COMMITTEE DISMAYED AT REPORT OF FIRM LOCATING IN LONDON

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 28.—Since the publication of a story in Thursday morning's issue of The Advertiser to the effect that London had been assured of the location there of a branch of a liquid-air factory, and that a $60,000 plant would be erected at once, members of the local industrial committee are quite dismayed.

They allege that a representative of a firm of similar name some months ago visited St. Thomas and that the mayor called a meeting of the aldermen and members of the industrial committee in order to discuss the proposition offered by—this representative. He was taken by automobile through the city and actually decided on a certain site, it is alleged, and promised to forward further information later.

Special inducements were offered by the city and the representative intimated to the mayor, it is alleged, that before a definite site was decided on the local officials would be notified.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a successful year, but should avoid soing to law or risking moneys, and must guard against losses through fire or thieves. A child born on this day will be clever, industrious and peculiarly gifted, but must be guarded from losses.

There was but one thing for me to do and do instantly. I saw that for Dicky's self-respect and mine I mustn't let him think that I imagined he might give me a blow.

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND ADELE GARRISON'S CONTINUATION OF REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Madge Determined To-Have Lillian Tell Dicky the Plain

Unvarnished Truth.

Unvarnished Truth.

"I thought so!" Dicky repeated contemptuously, then paused as if to martemptuously, then paused as if to martemptuously that the subject something was uppour little spiel about Lil coming to She's a good scout and an old friend, but I've got a few words to say to her that—get her here quick!"

Nothing sharpens the arrow of sartemptuously, then paused as if to martemptuously, then paused as if to martemptuously the defective form.

I tried to hide the trembling of my hands by busying them with the leaves of the best as a falure of the kind that deserved the time-worn adjective "dismal."

"You're both blind and unjust, Dicky." I flared as I rose from the telephone work telephoning."

"You're both blind and unjust, Dicky." I flared as I rose from the telephone work telephoning."

I stopped, paniestricken, as I realized that Lillian knew of his bow.

I stopped, paniestricken, as I realized that Lillian knew of his broubles.

Facing the Facts.

He had taken the telephone receiver from its hook, but he jammed it back again and turned upon me furiously.

"Now we'll just come down to cases on this thing, if you please," he said.

"Turkey red is made from the Indian madden plant."

A grand dinner in China usually includes the fair to me d a blow.

"Dicky, don't be idiotic!' I said sharply. "You didn't frighten me in the least. But—frankly—I don't like to look at you when your face and eyes are so angry. That putting my arm before my fate to shield my eyes from something I don't wish to see is an old, childish trick of mine. Until I was quite a big girl I used to do it if I saw a hurt dog or cat, an angry grown person or even a person whose appearance I didn't a person whose appearance I didn't like."

Whether Dicky really believed me or simply accepted my explanation in the same spirit in which I was making it I don't know. At any rate, his face lighted instantly,

"Mighty glad to hear it." he said simply. "But, mind you, all this doesn't alter the fact that I must know at once what you and Lil have been doing while I've been laid up."

His voice held cold determination—finality. I knew the issue couldn't be

His voice held cold determination—finality. I knew the issue couldn't be postponed much longer. But how I longed for Lillian! I wondered—"Dicky." I pleaded, turning to him. "I'm going to be very frank with you. Lillian has been 'meddling' as you no doubt put it, and I have helped her, because I realized that the thing she was doing was the only thing to be done under the circumstances. And I have only one request to make of you. Won't you please ask Lillian herself about it? If I telephone her now she'll be here within two or three hours. Then, I promise, you shall know everything. And it really isn't fair either to Lillian or to me for me to tell you."
"Of course, the question of what is fair to me doesn't enter into the matter at all," Dicky commented dryly. "But go ahead, get Lil out here if you want to. She's a good scout and an old friend, but I've got a few words to say to her that—get her here quick!"

ABOUT DUSTING AGAIN. "Oh, dear!" exclaimed Betty, throwing the dust cloth on a chair, "I just hate to the dust cloth on a chair, "I just hate to dust so many things."

"Tut! Tut!" laughed a merry voice, and Betty's little friend, Gocomeback, the travel elfin, hopped upon the chair. "Why, that's nothing to compare with the things you'll find in our little Hungarian sister's house that have to be dusted every day of the week." Before Betty could ask any questions she was whizzing throught the air on Gocomeback's back at a top speed.

Over mountains and seas they flew until at last Gocomeback, out of breath, set her down before a queer little strawthatched cottage built of compressed earth.

"This is the home of our little sister," str. Thomas, Nov. 28. — The automobile of John T. Stephens, kept in a garage at the rear of his bakeshop at 310 Talbot street, took fire about 8:15 tonight from unknown cause, and before the flames could be extinguished the upholstering and tow were destroyed and the car otherwise bally damaged. The quick work of Fire Chief Henderson and his men saved the building from total destruction. The bakeshop is situated at the rear of Honsinger's tobacco store, and for a time it was feared that the entire block would go. The loss could not be learned tonight, but is covered by insurance.
