

CENTRAL STATION OPEN JUNE FIFTH

Will Be Marked by Arrival and Despatch of Five Services.

DISCLOSED YESTERDAY

At Conference in Union Depot
—Can't Promise Suburban Service.

The central station at the Yonge street crossing will be a feature in the railway passenger life of Toronto and after June 5th. But the new plant will not be used until it is all completed. The real feature of the new station, however, the arrival and despatch of five services will go into effect on that day: the old station on the west side of Yonge street may have to be used for the time being. Then the new waiting-rooms, baggage compartments, train sheds and all the other fixtures of a strictly modern station will come into use.

Five services, as was stated in The World the other day, will mark the beginning of the new station—one to and from Montreal; a service to and from Ottawa in the afternoon; a service to and from Lindsay in the afternoon; a service to and from Owen Sound, and to and from Toronto. This new policy was disclosed at a conference held yesterday afternoon between representatives of the Central Citizens' Business Men's Association and delegates from the towns east of the city as far as Oshawa and west as far as Stratford.

Can't Promise Suburban Service. The outside delegates were all in favor of a suburban service being established with commutation tickets, but Mr. Arundel, superintendent of the railway, in whose office the conference took place, was not able to promise an immediate suburban service; in fact, he thought the thing was harder to do than his visitors imagined; but he promised further consideration of their views, and in the meantime hoped that the new regular trains that were being put on would go a long way toward improving conditions in places east and west of the city, and would also do a lot for the benefit of upper Yonge street, which is rapidly taking on large business proportions.

To Forward Interest. The Central Citizens' Association, composed of men prominent in the business life of the northern part of the city and among whom were D. T. McIntosh, president; W. J. Hill, William Britton, R. M. Gulliver, J. M. McKelvin, T. R. Heig, A. C. Jennings, James Atkinson and a number of others, were a unit in favoring the inauguration of the immediate future, expressed the keenest pleasure in the passenger service outlined by Mr. Arundel, and will do everything possible to forward the interests of the district tributary to the new depot. The establishment of a market was enthusiastically endorsed and steps will at once be taken both for local interest and for the benefit of the west of upper Yonge street to be used for the project.

The opinion that the establishment of an enormous trade will be centralized in and around the new Central Station in dairy and farm produce and the business men promised to co-operate with the C.P.R. in bringing this about. The opening up of the new C.P.R.-C.N.R. double-track bridge at the Bloor street crossing was stated would greatly expand trade facilities north of Bloor street, and W. J. Hill looked upon the completion of the Bloor street viaduct, the double-deck bridge, and the opening up of the new Central Station as likely to bring about an enormous expansion in trade.

Streetsville Accommodation. The representatives from Whitby, Mayor Warren and Reeve Dowling, stated that that town was vitally interested in the establishment of a suburban service, and the granting of commutation rates east of the city, a

This Skin Peels All The Rage in Society

There is a growing tendency among women of culture and fashion to pay more attention to hygienic means of preserving their charms. The advent of a new product has been largely responsible for this. This remarkable substance produces complexion that is natural in appearance, so magisterially beautiful, artificial cosmetics are no longer desired. Instead of "covering" an offensive skin, the skin is gradually, in such fine particles, no discomfort is experienced. The complexion, younger skin beneath, wholly in evidence within a week of use. It is a lovely, setting, soft and smooth. It's not new one. That's why it's so popular. It has become such a rage among society folk. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off morning. All druggists have it; one ounce will do. Another hygienic product, much in favor is one to remove wrinkles, made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered waxoline in 1/2 pint which haze. Used as a wash lotion it "note like magic."

ROSS RIFLE IS BEST IN WORLD, SAYS SIR SAM

Canadians in Battle Have Demonstrated its Excellence. He Declares.

Confidence in the Ross rifle was expressed by Major-General Sir Sam Hughes yesterday, when interviewed by the newspaper men at the King Edward Hotel.

"It's the best rifle in the world," emphasized Sir Sam. "You have never used it in the field. Place a Ross rifle and a Lee-Enfield before a Tommy and he will select the Ross in preference to the other arm. Place the same two rifles before a Canadian soldier and he will select the Lee-Enfield, rejecting the Ross. It's human nature."

Sir Sam declared that the fact that a Highland battalion and two other regiments, held their position with very little change for four days against 100,000 of an enemy, did this while equipped with a Ross Rifle, showed the excellence of that weapon.

DAYLIGHT SCHEME IS FAVORED IN HAMILTON

Committee Appointed to Interview
Manufacturers Report Favorable Findings.

HAMILTON, Wednesday, May 24.—There is every likelihood that the daylight scheme will be adopted in this city in the near future. The committee, which was appointed by the board of control to interview the manufacturers for the purpose of finding their views on the daylight scheme, reported yesterday that the majority of them are in favor of putting the clock ahead one hour. The matter will be settled next week, when the committee's report goes to the board of control.

TO DEFINE STATUS OF COLONIALS IN BRITAIN

Difficulties Have Arisen as to Scope of Military Service
Bill.

LONDON, May 23.—Asked to define the status under the new military service law of the men who have been overseas for some time in the United Kingdom, the House of Commons today decided to refer the question to a select committee. No definition of ordinary residence in a country of time can be given, but the question, if in dispute, must be decided by a court of law.

Forced to Leave School Had St. Vitus' Dance

Astonishing Cure of This Nervous Trouble Effectively by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Here is a case where life-long gratitude will be felt for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a school girl and in later life Dr. Chase's Nerve Food came to the rescue when the nerves gave out. Now a healthy, robust woman happily gives the credit to the great food cure for restoring her to health and strength.

Miss Sadie M. White, 38 Waterloo street, Fredericton, N.B., writes: "When ten years of age a friend of mine had St. Vitus' Dance and she had to leave school and go under a doctor's care. Instead of benefiting by the treatment she appeared to get worse. Her tongue and tongue became so swollen that she could scarcely take any nourishment. For two weeks she was this way and then day, charged with a serious offense against a restaurant waitress, and was committed for trial. Captain Tom Flanagan renewed his bail for $1000."

TOM LONGBOAT COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Tom Longboat of the 180th Battalion came up in the women's court yesterday, charged with a serious offense against a restaurant waitress, and was committed for trial. Captain Tom Flanagan renewed his bail for $1000.

PICTURESQUE SCENE IN QUEEN'S PARK

Twelve Thousand of Canada's Best Reviewed by Sir
Sam Hughes.

GREETED WAR HEROES

Inspection Was Followed by March Past Down University Avenue.

With the sun shining brightly over the fresh green lawns and gay flower beds in Queen's Park yesterday morning a picturesque setting was made for the review of 12,000 Toronto active service troops by Major-General Sir Sam Hughes.

Before the arrival of Sir Sam, the troops, including cyclists, infantry, mounted rifles, and other units, were formed up in three sides of a square, the south side of the square facing the parliament buildings, the band standing in the centre. Sir Sam entered the park at 11 o'clock and mounted the bandstand. Brigadier-General W. A. Logie ordered a "general salute" the troops bringing their rifles to the "present" while the massed bands played the ceremonial music.

Personal Inspection. Accompanied by Lieut.-Col. E. E. Clark of the headquarters staff, Ontario, Brig.-Gen. Logie, G.O.C.; Col. S. Mowburn, A.A.O. of this district; Lieut.-Col. H. C. Bickford, senior general staff officer; Lieut.-Col. R. C. Windover, camp commander for Toronto, and Lieut.-Col. J. S. Campbell, officer in charge of training in Toronto; Brig.-Gen. James Mason, Sir John Gibson and Lieut.-Col. Langton, Sir Sam Hughes made a personal inspection of every unit in the line-up of 12,000 soldiers, including cyclists, infantry, artillery, and a number of returned soldiers from the convalescent home. He shook hands with all the war heroes, and all the commanders of units and their senior officers, perhaps 500 officers in all.

During the inspection the massed bands played "O Canada." Sir Sam got a cable last night, and he greeted Col. Hagarty's troops as they marched past. The Yankees greeted this time by breaking into cheers. Followed By March Past.

The inspection in Queen's Park was followed by a "march-past" down University avenue, the soldiers marching in a column at a stand placed in front of the Canadian Military Institute. Three senior Toronto units, the 84th, 180th and 198th, were reviewed with arms. These three battalions have been in training several months, and their seasoned accomplishments earned them many compliments.

Many Citizens Present. Thousands of citizens witnessed the review in Queen's Park and the march-past down University avenue. The review was commanded by Lieut.-Colonel J. W. Odell, the ammunition column and the C. O. T. C. took part in the review. The artillery brigade was commanded by Lieut.-Colonel J. W. Odell, the ammunition column and the C. O. T. The dream of the suffragist has come true, as the pictures on the front page of this week's illustrated edition of The Sunday World will prove. There is a series of pictures showing women engaged in what was formerly exclusively men's employment, depicting a woman's employment of a ponderous machine; others in the uniform of private firemen; also as farm workers. This week's Sunday World is for sale by all newsdealers everywhere at a copy. 34c.

BARNARD WILL SIGN PROHIBITION MEASURE

Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia is Reported Yielding.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 23.—After a day and night of sensational developments, which included the resignation of the lieutenant-governor on the prohibition question, the outlook for peace was somewhat better today.

It was said at one time yesterday the premier was ready to resign, for at that moment the lieutenant-governor had decided there is no course open to him but to accept the advice of the premier on this question.

Not Gas, But Smoke That Blackens.

A reader of The Monitor has sent in the following interesting discovery. It is not gas, but smoke from the match that blackens kettles. Thru the knowledge of this fact much scouring work may be saved. Move the kettles to a one side, or wait to put it on the stove until the burner is lighted, and you will find that ordinary washing will make the outside of the kettles clean.

The Original Fireless Cooker

The pit oven so often used by the primitive woman was a near approach to the modern fireless cooker, which is considered a remarkable invention. In the crude pit or oven of the early housewife, hot stones were placed to furnish the necessary heat, and these were kept from contact with the air by a layer of earth. The modern fireless cooker, however, has hot stones placed around them and the food placed next to them during the cooking process.
Other methods of cooking, such as boiling, roasting and broiling, were followed along exactly the same lines as ours today, so they were then unrecognized.
