Rockefeller Engages Noted Japanese Scientist

PLAQUE IS SPREADING

Germs Well Developed in Little Animals From Philippines—Hopes to Solve Deadly Problem

New York, Aug. 9.—Backed by the millions of John D. Rockefeller, Dr. Hideo Noguchi, the strategist of bacteriology, has set out to find a cure for infantile paralysis.

The disease today killed and attacked more than 200 more babies, bringing the total of deaths to 1,068 out of 4,842 reported cases. Deputy Health Commissioner Billings said the city could expect 10,000 cases before the epidemic is controlled.

Dr. Noguchi and the country's leading pathologists and bacteriologists are working day and night to evolve a specific. Scientists place their greatest hopes in the Japanese, whose brilliant laboratory conquests in the fifteen years of his association with Dr. Simon Flexner have been notable.

Dr. Noguchi is spending practically all of his waking hours in his laboratory at the Rockefeller Institute. His assignment, it is said, was the personal direction of John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Rockefeller, one of his advisors today told the International News Service, is willing to spend any amount in the search for a specific.

The informant said the institute received a shipment of monkeys from South America this week. These are being used by Noguchi and his assistants.

Another shipment is due shortly from the Philippines. Using these little animals as media, Dr. Noguchi hopes to work out the life cycle of the dread poliovirus germ just as was done with the malarial germ in the mosquito and the bubonic plague germ in the flea.

Two of the eminent scientists assembled in New York Thursday and Friday expressed the opinion that the chief hope for New York's crippled children lies in exhaustive but speedy laboratory work. They did not place much faith in the blood serum which was tested with varying results in the Willard Parker Hospital. This treatment has been abandoned, it was learned yesterday. There was an insufficient supply of the serum and results were negative, it was stated officially.

Surgeons of the New York Throat, Nose and Lung Hospital, on East 20th street, cling to their faith in the adrenalin treatment, recommended by Dr. Samuel James Meltzer, Dr. E. J. Birmingham, chief executive surgeon at the hospital, today issued an invitation to medical men to come to the institution. A conference of charity, social service by the fact that Germanism cannot build its own and develop unless we secure by means of this war a position superior to that of the Anglo-Americans. We shall secure this position; if we do not the English dominate in Flanders."

The Daily Mail's Rotterdam correspondent telegraphed in this connection: "Admiral von Tirpitz's fulmination against the Anglo-Americans is evidently intended as a signal for his partisans to open an attack on America."

Herentlow makes it the text of a sermon in which he says:

"Von Tirpitz's message comes at the right moment to warn those who are in Germany can maintain a strong position in the east and southeast, while remaining a mere tenant overseas, with the Anglo-Saxon races as landlords."

"The German Empire, both now and in the future, must face its opponents in one form or another, not only England, but the whole Anglo-Saxon world."

NURSES FOR HOSPITAL WORK IN ENGLAND

A call coming for probationary nurses for hospitals overseas has been a matter of considerable interest among young women here, anxious to do their bit in the service of their country at this time. The call has come, however, only to those with special qualifications and therefore to a very limited number.

The National Relief Committee is the executive body of the joint organization of the Canadian Red Cross, the St. John Ambulance Association, the St. John Ambulance Brigade, the Medical Branch of the Department of Militia and Defence, and the Women's National Service Committee. The providing of workers to go forward as voluntary helpers in any time of emergency has been assigned to the St. John Ambulance Brigade, which has headquarters in Toronto. The training and qualifying of such volunteers have been largely left in the hands of the St. John Ambulance Association, whose headquarters are in Ottawa. The active secretary of the New Brunswick Branch of this association, Miss Lillian Huxen, has done a quiet but most praiseworthy work in this connection ever since the beginning of the war, in organizing classes and lectures, so that proper instruction may be secured by those desiring it, for rendering "first aid" in the transport of sick and injured, in home nursing, hygiene and sanitation, &c.

This has entailed the arranging for places of meeting, attendance for classes, lecturers, materials for experiments, bandaging &c., planning for examinations, the financial management of the work, newspaper notices and also enormous amount of correspondence, but Miss Huxen has done all this and has personally attended all classes and supervised every detail of this undertaking.

Students have eagerly sought to avail themselves of these courses of instruction, and a large number have taken up one or other of the lecture courses, a smaller number have gone through the complete courses, and about sixteen young women have successfully passed the two examinations and secured the two certificates of the association for First Aid and Home Nursing.

As soon as the conference home was opened here, as the bulk of voluntary workers were gathered to the aid of the Women's Canadian Club, who are responsible to the Hospital Commission for the home comfort of the institution. Most of these workers have availed themselves of the courses of instruction, given by prominent doctors and nurses of the city, but while these were and are being valued, they were in possession of both certificates above mentioned.

Those who held these certificates were therefore, were formed into a unit, which the Military Headquarters assigned to the St. John Ambulance Association No. 3, St. John Ambulance Association, with Mrs. G. A. Kuhring president, of the Women's Canadian Club, under whose direction their practical work in the Convalescent Home has been done, as commandant.

Not long after the formation of this unit, a call came for volunteers for overseas service as probationary nurses. At first it was not entirely understood that those who had taken partial courses, or only one certificate of the instruction arranged by Miss Huxen would not be accepted as volunteers, and it is to the credit of the young women of our community that a great many of them for this service have been sent in to Mrs. Kuhring—many of them from most admirably qualified persons. But the St. John Ambulance officials have sent most emphatic instructions, that names of applicants being sent to them must be those of possessors of the two certificates, and no others will be considered. Even young women who have had a partial nursing training in a hospital must also secure these certificates.

The number of names which Mrs. Kuhring has been able to forward as volunteers, in answer to this call, is therefore small.

With the formation of new classes by Miss Huxen in the early autumn, it is quite likely there will be a great increase in attendance and the results will be altogether good, even if a further chance to go overseas should not come, for the instruction given is of a simple kind and such as every responsible person ought to receive.

The names of five duly qualified young ladies have been forwarded as volunteers for the work of probationary nurses in militia hospitals in England.

running back to the pier, and connected with powerful air compressors. Additional piping laid around the pier is also connected, making about 800 feet in all. When a storm comes up the compressors are started. When the waves roll in they encounter millions of air bubbles which rise from the perforated pipes. These bubbles break up the waves so completely as to overcome their destructive force. As this pier is an expensive structure and part of it was destroyed by
