Patron of Pike Finds It Hard to Win For Several Reasons

The pike of an exhibition always attracts many who visit the main exhibits for there is a lure about "paying your money and taking your choice" even though you know you cannot take your choice. The pike at the local exhibition is no exception and last evening thousands of people stopped at the various booths to try their luck.

There is a wonderful array of dolls which are the furniture booth of A. Ernest Everett, a prominent feature of which is the display of beautifully finished "hope chests" which proved an attraction to many of the young lady visitors.

The next booth is occupied by Starr Photographs, and adjoining it is a display of Ganong's and Phillips' candy.

Opposite this is the furniture exhibit of Manchester, Robertson, Allison, Limited, where several comfortable looking pieces of upholstered furniture are on display, illuminated by tastefully arranged parlor lamps.

Waterbury & Rising have an exhibit of footware, a feature of which is a display of the latest styles in shoes.

Another booth is devoted to wooden berry boxes made by the boys of the Industrial Home at East St. John.

LIVE STOCK.

The exhibit is of a high order and well up to the standard set in previous years both in numbers and quality.

The accredited government inspected herds are of particularly fine class and contain many splendid animals.

The Sussex Manufacturing Co., Ltd., exhibits samples of its fine products in school desks and refrigerators.

The McLaughlin Motor Co., Ltd., exhibits several of the latest model cars made by the firm and occupies a large section of the south wing.

The Magic Baking Powder is being demonstrated by the E. W. Gillett Co., of Toronto, in a booth that is the scene of much activity.

Th Red Cross Nursery, where babies may be left in care of the Red Cross Workers, is in one corner of the south wing.

The McDonald Piano and Music Company has an exhibit of Amherst pianos and Cremonese talking machines and has arranged for demonstrations of the quality of the instruments.

Murray & Gregory, Ltd., St. John, in their model cottage are featuring their beveled glass set in copper, covered glass, the new washable wall covering "San-Ox," roofing, ornamental doors and many other fixtures and materials for the interior and exterior of buildings.

Beatty Brothers, Ltd., manufacturers of electric washers, exhibit their White Cap Electric Washers, demonstrating their patent device.

The Webb Electric Co., Ltd., in its ornamental octagonal booth, displays a large assortment of electric appliances, electric lamps and lamp fixtures.

A concession nearby is given over to the sale of pop corn and another concession nicely decorated is used for the sale of ice cream and sandwiches.

The Gallery.
The upper floor of the main building presents a striking and attractive appearance. At the head of the staircase, opposite the grandstand, Oak Hall has an effective exhibit of men's and women's fashions, in demonstrating which several lifelike models are used.

On one side of the Oak Hall booth is a display of Fuller brushes, and on the other one by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Limited, the chief feature of which is an illuminated model of the company's head office building in New York.

Next in line is an exhibit of Sonora photographs and pianos, after which comes a display of high class boots and shoes by the Hart Company, Limited, of Fredericton.

H. Horton & Sons, Limited, have a striking corner booth in which suit cases, trunks and leather goods are set off to advantage.

On the opposite corner Haley Brothers have an attractive display in the form of a furnished room, the interior of which is sheathed in a new wall boarding carried by the firm.

At the end of the wing G. E. Barbour Co., Ltd. have an attractive tea room where King Cole tea is served.

Next is the booth of the St. John branch of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council.

Across the corridor leading to the women's work exhibit is a display of Ganong's and Phillips' candy.

The Appliances Counter Checkbook Company, Limited, have an exhibit of wrapped foods.

SLEEPWALKER GETS JAMMED IN CHIMNEY

Firemen Called to Rescue Lad, a Captive All Night.

Huntington, L. I., Sept. 5.—Firemen extricated Marston Coffin, 19 years old, from the chimney of the Archie Roosevelt home on Turkey Lane, Cold Spring Harbor, into which he climbed and became wedged while walking in his sleep.

The Coffin family had rented the house for the summer. Marston Coffin had shown no previous tendency toward somnambulism. While asleep, he arose, opened a dormer window and walked out upon the roof. The brick chimney was breast-high and he climbed and became wedged while walking in his sleep.

HUGHES IN FAVOR OF NAVY CURB

U. S. Secretary of State Says That Armaments Will be Limited.

CANADA HONORED
Premier King Lauds American Statesman at Bar Meeting.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—Pressing economic rivalries of nations, like armaments, will be kept within reasonable limits "at no distant day," the Secretary made here tonight by Hon. Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State for the United States, on the occasion of his address delivered at the evening session of the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association.

Hon. Mr. King.
Premier King said that as a people Canadians felt not a little honored that in the midst of his busy life, he should have found it possible to visit Canada and address the Canadian Bar Association at its eighth annual meeting here.

He did not awake until shortly after daylight. Then his muffled cries were heard by other members of the family. They traced the cries to the kitchen and to the fireplace. A rope was dropped down the chimney from the roof, but the boy was unable to grasp it. Other means of rescue failing, the family summoned the Cold Spring Harbor Fire Department.

The firemen worked for more than an hour and finally had to batter down a large portion of the lower end of the chimney. Dr. William Gibson of Huntington, who treated the boy, said he appeared to have suffered nothing more than fright.

LEWIS' NEW YEAR COMES NEXT WEEK
Legend Makes It the 3684th Year Since Creation of the World

(From Jewish Torah Commission.)
The Jewish New Year, or Rosh Hashanah, will be celebrated in all Jewish places of worship on Monday evening September 10 and on Tuesday morning, September 11.

The more ritualistic New Year is observed two days. Rosh Hashanah marks the beginning of a new year in a religious sense, and it is therefore not to be confused with the secular New Year since it is a day not to mark time but to register anew, high religious tenets were undoubtedly evolved in part after the time of Ezra.

The lofty ideas which are associated with these holy days were gradually interwoven in various eras and under different influences.

Rosh Hashanah falls on the first day of the Jewish judgment of the Hebrew calendar. This day "shall be a solemn rest unto you, a memorial proclaimed with the blasts of horns, a holy convocation," as it is written in Leviticus 23:24.

The rabbi has conceived the first day of the holy month of Tishri as a day of serene judgment when God meets out to each his destiny in accordance with his deeds as recorded in the Book of Life.

The day of judgment of the Shofar (ram's horn) sounded on this day call the congregation of Israel to repent and to improve their ways. The three blasts of the Shofar which tradition has fixed for the liturgy of the New Year proclaim three supreme conceptions of Judaism, namely, that God is King of the world; that He is Judge who judges men and nations in righteousness according to their deeds and thoughts; and that He is Ruler of history.

The Day of Judgment is thus set by the Jewish religion in this life and not in an after-world. The main purpose of the New Year is to render it a day of the renewal of the heart, so that man may put himself in rapport with God who inhabits eternity. The worshiper may restore his flagging faith in man and lift the clouds of despondency that engulf him are among the many salutary purposes invoked on this holy day.
