JEROME TAKES ACTION IN THE THAW MURDER CASE.
Trial Will Begin Early in October—Warrants for Witnesses Now Being Issued.

NEW YORK, July 12.—District Attorney Jerome returned to New York today from his summer home in Lakeville, Conn., and plunged into the Harry Thaw murder case. With Assistant District Attorney Garvan he spent several hours up town and it is said the two prosecutors had interviews with important witnesses. Neither Mr. Jerome nor his assistant would discuss their conference when they returned to the criminal courts building but it was rumored that important developments soon are expected.

It was reported that it is the intention of District Attorney Jerome to put Harry Thaw on trial the first Monday in October for the murder of Stanford White. Whether the trial will take place in the court of general sessions or whether it will be transferred to the criminal branch of the supreme court has not been decided.

Mr. Jerome will personally conduct the prosecution, assisted by Mr. Garvan. If the trial is held in part I of general sessions, it will be before Judge Otto A. Trosky.

It is known that some of the prosecution's warrants, among them Miss May Mackenzie, are already under subpoena to attend part I of general sessions October 1. The subpoenas are all made out in the case of "The People of the State of New York against Harry K. Thaw."

It is expected that a special panel of jurors will be summoned to court for the October terms and that it will take probably a week before the jury box will be filled.

CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND.
The scene of interesting developments in the canned meat and allied industries is being transferred from America to England and a report recently made of conditions found there is about as cheerful reading as Upton Sinclair's book. A careful inspection has been made and the report shows that the British public have good reason to first clean their own houses before demanding reforms in America. When the statements concerning Chicago were made, and when the excitement was at its height, a writer in one of the leading London dailies suggested that if an investigation were made at home, the people would find that they had very little room to criticize. He made the alarming declaration that only a few days before, one of the largest manufacturers of marmalade had completed a contract with the management of certain theatres for all the sweepings from the gallery, the orange peel which was secured to be made into marmalade. He also asserted that in the manufacture of certain articles there were used foreign substances which would ruin the sale of these commodities if the public knew the truth. These stories like The Jungle were received as gross exaggerations, for the conservative Britisher had been living in the delusion that there could be no fault found with the manufacture of food products at home.

The report which has just been presented shows how different the actual conditions are and how urgently reforms are needed. It has been simply a case of the British citizen failing to see the boys in his own eye. The probably become aware of the true state of affairs before now and will energetically take the necessary action towards the bettering of conditions. In certain lines of goods the export to America is very large and a failure to prove that cleanliness is observed in the manufacture would result in the loss of the greater part of the American trade.

According to the report, dirty factories and revolting methods are the rule. "Jam factories, bakeries and sausage makers are all censured as being equally filthy and unclean." The report on a typical jam factory is as follows: "The boiling room lay between the yard and the stable and the horses reached the latter through the boiling room. The sanitary accommodation was hardly separated from the rooms where the fresh fruit and uncovered jam were kept and the factory inspector found jam pots being washed in 'liquid like dark soup, which smelled abominably.' The manager informed the inspector that the water was changed 'about once a week.' When fished out of these evil smelling tanks the pots were allowed to stand until dry, when they were considered to be ready to receive fresh instalments of preserves.

Inspectors of bakeries found that it was a frequent custom to bathe the children in them after the close of work on Saturdays. 'The sausage factories,' says the report, 'are insanitary, badly lit and often infested by rats.'

THE PROPOSED CITY HALL.
St. John needs a new city hall. The building which is now in use is by no means creditable, nor is there sufficient accommodation in it for the various departments. But the question which is to be considered is whether the city can afford new offices. Where is the money to come from? The city debt is five million dollars, debentures are not eagerly sought, interest charges are fairly high, and money is scarce. It would seem rather an extravagant policy for the aldermen to decide on the erection of a new building while the finances are in such a condition and while there is such a pressing need for other improvements. Yet if the members of the council seriously consider the project in the same way as they would be considered in whether the city can afford new offices, they will be disappointed, badly lit and often infested by rats."

THE CLOSE OF THE SESSION.
The session of parliament which ends today has not been a short one, but rather of the ordinary length. During the months which have elapsed since the house met one or two bills of some moment have been considered. The act providing for the construction of certain branch railways and the new Sunday observance law, have perhaps been the most valuable, but on the whole the session has not been marked by any very important legislation. A lot of time has been spent in enquiries by the opposition and explanations by the government, and there have been one or two rather sensational incidents.

Upton Sinclair's story, The Jungle, dealing with life in Chicago's Packingtown is the most talked of book of the year. It will be published in the Sun, the first instalment appearing tomorrow.

LOVE'S TRAMWAY.
Love is a rapid transit line. Much like the modern trolley—Gold bounded, and, in short, a fine investment for your Folly.

Its car are crowded, wet or fair; Men, maid and widows hurry To get aboard and pay their share Of dividends in Worry.

From Sweetheart Square the line goes down To Nuptial Park (suburban), Connecting thence to Haremtown For wearers of the turban.

British manufacturers have taken an important step in sending to Canada an agent who will report upon the best means of establishing commercial agents in this country. It is evident that the value of the Canadian market is impressing itself upon home producers, and also that in these days of keen competition old time methods of business are not all that are required.

In the face of such a storm as that of last night, doesn't a man feel small? Parliament has given and parliament has taken away, and an Upper Canadian paper suggests that the ex-ministers may now rise up and say, "Blessed be the name of parliament."

The Star offers a splendid opportunity to all persons to secure season tickets for the exhibition. Full particulars appear elsewhere in this paper.

A branch extends to Quarrelville, To serve the heavy spenders; And cars to Alimony Hill, Go loaded to the hilt withenders.

Crowds get aboard at Rival Row, But no one gives his seat up, And those who sit no interest show Except to draw their feet up.

At Fickle Street there's quite a stir—Some take a new direction, Obtaining there a free transfer To Avenue Rejection.

For those with hearts already caged The common public scolding, The special parlor car "Engaged" Is run till early morning.

Dan Cupid is the motorcar, And the conductor hymens, Shouts in a voice stentorian, "Step lively, please!" to shy men.

The power plant is at the Mint, And when the current ceases, It's most amazing how that hint The patronage decreases.

When there's an accident, it starts The lawyers on their mettle, With claims for fractured hopes and hearts, And some one has to settle.

No threat of bankruptcy assails A road financed as this is—Men pay their fares in fairy tales And make pay theirs in kisses.

For women folk, however, there are two quite separate classes; The lovely maid alone pay fare—The others ride on passes.

SENSATION DEVELOPED IN HARTJE DIVORCE CASE
The Wife Says She Never Wrote the Letters Upon Which the Action is Based—Handwriting Experts Support Her.

PITTSBURGH, July 12.—Mary Scott Hartje, who is contesting a suit for divorce brought by her husband, Augustus Hartje, the millionaire manufacturer, was the startling witness when the case was taken up today, after a week's adjournment during which counsel for both sides with handwriting experts examined the letters that Mrs. Hartje is alleged to have written and which figure prominently in the case. Mrs. Hartje threw the counsel for her husband into some what of a disconcerted attitude when she flatly contradicted her testimony of last week and denied that she ever wrote the Ruse Wagner letter, known as exhibit No. 4. This letter is one of the "Standards" in the case and form a large part of the premise in the case from which the handwriting experts for her husband argued that she wrote the famous forty letters alleged to have been written by her to "Tom" Madine.

The sensation thus produced was further heightened when David N. Carvalho, the handwriting expert was called for Mrs. Hartje and declared on the stand that the torn and mutilated exhibit No. 35, on which the case is based, was a "forged and mutilated document."

He said he had noticed 3 distinct handwritings in the exhibit. When the case was resumed at 2 o'clock, Carvalho went on the stand and reiterated his testimony, adding that the cardboard letter was "fabricated" and was not in the handwriting of anyone whose penmanship had been exhibited in the case.

Dr. Marshall D. Ewell, the Chicago handwriting expert, followed Carvalho on the stand and corroborated him. Both said the letters they had examined were in the same handwriting as the Wagner letter. Court adjourned for the day with D. Ewell on the stand. Both Carvalho and Ewell will be called to the stand again tomorrow.
