sound health. The body is a condition of sound health.

THE GOLF GIRL

One name suggested to The World for the new hotel is the Hotel Ontario, for the following reasons: A distinctive Canadian name; the mention of the name in any part of the world will indicate the locality. The name of one of the Great Lakes, on which Toronto is the principal Canadian city. The name of the greatest Canadian province. The development of New Ontario, which is likely to add largely to the trade and wealth of Toronto.

PRESIDENT LAND DID THE WORK

Speeches Made by Prominent Citizens Expressive of Loyal Sentiments—A Beautiful Day.

The Arbor Day celebration by the United Empire Loyalists' Association of Ontario at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon was held under bright sunshine, and the green sward, freshened by the recent showers, was looking at its best. The central point of the program was the planting of a sturdy young maple. This was planted a little west of the Northwest Volunteers' monument. The rather high wind was not favorable to out-door oration, but the program, the abbreviated somewhat on that account, was one of considerable interest.

The president of the association, Mr. H. A. B. Land, called on the quartet present to sing "The Maple Leaf Forever." The maple tree was planted by the president, Mr. H. A. B. Land, and the other members of the association. The tree was planted in Queen's Park, and it was a beautiful day. The tree was planted in Queen's Park, and it was a beautiful day.

Poor Breakfast Foods

MALT BREAKFAST FOOD.
