

CANADIAN OFFICIALS FOR OLYMPIC CONTESTS CHOSEN AND ANNOUNCED

Final Trials in June; Winners May Not All be Selected.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Officers in charge of the Canadian Olympic contestants in Paris next year were officially announced last night by P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee. J. H. Crocker of the Y. M. C. A. will be general manager of the trip, with Captain Cornelius of Hamilton, chief coach of the track and field athletes, and W. A. Hewitt in charge of the Canadian hockey champions of Canada, which will be known as the Canadian Hockey Club. Dr. Lamb, physician of McGill University, Montreal, and J. I. Morfin of Winnipeg, former president of the Manitoba A. A. A., will be associate coaches to act in advisory capacity.

The appointment of Captain Cornelius as coach of the track and field team follows success in that capacity in Hamilton, where he handled the Hamilton C. A. athletes, who were winners in practically every athletic meet they competed in. I. Francis, who recently broke the Canadian pole vault record, and who is expected to represent Canada in Paris, is one of his students.

Dr. Lamb and J. I. Morfin will assist in the choosing of the Canadian team and the training of it, but are not expected to make the journey to the games.

The Olympic trials will be held in Montreal in June so that the contestants in the games in Paris can continue on their journey without delay. It is understood that only athletes showing performances capable of winning points in Paris will be sent, irrespective of whether they are winners at the Montreal trials or not.

Mr. Mulqueen said, in making the announcement, that the officials had been selected and agreed upon as representative of all Canada.

GIRL SAVES THREE IN DOUBLE KILLING

Wife Murderer Takes Own
Life, But Children Escape.

New York, Oct. 24.—Grappling with his drink-crazed brother-in-law, who had shot and killed his wife and was about to kill himself and several small children, seven-year-old Hazel Tucker saved the lives of her young brother and sister and her dead sister's four-month-old infant. The slight, golden-haired girl fought Andrew Bogert, aged 35, and managed to get the children out of the basement of the apartment just before Bogert fired a shot through his own head.

Mrs. Katherine Bogert, the woman killed, was married to Andy Bogert nearly two years ago, and they had known each other some years. She had been an active worker in the church, over which the late Mr. James J. Flood presided, and the wedding was an event in the neighborhood. But even then Bogert was insanely jealous of the girl he had married after several years' courtship. In addition to this, he drank heavily at times.

The combination of the two factors resulted in the double tragedy in the basement of the Eighty-fifth street house. The story of Hazel's heroism was sobbed out by that child last night as she sat by the bier of her sister in the little Tucker home over near Third avenue.

Each week end Hazel, her little brother Gerald and seven-year-old Alice would go to the West Side to visit with their married sister over Saturday and Sunday. Hazel had put Alice to bed and was getting Gerald ready to say his prayers when her sister died. In the adjoining room in the basement apartment, Bogert had been drinking and was accusing his wife of seeing other men.

Suddenly he pulled out a revolver and fired a shot at his wife, striking her in the mouth. She was nursing her infant and the baby fell from her arms, striking his head on the floor. Bogert kicked the infant aside.

Hazel jumped for Bogert and grabbed his wrist, twisting it. Bogert beat the child and she struggled with him and fired the pistol again, the bullet passing close to the girl's face. He knocked her to the floor and went into the next room, where he fired another shot through his wife's head. The girl, recovering from the momentary shock, ran to the infant, picking him up she herded the other two children before her into the basement as Bogert came back and started shooting at them. As the children ran up the basement stairs he fired a shot through his own head.

The little heroine ran to the street and with the baby in her arms drove in a taxi to the West 100th street station, leaving the two other children in care of several neighbors. Detectives returned with her and found the bodies of Bogert and his wife.

SAYS JUVENILE LAW NOT NOW ENFORCED

The city by-law which forbade juveniles to attend places of entertainment at night unless properly chaperoned was not being enforced, it was said at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday and the members were strongly of the opinion that the matter should be looked into. It was said that young girls were frequenting the picture houses and other public places at night without chaperones and that they were greatly in need of supervision. Mrs. Hope Thomson, the president, was in the chair and the meeting was well attended. Attention was drawn to the fact that certain books which dealt with the subject of equal moral standards and which were for boys and girls were not to be found in the public library. The two books referred to were written by Dr. Winifred Hall and when it was suggested that the W. C. T. U. should purchase the two books and present them to the library the motion received unanimous approval.

Both matters were brought before the meeting by Mrs. H. P. Newcomb.

Letters To The Editor

ADVOCATES A BABY SHOW.

To the Editor of The Times:—
Sir,—Why not have baby shows in this city as they have in America? I have a baby that I will match with any baby in the city or province for her age.

They have dog shows in your city, so why not a baby show, too?

Thanking you for space, I am, now and always, a
"LOVER OF LOVELY BABIES."
St. John, Dec. 22.
