The hearing was held in the courtroom of the Court of Special Sessions, and was attended by a large number of spectators. The judge, who was seated at the head of the bench, listened to the testimony of the witnesses, who were called by the prosecution. The first witness was Mr. J. H. Deuel, the brother of the judge. He testified that he had seen the judge on the day of the alleged offense, and that he had seen him in a state of intoxication. ## THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS LIFE

Rev. P. J. Stackhouse Hears That Only Small Percentage of Business is Done on That Basis.

The first of a series of sermons on current questions was preached by Rev. P. J. Stackhouse, last evening, in the Tabernacle Baptist church. His subject was "The Golden Rule in Business Life." In his opening he referred to a prevailing prejudice against what are known as moral sermons, and stated that the revival we need is not an emotional one, but one of righteousness. He stated also that society never was and is not today conducted on a Christian basis. For years it rested on an artistic basis, the fundamental assumption of which is the essential inequality of men.

Modern society is dominated by the idea of the survival of the strongest—a case of big eat little. The white man has been represented as a kind of missionary, doing kindergarten work among the black, yellow and brown races. His primary motive has not been altruistic, but the practical motive of dollars and cents. The modern world is governed by the golden rule of the golden rule. The preacher then pointed out that the golden rule was practical in business; but he had been informed by some business men that only from five to fifteen per cent of business was done on that basis. The preacher held that the golden rule was not only practical, but that it was the only solution of the labor problem is the application of Christ's law of love. He gave illustrations to prove his practicality and said: "I believe if the employer would treat his employees not as 'hands' to be exploited for selfish interests, but as living men and women with immortal souls that it would pay him not only in a good conscience, which is a valuable asset, but in dollars and cents as well. In conclusion he said that for moral being the question is not, 'Is the Golden Rule practical?' Will it pay in dollars and cents? but, ought it to be the standard of conduct? If it ought to be the standard of conduct, it ought to be the standard of conduct."

MANTELL TONIGHT

Noted Tragedian Begins Brief Engagement at the Opera House.

Robert Mantell and his company will begin their engagement of six performances tonight in the St. John Opera House, opening with a spectacular revival of Shakespeare's "King Richard III." Mr. Mantell, the Duke of Gloster in this tragedy, is already celebrated here, through report; and promise is made of a rare treat when his characterization is disclosed on a stage where he has been, more than two years ago, in a purely romantic repertoire. Marie Booth Russell, who accompanied him on that visit, returns, and will be seen tonight in the role of Lady Anne, whom Richard wooed and wins in what is said to be the most weird, most fascinating love scene in all drama. "King Lear," as yet never acted here, will be the bill tomorrow night. Mr. Mantell is said to have in this play will be in time for his greatest role, although it is his plan to act many more of Shakespeare's plays. Lord Byron's popular romantic drama of "Rosalind" will be acted at matinee. "Hamlet" will be Wednesday night's bill. "Othello" Thursday night, and the engagement will be closed on Friday night with "Macbeth," which will be repeated in Moncton on Saturday night.

A LORD WITHOUT A TITLE

The lord of "Lucky" Baldwin's ranch can drive eighteen miles in a straight line across his own acres. In such a tour he crosses his own general merchandise store, maintained for the convenience of his own people, the school supported by the children of the blacksmith shop, the church and the post-office, all belonging to the equipment of the estate. He will ride through his vast orange and fig and vineyards, his walnut groves and his vineyards where the Mission grape is gathered from the gnarled vines planted by the padres. There are also one hundred acres of lemons, one hundred acres of grape fruit, two thousand acres of vegetables, and twenty thousand acres of corn, hay and small grains. His thirty thousand sheep graze on the brown hillsides, and he could clothe his people with wool, if he wished. His wheat ranch could provide beef and leather. In other fields are five hundred work mules and five hundred draught and cart horses. These sixty thousand acres are divided into several ranches, each in charge of a superintendent, who in turn reports to a general manager, who is responsible to the owner. It is a paternal, feudal system, highly specialized by means of the American talent for systematic administration and organization. —Ralph D. Paine, in "The Builders," in the Outlook Magazine for August.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Edward Parks, steward of the woodboat Chieftain, had quite an experience in the harbor Saturday evening. It appears that Parks and his mate, Colwell, took a boat and went ashore for supplies. Both had been imbibing and the mate returned to the boat earlier than Parks, with the result that when Parks arrived the boat and Colwell had departed. Parks immediately looked about for a boat and found Dr. March about to go in his gasoline launch to the island, where the Chieftain was anchored. The steward secured his passage but on arriving at the woodboat, the captain refused to take him on the boat. An altercation followed and Parks finally landed in the water. Edgar March threw a pole to him and he was rescued. Parks was taken to Carleton Place and after getting on dry clothing he found that the Chieftain had called with a suit of clothes of his and some money.

MONCTON MAY HAVE HOME FOR NURSES

All Records for Passenger Traffic on the I. C. R. Broken this Summer—To Take Legal Proceedings.

MONCTON, Sept. 14.—It is stated that Ald. Fryers, chairman of the police committee, contemplates taking legal proceedings against the Rev. Herbert E. Thomas, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church of this city, in reference to certain statements made by Mr. Thomas in the course of his sermon last Sunday evening of Scott Act enforcement. Mr. Thomas was speaking on the responsibility for the enforcement of the Scott Act in the city of Moncton and made the statement that the chairman of the police committee was a protector of criminals. The charge that he is a protector of criminals is taken exception to by the chairman of the police committee and he has consulted legal advice with a view to bringing an action for libel against the churchman making the charge. The Moncton hospital board is taking active steps towards the establishment of a nurses' training home in this city. Some difficulty is experienced in getting nurses for the hospital and the board has come to the conclusion that a training home is the only solution of the nurse problem. Temporary quarters have been secured and three young ladies have already entered the home to take a course in professional nursing.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—A final meeting of the unions interested this Sunday afternoon a general strike of building trades was definitely decided on and will be precipitated tomorrow morning. The bricklayers and masons have reconsidered their decision not to strike and will go out in sympathy, making the tie up general. It is regarded as little short of disaster at this time of year when so much important building is in progress. The building permits to date have reached the splendid total of $10,273,600 which exceeds the permits issued for the same period last year by $856,150.

MISSOURI JUSTICE

The tall Missouriian was on trial for participating in a lynching affair. "Have you any request to make to the court?" inquired the judge. "Only one, your honor. I request that I be tried by a jury of my own choosing." The judge smiled complacently. "That's a simple favor," he said, "and I would be pleased to grant it had I not already decided to acquit you. Call the next case, Mr. Clerk."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
